Sharp Thunderstorm Breaks Over Area, Most of State

Several Crashes Occur in County

No Serious Injuries Are Reported on Icy Roads

Although several traffic mishaps occurred on ice-glazed highways in Ulster county early today, no serious personal injuries were reported to state police.

Troopers at the Highland station reported that a south-bound automobile driven by James Ringwood, 40, of 224 Main street, Poughkeepsie, was hit in quick succession by three north-bound vehicles on an icy curve on Route 9W at Milton about 7:30 a. m. today.

Ringwood was negotiating a curve when an automobile being driven in the opposite direction by Frank Berean, 55, of Marlborough, skidded and struck Ringwood's car head-on, troopers said. Berean's vehicle bounced off, crossed the highway and went off the east side. Frank Tuttle, 27, of Meadow avenue, Newburgh, who was following Berean, then lost control of his automobile on the icy pavement and its right side struck the Ringwood car, troopers reported. Finally, a fourth automobile, driven by Arthur Ames, 69, of 242 First street, Newburgh, skidded across the pavement and struck the Ringwood vehicle, which by this time was considerably battered and had to be towed away, troopers said. Berean's sedan also had to be towed away, but no personal injuries were reported.

Blocked Two Hours

The two northbound lanes on Route 9W near the Highland traffic circle were blocked for two hours after a tractor trailer overturned there about 4:40 a. m. today, state police at Highland reported. The driver, Harold Mitchell, 55, of Fulton, suffered lacerations of the face and body after the truck skidded into an embankment on the east side of the highway and overturned, troopers said. The tractor truck, owned by Oswego Transportation Company of Oswego, and its cargo of beer in cans and bottles were considerably damaged, according to the report.

At 3 a. m. today, an automobile driven by Charles J. Vigna, 31, of R.D. 3, Saugerties, struck the left front end of a tractor trailer which had stopped in the northbound lane of Route 9W by-pass one mile north of Kingston, preparing to make a turn in a southerly direction on the highway after leaving a garage, troopers reported. The tractor trailer was owned by George Taylor of R.D. 2, Syracuse, and driven by Donald Duane Robb, 22, of Marcellus, troopers said.

A tractor trailer owned by C. Moore of Prattsville and driven by Charles Francis, 32, of Lexington, skidded on Route 9W at West Park at 1:45 a. m. today and its left drive wheels struck and damaged an automobile driven in the opposite direction by Joseph Massa, 30, of 59 West Chester street, Kingston, troopers reported. The car was considerably damaged but no personal injuries were reported to troopers at the time of the accident.

Freak Weather Also Accompanied by Lightning Flashes

Yesterday's mildness, generally described as "springlike," turned more summery, at least in effect, early today when thunder rumbled over the area in a deep January freak storm.

The mercury was but two to three points above freezing when the storm hit Kingston and vicinity between 5 and 6 a. m.

The Associated Press reported similar storms this morning in Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse, Westchester and Rockland counties and northern New Jersey.

Ice which formed on area highways and city streets last night become more hazardous to travel when the rain of the early morning storm also froze. Sand crews had been sent out during the night, but more sand was needed following the rain this morning.

The city engineer's office reported the mercury at between 35 and 36 degrees between 5:30 and 6 a. m., but it was colder in various parts of the county at the time of the storm.

The Weather Bureau said thunderstorms were "very much out of the ordinary at this time of the year," and meteorologists said warm air that moved into the state erected turbulence when it came in contact with colder air at higher elevations and that this caused the lightning and thunder.

The high temperature here yesterday was 51 degrees and the overnight low was 32 degrees at 3 a. m. today.

The lightning today was of the typical summer type and the thunder was of the high and rumbling

Donofrio Placed Under First Degree Murder Charge

New York, Jan. 19 (AP)—Pasquale Donofrio, 38-year-old house painter accused in the dime-locker torso slaying of his common-law wife, Dorothy Martin, 36, of Saugerties, was under a first-degree murder indictment today.

The charge was turned in late yesterday by a Brooklyn grand jury to Kings county Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz.

Donofrio, arrested 11 days ago as he sought to flee through the rooftop of his apartment house, pleaded innocent at his arraignment. He was held without bail.

Trial in March

The judge set the trial for an unspecified date in early March.

Donofrio allegedly strangled Miss Martin after an argument following a drinking bout in the Brooklyn apartment they shared, and sliced her body into four pieces. The dismembered torso was found Dec. 4 in two dime lockers in a Brooklyn railroad station.

Failure of relatives to receive a customary Christmas card from Miss Martin led to her identification, and an anonymous tip directed police to Donofrio.

Soft Coal Wage Pact Will Not Be Affected by Order

All but Few Operators Agree to Increase for Miners; Price Is Boosted

Washington, Jan. 19 (AP)—Most of the soft coal industry was committed today to a new 14-month wage agreement under which John L. Lewis received a $1.60 daily pay boost for the nation's miners.

Influential government officials predicted it would not be nullified by the price and wage control program which Washington generally believes will be announced within a week or so.

All but a few scattered operator groups agreed to what amounts to a ten per cent pay increase for the miners. Industry spokesmen quickly announced price increases on bituminous coal at the pits amounting to five or six per cent.

The major elements of the industry agreed to the pact expiring March 31, 1952. Lewis called it a "bread and butter" contract for his 400,000 miners. The soft coal miners' basic wage for an eight-hour day is now $14.75.

President Complains About Press

Declares His Statement About Troops Was Not Used; Reporters Contradict

Correspondents Assert Truman's Remarks Ran in Full

Washington, Jan. 19 (AP)—President Truman said yesterday not one newspaper in the United States quoted his statement that he would consult Congres before sending troops to western Europe. Reporters quickly challenged this, saying it was widely printed.

Mr. Truman gave no ground. Laying his charge before his weekly news conference, he said he didn't blame the reporters, they may have covered his statement; but the rewrite sometimes marks things out. (He meant the men who edit reporters' stories for printing on wire transmission).

The President, at a news conference last Tuesday, outlined his official position on the sharply debated issue of his right to dispatch the troops. He said he has the power to send them anywhere he thinks they are needed but that as a matter of courtesy he usually consults Congress. He added the consultations would be with the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees.

Mr. Truman said at the same news conference that if Congress tried to prevent his taking this action he would carry the question to the American people. He added: I licked 'em once.

Remarks Published

Newspapers over the country published his remarks.

Like a school master trying to be kind to his pupils, the President told the roomful of newspapermen yesterday:

You know, there is a peculiar situation sometimes that arises here. Last week, he continued, he made it perfectly plain exactly what he would like to do with the legislative branch of the government. He said the statement that he made about consultation was not quoted in a single paper in the United States.

The President likewise complained that at a Nov. 30 conference the question about use of

Dewey Says He Feels Same As in Fall About Presidency

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 19 (AP)—Governor Dewey's renewed endorsement of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for president slowed down but did not halt speculation that Dewey is eyeing a third chance at the White House.

During his re-election campaign for governor last fall, Dewey said he favored Eisenhower for the 1952 Republican presidential nomination.

Asked by a reporter yesterday whether he were "still for General Eisenhower for president," Dewey replied:

"I have not changed any of the opinions on that subject I have expressed before."

Many observers recalled that Dewey changed his mind about retiring as governor last year and ran for a third term. He said the grave international situation was the reason for his about face.

Political kibitzers reason that the international picture apparently will get worse and that Dewey though twice-defeated in bids for the presidency, could change his mind and try again. Eisenhower, they argue, well might be deeply preoccupied with military matters for some time.

Dewey also said last fall that he did not believe Eisenhower's acceptance of command of the North Atlantic Pact military forces would make "Ike" unavailable for the presidential nomination.

Eisenhower, who frequently has disclaimed interest in political office, was appointed to that command by the foreign ministers who met in Brussels recently.

Dewey's reaffirmation of support of Eisenhower for president came as speculation was gaining momentum that Dewey himself was a serious potential contender again.

This seeming resurgence of Dewey as a presidential possibility was based on several factors.

They include his re-election as governon by more than half-a-million votes; his blunt pronouncement in favor of a strong U. S. foreign policy to combat communism on a world-wide basis, and his stinging criticism of President Truman's home-front policies despite support of the administration's present foreign policy.

Dewey reportedly considers isolationist or neo-isolationist foreign policies as perilous to the nation's existence.

He feels strongly that Liberal-Internationalists, rather than Conservatives, should control the GOP and its 1952 presidential convention. Some observers regard Dewey and Senator Robert A. Taft as leaders of these rival blocs.

Some politicians suggest that Dewey, by endorsing Eisenhower for president, well might fall political heir to "Ike's" popular following—in the party and out—if the general stands firm against running.

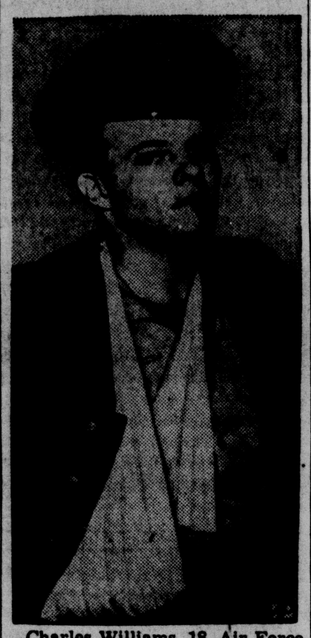

On a television program last Oct. 15, Dewey was asked whether he had decided to run for governor again because of a possibility it might give him another shot at White House.

"No that one is out," he replied. "I am definitely and finally removed. I removed myself by letter about 18 months ago and that is beyond consideration."

Asked whether he had any candidate for the presential nomination in mind, Dewey said:

". . . If I should be re-elected governor and have influence with the New York delegation, I would recommend to them that they support Gen. Eisenhower for president if he would accept the draft."

U.N. Stand Weak As Regards Chinese Activity in Korea

Non-Communist Nations Split Over Problem; 12 Arab Nations Call Session

Lake Success, Jan. 19 (AP)—A split among the non-Communist nations raised the prospect today that the United Nations will speak weakly, if at all, in answer to the United States demand for condemnation of Communist China as an aggressor in Korea.

Twelve Arab-Asian nations, contending that Peiping's rejection of the U.N.'s latest cease-fire bid did not say "positively," called an emergency session (11 a. m. EST) to consider still another appeal to the Chinese.

An Indonesian foreign office spokesman in Jakarta depicted the split clearly today. He told a news conference that condemnation of Red China as an aggressor "would make the chances to keep world peace slimmer." He said Indonesia believes the Communist regime in China should be given a U.N. seat to ease present international tension.

Indonesia Is One of 12

Indonesia is one of the 12 nations which want to give China still another chance at a cease-fire offer.

Any such proposal they may adopt will run head-on into a U.S. demand that the U.N. denounce Red China as an aggressor and take appropriate measures against it.

U. S. Delegate Warren R. Austin, in a stinging denunciation of the Peiping regime yesterday, demanded that the world organization face facts and condemn the Communists.

Senate Approval Of Troops Viewed As Coming Soon

Senator Taft's Agreement Takes Much Out of Opposition to Transfer

Washington, Jan. 19 (AP)—The Senate appeared headed today toward a vote late this month approving the use of American ground forces to bolster western Europe's defenses.

An indication by Senator Taft (R-Ohio) that he will support the transfer of a limited number of divisions — when they become available — took much of the starch out of opposition to a move President Truman has said he will make if necessary without Congress' approval.

Most Democrats apparently favor committing ground troops to the proposed international army and many Republicans have indicated they regard such a move as inevitable.

Favors Ceiling

However, Taft made it plain he believes Congress should put a ceiling on the number of foot soldiers to be dispatched. This promised to provide another controversy.

Taft would not say what he thinks the ceiling should be. Most speculation has placed this country's contribution at from five to ten divisions.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee is preparing a resolution of approval. But in its preliminary form the measure merely would place the Senate on record as supporting the extension of military assistance to Atlantic Pact partners, apparently without spelling out the terms.

Mr. Truman told his news conference yesterday he would appreciate it highly if Democratic leaders would push such a resolution to a vote in the Senate.

Discussed, Not Agreed

Taft said the Republican Policy Committee, which he heads, discussed but did not agree on procedure to be followed on a resolution by Senator Wherry of Nebraska to ban the sending of troops to Europe until Congress acts on the question. Wherry is G.O.P. floor leader.

Most Republicans probably would agree to have the resolution sent to a Senate committee where hearings could be held, if there was some guarantee that the issue would get prompt action, Taft said.

He said that although the policy committee didn't want to make it a party matter, he thinks most Republicans would vote for Wherry's proposal in the absence of any such guarantee.

Accuses Democrats

New York, Jan. 19 (AP)—William L. Pfeiffer, New York state Republican chairman, defended last night Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's proposed civil defense law. He accused the Democrats of "playing politics as usual." The Democrats, Pfeiffer said, gave the bill no consideration on its merits and offered no constructive criticism.

Vandenberg Says General Speaks for Himself Only

By BILL BECKER

March Air Force Base, Calif., Jan. 19 (AP)—Nothing less than the atom bomb "will put the hex" on the Chinese Communists now, says Maj. Gen. Emmett (Rosie) O'Donnell, the man who directed the first six months of United Nations' bombing in Korea.

His fighting opinions which raised a stir in Washington, were made clear yesterday as he told a news conference:

"We can't continue to fight under Marquis of Queensbury rules when we are fighting thugs who are going to hit you on the back of the head with an axe. We should use the weapon most effective and not get mixed up further with a lot of knotheads. . .

"I think we'd be very effective with the ultimate weapon against Red China."

Asked by this reporter to define "ultimate weapon," the general replied: "The atomic bomb."

"They'll understand the lash when it's put to them," he added.

Asked if the United Nations should have used the A-bomb or should still use the A-bomb against Chinese Reds in Korea, O'Donnell replied:

"I believe we should have cracked the Chinese Communists hard and smacked the hell out of them as soon as we had them identified after they crossed the (Yalu) river.

'Nothing Else to Do'

"There's nothing else we can do now that will put the hex on them."

In Washington, the White House and Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, air force chief of staff, made it plain "General O'Donnell is speaking for himself."

"And not the United States government," added Joseph Short, Secretary to President Truman.

"And not the air force," declared Gen. Vandenberg, who previously had answered queries about possible A-bomb use against Manchurian and Chinese cities with:

"I venture to guess we first would have to find out what military objectives were in that area, and then decide whether to waste an A-bomb. I say 'waste' because perhaps those targets could be destroyed just as well by weapons which should be used against war-making potential rather than against people."

Police Chief's Report Shows Kingston Has Small Staff

Police Chief Raymond Van Buren's annual report to the Board of Police Commissioners yesterday showed the local department staffed considerably under Newburgh and Poughkeepsie.

The 59th annual report gave the total of the local force as 38 officers and men "with one vacancy caused by the retirement of Officer Welch. Four women for school traffic."

The number of personnel of the police department compared with the personnel of Newburgh and Poughkeepsie is much less," it said. "In 1949 Newburgh had 62 men and Poughkeepsie had 70 men." The figures are from the New York State Conference of Mayors, Bureau of Municipal Information.

The report showed 180 automobile accidents in the city during 1950 in which three persons were killed and 237 claimed injuries, and the chief noted that "Serious auto accidents in the City of Kingston have been few compared with other cities throughout the state."

A total of 815 arrests were made during the year, and of these, the highest, 294, were on charges of public intoxication. Next were 154 for violations of the Vehicle and Traffic Law, 128 for violations of the city traffic code, and 123 for disorderly conduct.

Big Enemy Force Is Cut At Yongwol

Communists' Patrols Attempt to Close Gaps Between U.N., Red Troops

Drive Is Expected

Allied Leaders Await Chinese Offensive on Big Scale

Tokyo, Jan. 19 (AP)—A United Nations prowl force reoccupied the ruined and bandoned road-rail hub of Wonju today without meeting any opposition.

Two air-supported allied attack regiments on another sector of the snowclad east-central Korean battlefront killed 1,000 Reds and routed the remainder of their strong force in a continuing fight.

A big Red offensive effort was still expected to break out all across the peninsula at any time.

Allied patrols have been entering and leaving Wonju, the key traffic junction in central Korea, since the U. S. Second Division withdrew Tuesday from a looping line two miles south of the town.

Only civilians were on hand to watch the reinforced patrol reenter Wonju Friday.

Big Force Smashed

The two U.N. attack regiments —normally 6,000 men—smashed a large enemy force seven miles southeast of Yongwol, on the eastern end of the war front.

"We put the enemy on the run," an officer said tersely.

The fight started Thursday and was still raging today. Yongwol is 33 miles northeast of Chungju, allied-held highway center, and 13 miles east of Chechon.

Seven hundred of the enemy were killed by air strikes and the remainder by ground troops. Bodies were counted in the snow where they lay sprawled.

The battle near Yongwol came during sharp patrol actions, crackling all along the Korean war front, that looked like preliminaries of a third major drive by Chinese and North Korean Reds down the center of the peninsula. Communist forces continued to shift to central and eastern sectors in a way reminiscent of the two previous enemy offensives—the plunge across the Chungchon river and the drive into Seoul.

Attack Not Offensive

The allied attack around Yongwol was not classed as an offensive but an officer said: "It must be quite a scrap. The area is full of those jokers."

Elsewhere along the front Communist patrols tried to close gaps between Red and U.N. forces after two weeks of Red inaction. Particularly threatening was the shift of enemy forces toward the center and east.

However, heaviest Red concentrations still were in the west, south of Seoul, where three Chinese armies totaling about 90,000 men were feeding some of their strength to the central and eastern sectors.

Associated Press Correspondent Don Huth reported from Eighth Army Headquarters it appeared "possible that the long-awaited Red offensive to drive the U.N. troops from Korea may start rolling again soon."

Huth said elements of a Red Chinese division were seen moving 16 miles east of Suwon, 17 miles south of Seoul. An air observer said the Chinese were digging in Thursday night along a river 14 miles northeast of Suwon.

Sending Sizeable Forces

An Eighth Army spokesman said the enemy was sending sizeable forces southward along the central front. South Korean police and civilians saw one element of between 500 and 3,000 Reds sneaking eastward from the central sector.

In the midst of ominous indications heralding a full-scale Red offensive came a hint Friday from General MacArthur's headquarters that a shift of generals might be expected in Korea. A headquarters statement said:

"The Department of the Army has indicated to this headquarters its desire to establish a rotation policy for general officers who have participated lengthily in the Korean campaign so that their experience could be utilized in the training programs necessitated by

Arborio Firm Gets Notch Road Job To Cut Bad Curves

Another section of the "Notch Road" in Greene county between Stony Clove and Kaaterskill Junction will be reconstructed this year. The section is about a mile and a half in length and will be constructed of gravel with bituminous surface. The completed roadway will be 20 feet wide, replacing a narrow, twisting piece of dirt road which has been the subject of considerable controversy during the past few years.

Residents of the area refused to send children to school for some time because of the dangerous condition of the old roadway over which they were required to pass in school buses.

Bertram D. Tallamy, superintendent of public works, has announced the awarding of a contract for the construction to John Arborio, Inc., of Poughkeepsie for the sum of $203,242.80. The contract includes construction of two bridges. Considerable of the roadway will be over a new alignment which will eliminate many curves and grades.

The road is a section of Route 214 and the contact begins a mile north of Stony Clove and connects up sections of the route already completed.

Under the contract work is to be completed by December 1, 1951. Traffic will be maintained during construction.

The fight started Thursday and was still raging today. Yongwol is 33 miles northeast of Chungju, allied-held highway center, and 13 miles east of Chechon.

Seven hundred of the enemy were killed by air strikes and the remainder by ground troops. Bodies were counted in the snow where they lay sprawled.

The battle near Yongwol came during sharp patrol actions, crackling all along the Korean war front, that looked like preliminaries of a third major drive by Chinese and North Korean Reds down the center of the peninsula. Communist forces continued to shift to central and eastern sectors in a way reminiscent of the two previous enemy offensives—the plunge across the Chungchon river and the drive into Seoul.

Attack Not Offensive

The allied attack around Yongwol was not classed as an offensive but an officer said: "It must be quite a scrap. The area is full of those jokers."

Elsewhere along the front Communist patrols tried to close gaps between Red and U.N. forces after two weeks of Red inaction. Particularly threatening was the shift of enemy forces toward the center and east.

However, heaviest Red concentrations still were in the west, south of Seoul, where three Chinese armies totaling about 90,000 men were feeding some of their strength to the central and eastern sectors.

Associated Press Correspondent Don Huth reported from Eighth Army Headquarters it appeared "possible that the long-awaited Red offensive to drive the U.N. troops from Korea may start rolling again soon."

Huth said elements of a Red Chinese division were seen moving 16 miles east of Suwon, 17 miles south of Seoul. An air observer said the Chinese were digging in Thursday night along a river 14 miles northeast of Suwon.

Sending Sizeable Forces

An Eighth Army spokesman said the enemy was sending sizeable forces southward along the central front. South Korean police and civilians saw one element of between 500 and 3,000 Reds sneaking eastward from the central sector.

In the midst of ominous indications heralding a full-scale Red offensive came a hint Friday from General MacArthur's headquarters that a shift of generals might be expected in Korea. A headquarters statement said:

"The Department of the Army has indicated to this headquarters its desire to establish a rotation policy for general officers who have participated lengthily in the Korean campaign so that their experience could be utilized in the training programs necessitated by

Several Crashes Occur in County

No Serious Injuries Are Reported on Icy Roads

Although several traffic mishaps occurred on ice-glazed highways in Ulster county early today, no serious personal injuries were reported to state police.

Troopers at the Highland station reported that a south-bound automobile driven by James Ringwood, 40, of 224 Main street, Poughkeepsie, was hit in quick succession by three north-bound vehicles on an icy curve on Route 9W at Milton about 7:30 a. m. today.

Ringwood was negotiating a curve when an automobile being driven in the opposite direction by Frank Berean, 55, of Marlborough, skidded and struck Ringwood's car head-on, troopers said. Berean's vehicle bounced off, crossed the highway and went off the east side. Frank Tuttle, 27, of Meadow avenue, Newburgh, who was following Berean, then lost control of his automobile on the icy pavement and its right side struck the Ringwood car, troopers reported. Finally, a fourth automobile, driven by Arthur Ames, 69, of 242 First street, Newburgh, skidded across the pavement and struck the Ringwood vehicle, which by this time was considerably battered and had to be towed away, troopers said. Berean's sedan also had to be towed away, but no personal injuries were reported.

Blocked Two Hours

The two northbound lanes on Route 9W near the Highland traffic circle were blocked for two hours after a tractor trailer overturned there about 4:40 a. m. today, state police at Highland reported. The driver, Harold Mitchell, 55, of Fulton, suffered lacerations of the face and body after the truck skidded into an embankment on the east side of the highway and overturned, troopers said. The tractor truck, owned by Oswego Transportation Company of Oswego, and its cargo of beer in cans and bottles were considerably damaged, according to the report.

At 3 a. m. today, an automobile driven by Charles J. Vigna, 31, of R.D. 3, Saugerties, struck the left front end of a tractor trailer which had stopped in the northbound lane of Route 9W by-pass one mile north of Kingston, preparing to make a turn in a southerly direction on the highway after leaving a garage, troopers reported. The tractor trailer was owned by George Taylor of R.D. 2, Syracuse, and driven by Donald Duane Robb, 22, of Marcellus, troopers said.

A tractor trailer owned by C. Moore of Prattsville and driven by Charles Francis, 32, of Lexington, skidded on Route 9W at West Park at 1:45 a. m. today and its left drive wheels struck and damaged an automobile driven in the opposite direction by Joseph Massa, 30, of 59 West Chester street, Kingston, troopers reported. The car was considerably damaged but no personal injuries were reported to troopers at the time of the accident.

Freak Weather Also Accompanied by Lightning Flashes

Yesterday's mildness, generally described as "springlike," turned more summery, at least in effect, early today when thunder rumbled over the area in a deep January freak storm.

The mercury was but two to three points above freezing when the storm hit Kingston and vicinity between 5 and 6 a. m.

The Associated Press reported similar storms this morning in Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse, Westchester and Rockland counties and northern New Jersey.

Ice which formed on area highways and city streets last night become more hazardous to travel when the rain of the early morning storm also froze. Sand crews had been sent out during the night, but more sand was needed following the rain this morning.

The city engineer's office reported the mercury at between 35 and 36 degrees between 5:30 and 6 a. m., but it was colder in various parts of the county at the time of the storm.

The Weather Bureau said thunderstorms were "very much out of the ordinary at this time of the year," and meteorologists said warm air that moved into the state erected turbulence when it came in contact with colder air at higher elevations and that this caused the lightning and thunder.

The high temperature here yesterday was 51 degrees and the overnight low was 32 degrees at 3 a. m. today.

The lightning today was of the typical summer type and the thunder was of the high and rumbling

All but Few Operators Agree to Increase for Miners; Price Is Boosted

Washington, Jan. 19 (AP)—Most of the soft coal industry was committed today to a new 14-month wage agreement under which John L. Lewis received a $1.60 daily pay boost for the nation's miners.

Influential government officials predicted it would not be nullified by the price and wage control program which Washington generally believes will be announced within a week or so.

All but a few scattered operator groups agreed to what amounts to a ten per cent pay increase for the miners. Industry spokesmen quickly announced price increases on bituminous coal at the pits amounting to five or six per cent.

The major elements of the industry agreed to the pact expiring March 31, 1952. Lewis called it a "bread and butter" contract for his 400,000 miners. The soft coal miners' basic wage for an eight-hour day is now $14.75.

Dewey Says He Feels Same As in Fall About Presidency

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 19 (AP)—Governor Dewey's renewed endorsement of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for president slowed down but did not halt speculation that Dewey is eyeing a third chance at the White House.

During his re-election campaign for governor last fall, Dewey said he favored Eisenhower for the 1952 Republican presidential nomination.

Asked by a reporter yesterday whether he were "still for General Eisenhower for president," Dewey replied:

"I have not changed any of the opinions on that subject I have expressed before."

Many observers recalled that Dewey changed his mind about retiring as governor last year and ran for a third term. He said the grave international situation was the reason for his about face.

Political kibitzers reason that the international picture apparently will get worse and that Dewey though twice-defeated in bids for the presidency, could change his mind and try again. Eisenhower, they argue, well might be deeply preoccupied with military matters for some time.

Dewey also said last fall that he did not believe Eisenhower's acceptance of command of the North Atlantic Pact military forces would make "Ike" unavailable for the presidential nomination.

Eisenhower, who frequently has disclaimed interest in political office, was appointed to that command by the foreign ministers who met in Brussels recently.

Dewey's reaffirmation of support of Eisenhower for president came as speculation was gaining momentum that Dewey himself was a serious potential contender again.

This seeming resurgence of Dewey as a presidential possibility was based on several factors.

They include his re-election as governon by more than half-a-million votes; his blunt pronouncement in favor of a strong U. S. foreign policy to combat communism on a world-wide basis, and his stinging criticism of President Truman's home-front policies despite support of the administration's present foreign policy.

Dewey reportedly considers isolationist or neo-isolationist foreign policies as perilous to the nation's existence.

He feels strongly that Liberal-Internationalists, rather than Conservatives, should control the GOP and its 1952 presidential convention. Some observers regard Dewey and Senator Robert A. Taft as leaders of these rival blocs.

Some politicians suggest that Dewey, by endorsing Eisenhower for president, well might fall political heir to "Ike's" popular following—in the party and out—if the general stands firm against running.

On a television program last Oct. 15, Dewey was asked whether he had decided to run for governor again because of a possibility it might give him another shot at White House.

"No that one is out," he replied. "I am definitely and finally removed. I removed myself by letter about 18 months ago and that is beyond consideration."

Asked whether he had any candidate for the presential nomination in mind, Dewey said:

". . . If I should be re-elected governor and have influence with the New York delegation, I would recommend to them that they support Gen. Eisenhower for president if he would accept the draft."

Donofrio Placed Under First Degree Murder Charge

New York, Jan. 19 (AP)—Pasquale Donofrio, 38-year-old house painter accused in the dime-locker torso slaying of his common-law wife, Dorothy Martin, 36, of Saugerties, was under a first-degree murder indictment today.

The charge was turned in late yesterday by a Brooklyn grand jury to Kings county Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz.

Donofrio, arrested 11 days ago as he sought to flee through the rooftop of his apartment house, pleaded innocent at his arraignment. He was held without bail.

Trial in March

The judge set the trial for an unspecified date in early March.

Donofrio allegedly strangled Miss Martin after an argument following a drinking bout in the Brooklyn apartment they shared, and sliced her body into four pieces. The dismembered torso was found Dec. 4 in two dime lockers in a Brooklyn railroad station.

Failure of relatives to receive a customary Christmas card from Miss Martin led to her identification, and an anonymous tip directed police to Donofrio.

Police Chief's Report Shows Kingston Has Small Staff

Police Chief Raymond Van Buren's annual report to the Board of Police Commissioners yesterday showed the local department staffed considerably under Newburgh and Poughkeepsie.

The 59th annual report gave the total of the local force as 38 officers and men "with one vacancy caused by the retirement of Officer Welch. Four women for school traffic."

The number of personnel of the police department compared with the personnel of Newburgh and Poughkeepsie is much less," it said. "In 1949 Newburgh had 62 men and Poughkeepsie had 70 men." The figures are from the New York State Conference of Mayors, Bureau of Municipal Information.

The report showed 180 automobile accidents in the city during 1950 in which three persons were killed and 237 claimed injuries, and the chief noted that "Serious auto accidents in the City of Kingston have been few compared with other cities throughout the state."

A total of 815 arrests were made during the year, and of these, the highest, 294, were on charges of public intoxication. Next were 154 for violations of the Vehicle and Traffic Law, 128 for violations of the city traffic code, and 123 for disorderly conduct.

The department made 34 ar-

Arborio Firm Gets Notch Road Job To Cut Bad Curves

Another section of the "Notch Road" in Greene county between Stony Clove and Kaaterskill Junction will be reconstructed this year. The section is about a mile and a half in length and will be constructed of gravel with bituminous surface. The completed roadway will be 20 feet wide, replacing a narrow, twisting piece of dirt road which has been the subject of considerable controversy during the past few years.

Residents of the area refused to send children to school for some time because of the dangerous condition of the old roadway over which they were required to pass in school buses.

Bertram D. Tallamy, superintendent of public works, has announced the awarding of a contract for the construction to John Arborio, Inc., of Poughkeepsie for the sum of $203,242.80. The contract includes construction of two bridges. Considerable of the roadway will be over a new alignment which will eliminate many curves and grades.

The road is a section of Route 214 and the contact begins a mile north of Stony Clove and connects up sections of the route already completed.

Under the contract work is to be completed by December 1, 1951. Traffic will be maintained during construction.

Many Means Available To Improve Bathroom

Among the items that may be incorporated into a bathroom to make it more useful are the following: A partition, preferably six feet in height, between the tub and lavatory; install a sanitary toilet seat; replace wood flooring with tile or terrazzo; provide a built-in towel rack of sufficient size to accommodate the entire family; install a sanitary window sill of glass or citreous slab that can be used as a shelf; replace noisy flush system with a new silent type; add porcelain hooks behind door.

Built-in fittings will tend to make the bathroom more efficient. Among these are: A medicine cabinet with built-in indirect lighting from below and with a chromium-plated mirror; linen closet with full-length mirror door.

Where the major fixtures, tub, lavatory, etc., are old it is recommended that they be replaced with modern equipment.

Protect the Hands

Before working with linoleum cement or other adhesives of this kind, coat your hands with soap so that the stuff won't stick to them and require hours to remove. Special hand preparations are available to use in place of soap.

False Alarm Calls Out Firemen Thursday Night

Firemen answered what was listed as a "malicious false alarm" at 10:03 p. m., yesterday. It was sounded from Box 1231 at Prospect and VanBuren streets.

A police blotter notation at 10 p. m., said a complaint was received that boys had been shooting a slingshot against a Franklin street house, and it was indicated that the same boys might have pulled the alarm.

A call at 3 a. m. today was for a sprinkler system emergency at the F. B. Matthews Co. building on Railroad avenue. The call was relayed from police headquarters. Firemen said the system was apparently set off because of a fluctuation of pressure in dry pipes. There was no fire.

Police Hunt Trusty From Local Jail

Area police were asked last night to check the "walk" of Clinton Gardner, 38, who took advantage of the fact that he was a trusty at the county jail with the long part of a 90-day sentence still to go.

Gardner, authorities said, made his way out of a rear window of the court house last night. He was first missed at 7:30 p. m., after having been assigned with other trusties to do janitor duty.

Deputy sheriff worked through the night and today in search of Gardner and local and state police were notified through a general alarm.

Authorities said that Gardner's last given address was on O'Neil street, but local police said they had booked him recently as having no home. He was described as five feet 11½ inches tall, weighing 193, has blue eyes, brown hair and fair complexion.

Arrested last Jan. 3 by local police on a public intoxication charge, he was sentenced Jan. 4 to 90 days. Authorities said his record shows one felony and several misdemeanors and he was known at the court house as "an old customer."

Late Bulletin

Washington, Jan. 19 (AP)—A resolution calling on the United Nations to brand Communist China an aggressor in Korea was blocked temporarily in the House today after a Republican member attacked it as equivalent to a declaration of war.

The resolution was introduced by Democratic Leader McCormack of Massachusetts as a statement of bipartisan foreign policy.

But Rep. Shafer (R.-Mich.) forced a roll call of the membership to delay action after asserting the GOP collaborators on the resolution "don't speak for the Republican party."

McCormack presented it as coming jointly from him and Republican Leader Martin, also of Massachusetts.

Rep. Hoffman (R.-Mich.) also criticized the resolution as a step to turn over to the United Nations the authority of Congress to declare war.

"I don't see how you have the nerve—how you dare to presume—to do such a thing," he said.

Big Boosts Are Marked

Chicago, Jan. 19 (AP)—Big price boosts and "unavailable" items feature the two biggest spring mail order catalogues now being mailed to customers in various parts of the nation. Both Sears, Roebuck and Company and Montgomery Ward and Company have some of their catalogues in the mails, although it may be a month before shipment is completed. Automobile tires are up 25 to 35 per cent from last year, bedsheets 20 to 29 per cent, blankets 20 to 25 per cent, and men's shoes eight to 16 per cent.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, Jan. 19 (AP)—The position of the treasury Jan. 17: Net budget receipts, $230,435,441.55; budget expenditures, $179,483,553.52; cash balance, $3,146,762,434.62; customs receipts for month, $31,429,020.96; budget receipts fiscal year July 1, $20,304,596,485.04; budget expenditures fiscal year, $21,169,167,561.70; budget deficit, $864,571,076.66; total debt, $255,999,909,405.83; decrease under previous day, $5,829,226.19; gold assets, $22,494,241,668.41.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Jan. 19 (AP)—Air lines started a rally today that spread into other major sections of stock market and clipped short a declining tendency before it could gain headway.

Gains ran to more than a $1 in the forefront of the advance. Losses were held to around a dollar or less in the backward areas.

Showing considerable strength along with the air lines were motors and chemicals. Also advancing were steels, a number of utilities, and a long list of miscellaneous manufacturers and distributors.

Nickel Plate took off on its own and spurted more than $6 at one time. Union Bag & Paper opened on a block of 3,800 shares up 2¼ at 44½. Packard opened slightly higher, and one block of 15,000 shares sold up ⅛ at 4¾.

Also higher were Chrysler, Studebaker, Packard, Bethlehem Steel, Republic Steel, Missouri Pacific Preferred, Southern Railway, Gulf Oil, Consolidated Natural Gas, U. S. Rubber, Dome Mines, Trans-World Airways, Eastern Air Lines, American Airlines, Lehigh Portland Cement, Baldwin-Lima-Hamilton, Pepsi-Cola, American Tobacco, Allied Chemical, American Cyanamid, and Montgomery Ward.

Curb market prices were mixed. Higher were Aluminum Co. of America, Coro Inc., New Jersey Zinc, St. Lawrence Corp., and South Penn Oil. Lower were Aspinook, Electric Bond & Share, Imperial Oil, Piper Aircraft, Raytheon, and Royalite Oil.

100 Persons Overcome

Dade City, Fla., Jan. 19 (AP)—More than 100 persons were overcome today at the Pasco Packing Company when a tank containing a sterilizer powder exploded and fumes spread about the plant. Injured persons were brought in large batches to the hospital here. Mrs. W. M. Larkin, an Associated Press correspondent, reported persons were "lying all over the place—in halls, floors, everywhere." She said doctors were working over them. Extent of the injuries is not known.

Foreign Policy Reviewed

Paris, Jan. 19 (AP)—France began a review of its foreign policy today, with ambassadors present from Fernch posts in Washington, Lake Success, London and Germany. Foreign Minister Robert Schuman called in his top envoys for the review, aimed principally at bringing French policies up to date before a prospective meeting of the Big Four foreign ministers.

ONE MAN'S MOTTO — This hand with the words "Hard Luck" tatooed on the fingers belongs to William E. Cook, suspected killer of eight persons in a southwestern hitchhike-murder spree. The 22-year-old ex-convict, captured in Mexico, will stand trial in Oklahoma for the capital offense of kidnaping. Picture was made in Cook's San Diego, Calif., jail cell.

ACCORD

Accord, Jan. 19—Mrs. Fannie Atkins, who makes her home with her daughter, Mrs. William J. Osterhoudt of Accord, is enjoying a vacation at St. Petersburg, Fla.

Plans for the 1951 March of Dimes drive in this area were made last week at a sectional meeting at the Indian Valley Inn under the district leadership of William Joyce, Percy W. Gazley and Miss Barbara Countryman for the Town of Rochester. Card forms have been mailed, it was announced, and collections in school districts will follow soon. Taking an active part in this year's drive are Abe Black, Al Brockbank, Edward Carle, Morris Sondak, Charles McGuffy, Jacob DeWitt, Joseph Solcberg, Mrs. Edward Schwab, Mrs. Gilbert Quick, Mrs. Shirley Banks, Arthur Gray, Roy Miller, Mrs. Stanton, Donald Van Etten and Mrs. Milton Makowsky. Polio leaders also are planning to hold a dance at a later date. Miss Countryman and a high school group will be in charge of tickets and plans. The floor show will be provided by the Indian Valley Inn. Artificial lung coin boxes are in the various general stores. A food sale will be held Saturday, Jan. 20, at the Carle store under the sponsorship of the young folks with Miss Countryman in charge.

Many Means Available To Improve Bathroom

Among the items that may be incorporated into a bathroom to make it more useful are the following: A partition, preferably six feet in height, between the tub and lavatory; install a sanitary toilet seat; replace wood flooring with tile or terrazzo; provide a built-in towel rack of sufficient size to accommodate the entire family; install a sanitary window sill of glass or citreous slab that can be used as a shelf; replace noisy flush system with a new silent type; add porcelain hooks behind door.

Built-in fittings will tend to make the bathroom more efficient. Among these are: A medicine cabinet with built-in indirect lighting from below and with a chromium-plated mirror; linen closet with full-length mirror door.

Where the major fixtures, tub-lavatory, etc., are old it is recommended that they be replaced with modern equipment.

Protect the Hands

Before working with linoleum cement or other adhesives of this kind, coat your hands with soap so that the stuff won't stick to them and require hours to remove. Special hand preparations are available to use in place of soap.

IN "BOMB-WRECKED" NEW YORK—Against a realistic background of bomb damage, New York City Fire, Police and Hospital Department members go through a mock bombing attack to demonstrate civil defense and rescue duties—and, incidentally, to recruit volunteer workers for civil defense. Here, a fireman, at right, works over a "victim" with an inhalator while another tries to free her from the debris. Also in the scene are a nurse giving first aid to the injured, and a volunteer using a Geiger counter to test for atomic radiation.

False Alarm Calls Out Firemen Thursday Night

Firemen answered what was listed as a "malicious false alarm" at 10:03 p. m., yesterday. It was sounded from Box 1231 at Prospect and VanBuren streets.

A police blotter notation at 10 p. m., said a complaint was received that boys had been shooting a slingshot against a Franklin street house, and it was indicated that the same boys might have pulled the alarm.

A call at 3 a. m. today was for a sprinkler system emergency at the F. B. Matthews Co. building on Railroad avenue. The call was relayed from police headquarters. Firemen said the system was apparently set off because of a fluctuation of pressure in dry pipes. There was no fire.

Police Hunt Trusty From Local Jail

Area police were asked last night to check the "walk" of Clinton Gardner, 38, who took advantage of the fact that he was a trusty at the county jail with the long part of a 90-day sentence still to go.

Gardner, authorities said, made his way out of a rear window of the court house last night. He was first missed at 7:30 p. m., after having been assigned with other trusties to do janitor duty.

Deputy sheriff worked through the night and today in search of Gardner and local and state police were notified through a general alarm.

Authorities said that Gardner's last given address was on O'Neil street, but local police said they had booked him recently as having no home. He was described as five feet 11½ inches tall, weighing 193, has blue eyes, brown hair and fair complexion.

Arrested last Jan. 3 by local police on a public intoxication charge, he was sentenced Jan. 4 to 90 days. Authorities said his record shows one felony and several misdemeanors and he was known at the court house as "an old customer."

Insurance Coverage

Because of the tremendous rise in replacement costs during recent years, many homes are not sufficiently covered by fire and other damage insurance. It would be well to check up with your agent now.

Late Bulletin

Washington, Jan. 19 (AP)—A resolution calling on the United Nations to brand Communist China an aggressor in Korea was blocked temporarily in the House today after a Republican member attacked it as equivalent to a declaration of war.

The resolution was introduced by Democratic Leader McCormack of Massachusetts as a statement of bipartisan foreign policy.

But Rep. Shafer (R.-Mich.) forced a roll call of the membership to delay action after asserting the GOP collaborators on the resolution "don't speak for the Republican party."

McCormack presented it as coming jointly from him and Republican Leader Martin, also of Massachusetts.

Rep. Hoffman (R.-Mich.) also criticized the resolution as a step to turn over to the United Nations the authority of Congress to declare war.

"I don't see how you have the nerve—how you dare to presume—to do such a thing," he said.

Big Boosts Are Marked

Chicago, Jan. 19 (AP)—Big price boosts and "unavailable" items feature the two biggest spring mail order catalogues now being mailed to customers in various parts of the nation. Both Sears, Roebuck and Company and Montgomery Ward and Company have some of their catalogues in the mails, although it may be a month before shipment is completed. Automobile tires are up 25 to 35 per cent from last year, bedsheets 20 to 29 per cent, blankets 20 to 25 per cent, and men's shoes eight to 16 per cent.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, Jan. 19 (AP)—The position of the treasury Jan. 17: Net budget receipts, $230,435,441.55; budget expenditures, $179,483,553.52; cash balance, $3,146,762,434.62; customs receipts for month, $31,429,020.96; budget receipts fiscal year July 1, $20,304,596,485.04; budget expenditures fiscal year, $21,169,167,561.70; budget deficit, $864,571,076.66; total debt, $255,999,909,405.83; decrease under previous day, $5,829,226.19; gold assets, $22,494,241,668.41.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Jan. 19 (AP)—Air lines started a rally today that spread into other major sections of stock market and clipped short a declining tendency before it could gain headway.

Gains ran to more than a $1 in the forefront of the advance. Losses were held to around a dollar or less in the backward areas.

Showing considerable strength along with the air lines were motors and chemicals. Also advancing were steels, a number of utilities, and a long list of miscellaneous manufacturers and distributors.

Nickel Plate took off on its own and spurted more than $6 at one time. Union Bag & Paper opened on a block of 3,800 shares up 2⅛ at 44½. Packard opened slightly higher, and one block of 15,000 shares sold up ⅛ at 4⅝.

Also higher were Chrysler, Studebaker, Packard, Bethlehem Steel, Republic Steel, Missouri Pacific Preferred, Southern Railway, Gulf Oil, Consolidated Natural Gas, U. S. Rubber, Dome Mines, Trans-World Airways, Eastern Air Lines, American Airlines, Lehigh Portland Cement, Baldwin-Lima-Hamilton, Pepsi-Cola, American Tobacco, Allied Chemical, American Cyanamid, and Montgomery Ward.

Curb market prices were mixed. Higher were Aluminum Co. of America, Coro Inc., New Jersey Zinc, St. Lawrence Corp., and South Penn Oil. Lower were Aspinook, Electric Bond & Share, Imperial Oil, Piper Aircraft, Raytheon, and Royalite Oil.

Mrs. Ethel Decker entertained her canasta club Tuesday night.

ACCORD

Plans for the 1951 March of Dimes drive in this area were made last week at a sectional meeting at the Indian Valley Inn under the district leadership of William Joyce, Percy W. Gazlay and Miss Barbara Countryman for the Town of Rochester. Card forms have been mailed, it was announced, and collections in school districts will follow soon. Taking an active part in this year's drive are Abe Black, Al Brockbank, Edward Carle, Morris Sondak, Charles McGuffy, Jacob DeWitt, Joseph Solcberg, Mrs. Edward Schwab, Mrs. Gilbert Quick, Mrs. Shirley Banks, Arthur Gray, Roy Miller, Mrs. Stanton Donald Van Etten and Mrs. Milton Makowsky. Polio leaders also are planning to hold a dance at a later date. Miss Countryman and a high school group will be in charge of tickets and plans. The floor show will be provided by the Indian Valley Inn. Artificial lung coin boxes are in the various general stores. A food sale will be held Saturday, Jan. 20, at the Carle store under the sponsorship of the young folks with Miss Countryman in charge.

President . . .

atomic energy for national defense came up and it was badly garbled and created an argument that was entirely unnecessary.

As for last week, the President went on, he made a clear and complete statement on consulting the legislative branch and it wasn't quoted anywhere.

Reporters Reply

Reporters in the room jumped up to say they had covered the President's remarks full last week.

You may have, he told them; it's sometimes the rewrite that scratches things out.

Elisabeth May Craig, correspondent for The Portland (Me.) Press Herald, said she could not recall a thing the President said last week that she didn't see in the newspapers.

Ernest B. Vaccaro of the Associated Press said he had reported Mr. Truman's remarks fully. He noted that reporters were not given permission to use the President's remarks for direct quotation.

That's true, the President replied, and you won't get that either.

Short Gives View

The reporters later were told by Mr. Truman's press secretary, Joseph Short, that "many newspapers represented the President's attitude as one of defiance toward Congress which is not borne out by the total of his remarks at last week's press conference."

This is the passage which Short said Mr. Truman referred to in his complaint today:

Question: "Well, Mr. President, Senator Connally did not dispute your right to do so (commit troops to General Eisenhower's North Atlantic defense command in Europe). He defended it; but he said that he understood you would consult with Congress before you would do it, and continuing: 'It is my understanding that administration leaders plan to do so.'"

Answer: "We always do that. We never make any moves in foreign affairs or on any domestic affairs, or any other affairs, that we do not very considerably consult with the committees that are interested in it. We have always done that, and there has been no chance in that policy, and won't be. And any senator who wants to talk to the President can always get a date to do it."

A reporter asked Short if "it would be fair to say that the President's purpose today was to let it be known that he was not defying Congress."

Short said he thought that was fair and added the President was merely stating the facts on his constitutional power.

As for the Nov. 30 news conference dealing with the atom bomb, Mr. Truman said the New Yorker magazine gave an exact and complete account of that. John Hershey, in an article in the New Yorker Dec. 16, said the news conference had "provided a hair-raising example of how bad news can be manufactured."

Hersey contended that reporters, by their questioning "pushed" Mr. Truman into saying that active consideration was being given to use of the atomic bomb against the Chinese Communists if that step is necessary.

Sensed Being Pushed

Hersey wrote:

"The President, who throughout was apparently so busy meeting each question as it came that he neither followed the tendency of the questions collectively nor understood the way the patchwork was being put together, nevertheless seemed to sense that he had somehow been pushed. He began to answer questions rather abruptly * * *."

Hersey's article laid heavy stress on the President's remark that the use of the atomic bomb always has been under active consideration.

However, he did not bring out that the President on last June 29 had declined to answer a question as to whether the atomic bomb might be used in Korea, or that on July 27 he said use of the A-bomb was not then under consideration.

A few hours after the No. 30 news conference, the White House issued a statement saying there had been no new consideration of use of the atomic bomb, and that the President — who has sole power to authorize its use—had not done so.

Katrine Redi-Men Are To Attend Defense Class

Plans for the Redi-Men of Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club to help in Civilian Defense will be followed out shortly with classes in instruction, it was announced at a meeting last night.

The Redi-Men will join in the activities of the auxiliary police formed to protect vital spots around Ulster county, in the event of an attack.

Savio LaGuardia, chairman of the committee in charge of the Redi-Men, urges all members to lend their support and attend sessions of instructions which will get underway within a short time.

Assisting LaGuardia are Harold Macholdt, an ex-marine and Les Hotaling, who has been identified with the gun club since its inception. Reserve Captain Martin J. Peterson gave a list of helpful suggestions at last night's session.

Wicks Is Re-Elected Head of Hotel Board

Senator Arthur H. Wicks was re-elected president of the board of directors of the Kingston Community Hotel Corporation, operator of the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Other officers re-elected were Peter A. Black, vice-president; W. A. Carl, treasurer; A. J. Burns, secretary, and N. J. Fowler, assistant secretary and treasurer. Election of officers took place at the annual board meeting which followed the annual meeting of stockholders at the hotel Thursday night.

The following directors were elected at the stockholders' meeting: A. H. Wicks, Peter A. Black, W. A. Carl, N. J. Fowler, Raymond Gross, A. J. Burns, Stanely J. Matthews, S. E. Hockenbury and Thomas A. Dandrew.

Tough Competition

Chicago, Jan. 19 (AP) — Atomic Energy Commissioner Sumner Pike said today the cost of power is now so low that the atom would face tough competition in civilian markets. "I personally, have no doubt that power from the nucleus of the atom is feasible," Pike said in a speech prepared for the Executives Club of Chicago. "We have, however, in this country given ourselves a very tough job in making it economically competitive."

Ashton Pleads Guilty

Karl James Ashton, 19, of 26 Klingburg avenue, who was arrested early this morning on a charge of driving while intoxicated, pleaded guilty in city court. Judge Raymond J. Mino postponed sentence until tomorrow. Ashton was arrested on Broadway near Elmendorf street by Officer Walter Van Steenburgh and Special Officer Meyer Levy at 1:15 a. m.

U.N. Stand Weak

gium, and France, who pleaded for time to study the question. India opposed the U. S. plan. These preliminary views, expressed by countries generally closely associated with the United States, led diplomats here to doubt the effectiveness of any resolution condemning Peiping.

The U. S. hopes to have enough co-sponsors to introduce such a resolution in the 60-nation political committee today (3 p. m.) There seemed little question but that it would be adopted. However, these diplomats said, the preliminary bickering, backing and filling will certainly lower any moral effect it might have on Russia and Communist China.

44 Votes Seen All

An ambassador from one of America's British Commonwealth allies estimated that the most votes the U. S. can hope for is 44. Russian propagandists, he pointed out, certainly would make much of the fact that 53 U.N. members previously had okayed action against the North Koreans.

Another diplomat gloomily predicted that Peiping might conclude that if present military pressure in Korea had split the anti-Communist front so far, a little more might disrupt it further.

The Asian-Arab group is working on the basis of a resolution which they submitted in December calling for a seven-power conference to settle Far Eastern problems. It is very similar to the appeal which Peiping rejected Wednesday.

Soft Coal Wage

who cannot be named said the coal industry's price and profit position probably would justify the price hikes which the operators proposed to put into effect on the heels of the wage advance.

"Who could do anything about it?" this official asked a reporter.

The $1.60 wage boost becomes effective Feb. 1. The operators indicated that the coal price boost might be effective at about the same time.

Price Director Michael V. Di Salle commented that his coal experts would have to examine the agreement. He said conferences with industry leaders may be necessary.

Lewis, Harry M. Moses of the newly created Bituminous Coal Operators Association and Joseph E. Moody, of the Southern Coal Producers Association, all said at a news conference they had no contact with government stabilization officials in advance of the agreement.

President Truman said yesterday that wage and price controls are being prepared and will be imposed as soon as possible.

This statement by Mr. Truman at his news conference added little to what Defense Mobilization Director Charles E. Wilson and other officials had already made clear: that a price-wage freeze will be imposed just as soon as possible.

Reiterating that position yesterday, Wilson told senators he thinks rationing of consumer goods is still months away or may even be avoided entirely by full production.

TRUE QUALITY OF HEROISM

What strange spark makes a man a hero in battle?

Perhaps it's something that really defies definition. Maybe we shouldn't try, but should instead just be grateful that we have heroes. For no one can doubt that any army is the better for the heroic deeds of its bravest men.

Five American heroes, all either dead or missing as result of the fighting in Korea, were honored by President Truman the other day with the nation's highest military tribute—the Congressional Medal of Honor.

Among the five was Gen. William F. Dean, a top U. S. field commander until his disappearance in action around Taejon last summer. The others, Lt. Frederick Henry of Clinton, Okla.; Master Sgt. Travis Watkins of Gladewater, Tex.; Sgt. Charles Turner of Boston, and Pvt. Melvin Brown of Mahaffey, Pa.

All of these men performed acts of bravery above and beyond the call of duty. In almost every case, their courage saved the lives of other men, who went on to fight and may still be fighting.

Let's look at just one of these heroes, to sample the true quality of heroism under fire. We'll take Brown, who happens to be lowest in rank. A member of an engineers' combat battalion, he distinguished himself while his outfit was engaged with the North Koreans near Kasan last September 4.

The Reds counter-attacked as his platoon was attempting to secure what was known simply as Hill 755. Brown's citation reads:

"Taking a position on a 50-foot-high wall, he delivered heavy rifle fire on the enemy. His ammunition was soon expended and, although wounded, he remained at his post and threw his few grenades at the attackers. . . . When his supply of grenades was exhausted, his comrades from nearby foxholes tossed others to him and he left his position, braving a hail of fire, to retrieve and throw them at the enemy.

"The attackers continued to assault his position and Private Brown, weaponless, drew his intrenching tool from his pack and calmly waited until they, one by one, peered over the wall—delivering each a crushing blow upon the head. Knocking ten or twelve enemy from the wall, his daring action so inspired his platoon that they repelled the attack and held their position."

Of such stuff is the defense of liberty made.

Private Brown may never again walk the streets of Mahaffey, Pa. But wherever freedom is enshrined, his memory will reside for all time.

The Mint is not ready to make steel pennies instead of copper, saying it thinks pennies are more important than some of the things still being made of copper. And let anyone who doubts it try to get along without 'em.

CAUSE OF TITO FEUD

Would Russian policy toward Yugoslavia and Tito change if Stalin died? It has recently been suggested that the bad feeling between Russia and Yugoslavia stems largely from a personal feud between Stalin and Tito. The story is that Stalin resented the prominence given Tito in Yugoslav propaganda, and thought that the Russians should get the credit for freeing the country of the Nazis.

When the 71-year-old Stalin dies, his successor, whether Molotov, Beria or another, will direct Soviet policy according to what he considers the national interests. Personal feeling now held by Stalin will not influence him, although he may have prejudices of his own. That might mean a renewal of friendship between the two countries.

The quarrel may have started on a personal basis, but that is not the whole story now. Friendship between Russia and any other country seems to be possible only on Russia's terms. With the satellites the terms are that Russia should have absolute mastery over them. Whether or not Stalin started this policy, it has been accepted by the Kremlin, and is likely to continue whether Stalin lives or dies. No mere change in heads can be expected to alter anything except the degree of efficiency in carrying this policy out.

Grandparents enjoy a most enviable position. When they pick up the cuddly grandchild only to have him cry, kick and fuss, they can hand him back to his parents.

'These Days'

THE POWER OF THE PURSE

The quarrel between President Truman and the Congress may resolve itself into an inquiry into the constitutional question of the power of the purse. Even on the Democratic side it is evident that supporters of the President's policies feel that he should not, at this time, raise constitutional issues which need not be raised. Senator Paul Douglas of Illinois, a supporter of Mr. Truman's war program, indicated that clearly.

The President's position, stated on January 11, is that he admits that Congress controls the purse, but that if Congress disagrees with him, he will go to the people. Of course, that is precisely what Congress did in the last election: The whole of the House of Representatives and one-third of the Senate were then elected. By the only legal process available in this country the people were gone to and they made choices.

The Constitution is altogether clear on this subject:

"No money shall be drawn from the Treasury, but in consequence of appropriations made by law; and a regular statement and account of the receipts and expenditures of all public money shall be published from time to time."

The power of Congress in the control of our money is absolute. Congress, in turn, is responsible only to the people, whose decisions are made at elections. The President may veto an appropriation bill, but he may not expend a cent unless Congress so authorizes him.

Ours is a government of limited and enumerated powers. No one can assert legal power; it must be granted either by the Constitution or by Congress. The money power is enumerated as belonging to Congress.

The object of this provision in the Constitution is to prevent a President from becoming a tyrant. After all, if he could raise and use money without restraint, he could govern as a dictator without authorization by Congress or by the interdicts of the Supreme Court. Our government would then be an autocracy.

Lord Bryce, in his masterpiece, "The American Commonwealth," explains the congressional control of the purse as follows:

". . . If he were to engage in military operations—he cannot understand the Constitution 'declare war' for that belongs to Congress—the House might paralyze him by declining to vote the requisite army appropriations. If he were to repeat the splendid audacity of Jefferson by purchasing a new territory, they could withhold the purchase money. But if, keeping within the limits of his constitutional functions, he takes a different course from that they recommend, if for instance he should refuse, at their repeated requests, to demand the liberation of American citizens pining in foreign dungeons, or to suppress disorders in a state whose government had requested federal intervention, they would have to look on. To withhold the ordinary supplies, and thereby stop the machine of government, would injure the country and themselves far more than the President. They would, to use a common expression, be cutting off their nose to spite their face. They could not lawfully refuse to vote his salary, for that is guaranteed to him by the Constitution. They could not, except by a successful impeachment, turn him out of the White House or deprive him of his title to the obedience of all federal officials."

In this phase of the debate, the Constitution looms large, for those who maintain that the so-called UN (90 per cent American) police action is a subterfuge, insist that congressional control over the budget, peacetime or wartime, must not be bypassed by any device or subterfuge.

The issue is tremendously important. For if we are not fighting for constitutional government, what are we fighting for. Unless Congress can control the power of the purse, this country may become a dictatorship. Does it matter by what name a dictator is called? Does it matter by what scheme and device the Constitution is bypassed? Does it matter how skillfully a legalistic mind discovers a loophole through which he can snare a trick? The effects are the same.

Therefore, the fight in Congress over this issue may go far afield. It may even lead to an inquiry as to expenditures during the past 20 years.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

METABOLISM RATE OF THE BODY

Many hospitals and also many physicians today are establishing metabolism clinics to make sure that the overweight patient is not overweight because of underactivity of one or more of the glands of the body, particularly the thyroid gland in the neck, the overactivity of which is called goiter or Grave's disease.

Metabolism is the rate or measure of the working processes of the body—heart beat, respiration, circulation of the blood. What is called the basal metabolism rate (B.M.R.) is the rate at a resting state, meaning mental, physical and emotional rest with no digestion or absorption of food going on in the body. A person lying motionless and relaxed, 12 to 14 hours after the last meal, at ordinary room temperature, is considered to be in a resting state. While he is lying quietly, the amount of oxygen he is using to keep the body processes going is measured.

It has been found that for each liter (about one quart) of oxygen he breathes into his lungs he has manufactured heat equal to the burning of 4.8 calories of food. By measuring the amount of oxygen used or breathed in for a few minutes in this resting state, the amount used during the entire 24 hours can be calculated.

Naturally a man weighing 200 pounds or a woman weighing 150 pounds will require more oxygen than a man of 150 pounds or a woman of 120 pounds. Also a boy of 16 might require more than a girl of 16. The amount of oxygen needed depends upon the size or skin surface of the body. The heat production per square meter (a little more than a square yard) is accepted as the measure of the resting heat production of an individual. It is called the basal (lowest) metabolism.

By estimating the amount of body surface, the physician knows by the amount of oxygen used whether the individual has a normal rate. Taking the normal rate at 100, if rate is more than 115 or less than 85 (plus or minus 15) he tries to find the reason. If over 115, he will look for disturbance of thyroid gland (goiter) or infection of some kind. If under 85, he expects to find that the thyroid is underactive.

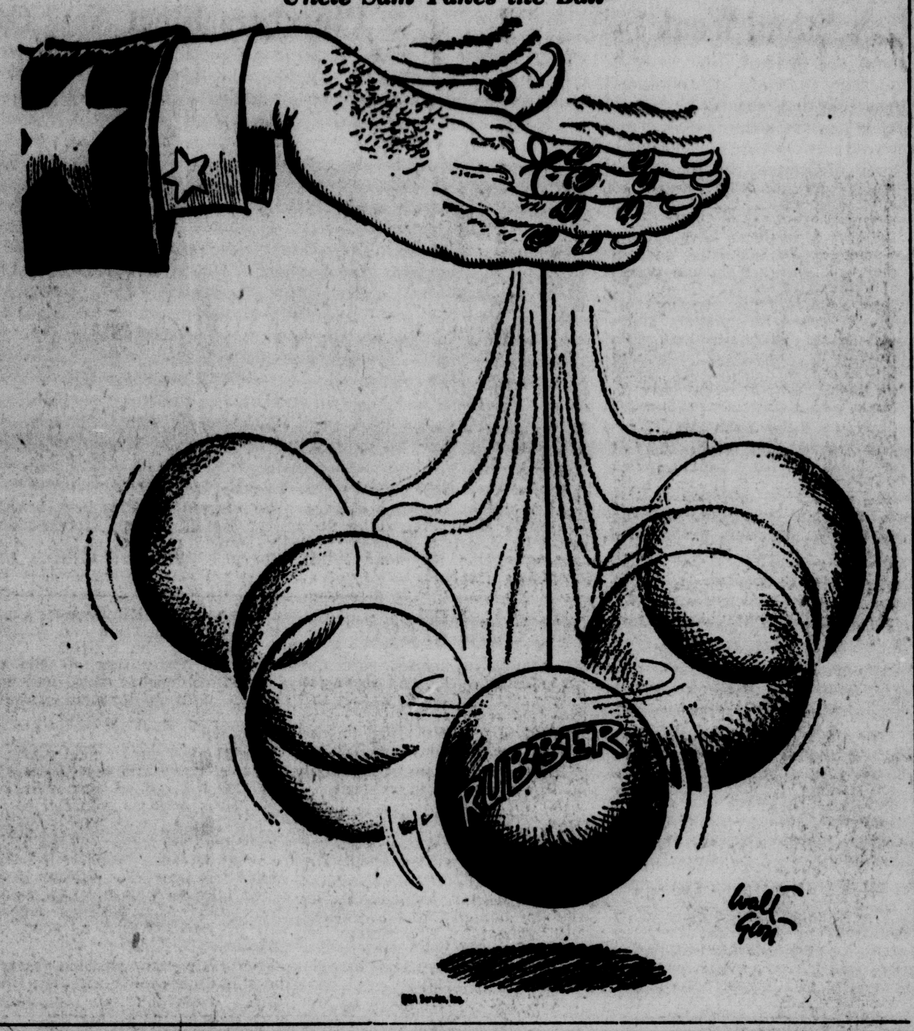

However, if the physician feels that the patient is not completely relaxed, is upset in mind when test is made, he will have one or two further tests made.

Uncle Sam Takes the Ball

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — Not much gets into the newspapers about the social lobby these days, but an awful lot of business is still done over Washington dinner tables—even including war contracts.

The other day, Victor Emanuel, a power behind the far-flung Avco Manufacturing Corporation, Standard Gas and Electric, Crosley Broadcasting, and Republic Steel, gave a dinner in honor of Stuart Symington, svelte, efficient head of the National Security Resources Board.

Symington got a lot of publicity once before from accepting the hospitality of Floyd Odlum of Consolidated Vultee, who manufactured B-36's at a time when Symington was buying B-36's for the air forces. Emanuel is now making B-36 parts, Symington is out of the air forces, though he packs a powerful wallop in a lot of other remobilization fields.

At any rate, Symington, an extremely busy man, went to the dinner, which was attended by various bigwigs, including homey Sen. Homer Capehart of Indiana. Later it developed that Homer had used the dinner to do some quiet lobbying on war contracts.

Dinner-Table Friend

Senator Sparkman of Alabama has just written a penetrating report showing how small businessmen are not able to get war contracts. He should have included in his report the following letter of November 30 from Victor Emanuel to John Craig, general manager of the Crosley division of the Avco Manufacturing Co., in Cincinnati as an illustration of how little business can get war business—if you have a father in the Senate and if you attend the proper dinner parties. Emanuel's letter to Craig follows:

"Dear Johnny:

"I have never had a trip such as this and am writing this between appointments.

"At the dinner I gave for Stu Symington last night, Senator Homer Capehart was here and was very appreciative of all our kindness and, incidentally, he talked considerably about Richmond and Connersville. He has a son, Tom Capehart, who has the Packard Mfg. Corp. in Indianapolis. This is a rather small plant but did considerable war production in the last war. Capehart owns one other plant but this is leased for eight years to Cornell-Dubilier Electric Corp. He would like us to work closely with his son, especially in the field of subcontracting.

"I explained to Homer that we, ourselves outside of Lycoming-Spencer Division, did not have any great amount of war orders now but we were going to have to go after them and we would do everything possible to cooperate with his son.

"At your convenience, could you get in touch with Tom Capehart and ask him to come to see you and tell you about his facilities which, to repeat, are not large, and, everything being equal, as and when we can utilize his facilities, we will certainly do all within our power to do so? I know you will agree that this is a good thing to do."

Assurances to the Senator

Victor Emanuel wrote a similar letter to another of his company executives, Ray Donaldson, and so anxious was he to please Senator Capehart that the same day he also wrote Capehart the following letter:

"Dear Homer:

"I flew back to New York this afternoon and am trying to make a start on my desk.

"I have just written Ray Donaldson per the enclosed copy and, before I left Washington, I wrote Mr. John W. Craig, vice president of our company and general manager of our Crosley division, about your son and the Packard Manufacturing Company, asking him to get in touch with your son.

"It was awfully nice seeing you last night and having such a good visit, and I will look forward to seeing you on the occasion of my next trip to Washington.

"With every good wish to you, please believe me,

"Most sincerely,
"VICTOR EMANUEL"

"Watch Out for Tom"

This was followed by several interoffice memos regarding the type of business which young Capehart's plant might be able to handle, plus a letter from Tom Capehart listing his plant equipment in great detail.

Finally on Dec. 12, F. W. Warner, of the Crosley Division of AVCO, Cincinnati, sent the following memo to "all buyers" alerting them to be on the lookout for ways of placing orders with the son of the senator from Indiana. Warner's memo reads:

"Subject: Packard Manufacturing Corporation

"Copies to: All buyers

"I am enclosing, herewith, copies of my file on the above subject company which is completely self-explanatory.

"The Honorable Homer Capehart is a very important senator in Washington, and a very close personal friend of Mr. Emanuel.

"I definitely want every one of you to give every consideration to his son, Mr. Thomas C. Capehart, president of the Packard Manufacturing Corporation, on any item he may be in a position to furnish us, provided he can be competitive from every standpoint.

"I would appreciate your sending me copies of inquiries to the Packard Manufacturing Corporation for the next two or three months so that I may have an answer for Mr. Craig to submit to Mr. Emanuel.

"F. W. WARNER"

Most small businessmen spend days cooling their heels in government bureaus, or paying fees to five percenters before they can get either government orders or subcontracting orders from the big corporations. They do not have a father in the Senate.

Washington Pipeline

Congratulations to Senator Bridges of New Hampshire for forgetting old grudges and standing aside so his colleague, Senator Tobey of New Hampshire, could move into the coveted Republican vacancy on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Bridges had more seniority than Tobey, and was under considerable pressure to prevent a liberal, like Tobey, from taking the post. However, Bridges refused to block his old political enemy. . . . Phil Murray of the CIO and Bill Green of the AFL will soon be appointed on a new and important labor committee to push war mobilization. . . . The Canadian army has developed a revolutionary short-wave communications set that will vastly improve contact between battle troops on the field. This is one of the most important Canadian inventions in years and Canada will make it part of the standard equipment of the North Atlantic army.

Relations Between President and Congress Better; Troop Deal Looked Bad in Press

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Jan. 19—Relations between Congress and President Truman are getting better. There's a rift in the clouds and a bit of amicability is beginning to appear.

Apparently President Truman didn't mean to be brusque with Congress last week when he said, in effect, he would consult Congress but would do as he pleased about sending troops abroad. He told the reporters that maybe they didn't write the story the way he meant it. They, of course, wrote what they heard him say. Mr. Truman thinks the implications of his words were perhaps misconstrued or ignored.

These misunderstandings will occur. Mr. Truman is really not complaining that the reporting was unsound but that at times things don't sound in print like they sound when he says them. Maybe they ought to have a system of sound effects to cure this so that the exact intonation of voice could be recorded. Maybe the whole press conference should be put on radio and television so that the public—whose business is being discussed—can judge for itself what the inflections of a presidential voice really mean.

As for Congress, there are signs that Senator Taft is softening or clarifying his position, too. He wouldn't object to sending troops to Europe, he says, but wants Congress to spell out some sort of ratio so that America will supply certain divisions and the other nations some divisions in proper proportion.

Anyway, there seems to be a convergence toward agreement. So far as foreign governments are concerned, they can properly derive from these modifications, clarifications, and explanations that the executive and legislative branches of the American government are beginning to see eye to eye on the major things—they are agreed on what the diplomats call the "principle," and there are just some slight details of difference on how the principle shall be applied.

Basically there never was any doubt that, if the President asked Congress for authority to station our troops in Europe as a part of our North Atlantic treaty obligation, he would get such authority by overwhelming vote. The legalists who told him a bad precedent would be created if he asked for such authority were giving Mr. Truman poor advice. The President of the United States can always act of his own initiative in sending troops out of the country if there is danger. He does not need to wait for congressional action. But where there is time, the words of the Constitution would seem to imply that he ask for congressional authority soon after he sends the troops abroad, if not before.

It may be stated also that a declaration which recognizes a state of war with Communist China, if submitted to Congress now, would pass by an overwhelming vote of both Houses. Congressional sentiment is almost unanimous on the rejection of the phony "peace" proposal made by the Chinese Communists, and there is complete backing for the Department of State in its efforts to obtain the adoption at the United Nations of a resolution condemning Red China as an aggressor.

Under the American system of free discussion, world policies are praised or criticized, or proposals for amendment are made publicly. Thus every official of the Department of State knows what Congress is thinking about and, if not, members of the Congressional committees are free to come in and talk about it or write in or telephone.

What is needed here mostly is to encourage a spirit of cooperation—to instill the feeling at the Department of State that members of Congress have a responsibility to their constituents and also to instill on Capitol Hill the feeling that the Department of State will welcome advice. Having established the right kind of relationship between the two branches of government, it then becomes essential for Congress to recognize that under the constitution the conduct of foreign relations is an executive function and that the President and secretary of state must make the final decisions and be held accountable for them to the country.

As one looks back on the somewhat clumsy performances of the last few days, one wonders how much it is all due to the deep-seated partisanship of the President himself, which distrusts the opposition party, and conversely to the distrust which the opposition party has with respect to Mr. Truman and his secretary of state.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Jan. 18—Soon after the "Hollywood Ten" were convicted of contempt of Congress in refusing to answer the $64 question, word came out of Hollywood that the great Dore Schary, who was soon to eclipse the martyr patriot, James K. McGuinness, had rallied the industry with a cry for a firm stand against the hysteria of the hour. It would pass and the suspect and slandered writers, directors and producers would retain their positions and prosper as before.

Mr. Schary is vice president of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer in charge of production. He is a mighty man. One might even say, now, that Schary is The Mighty Man, of Hollywood, politically, economically and in an indefinable zone of power that may be called leadership or control. His rise has been fast and unrelenting. He has taken no backward steps.

His estimate of the situation during the commotion over the testimony of the guilty "Hollywood Ten" and the patriotic anti-Communist witnesses was accurate and prophetic. Mr. Schary's wisdow in calculating the conduct of the people of the United States who momentarily seemed aroused in patriotic rage against the industry may be a clue to his success. The man is there. He knows what makes the public tick. McGuinness and the other patriotic Hollywood witnesses were smashed.

Schary's wisdom in that instance is vindicated by the clamorous reception of the Twentieth Century Fox production of "Halls of Montezuma," a grand tribute to the United States Marines. This show was directed by Lewis Milestone. It was written by Michael Blankfort. It had a grand premiere in Hollywood with fanfare by a marine band under orders from the commandant of the corps in Washington, notwithstanding advice to his office concerning previous activities of Milestone and Blankfort. "Montezuma" had a grand invitational premiere in New York. The reviewers raved.

Lewis Milestone is named on a letterhead as sponsor of the American Relief Ship for Spain, Sept. 3, 1938. This outfit was described as a Communist front by the House Committee on Un-American Activities. He is named "sponsor" in a booklet issued by the Committee for Equal Justice for Mrs. Recy Taylor. This was a sub-committee of the International Labor Defense, which was cited as a Communist front by both the attorney general of the United States and the House Committee. The Daily Worker of April 6, 1937, named Lewis Milestone as a member of the advisory board of Frontier Films. This was named by the House committee as a device of the Communist party. A pamphlet of the Hollywood anti-Nazi named Milestone as sponsor. The House committee and the Tenney committee of the California Legislature cited this one as a front.

Milestone's name appears on the official ballot of the Hollywood Democratic committee. This was tagged by both the House committee and the Tenney committee. It was repudiated by the Democratic party. Milestone was named "sponsor" on a letter-head of the Hollywood Committee for Democratic Action.

This was cited by the House Committee and the Tenney Committee. The New Masses, a Communist magazine, on March 21, 1938, listed Milestone as one who signed a cable sent by the League of American Writers, which was branded subversive by the attorney general and a Communist front by the House Committee.

Milestone was listed as a mem-

TRUE QUALITY OF HEROISM

What strange spark makes a man a hero in battle?

Perhaps it's something that really defies definition. Maybe we shouldn't try, but should instead just be grateful that we have heroes. For no one can doubt that any army is the better for the heroic deeds of its bravest men.

Five American heroes, all either dead or missing as result of the fighting in Korea, were honored by President Truman the other day with the nation's highest military tribute—the Congressional Medal of Honor.

Among the five was Gen. William F. Dean, a top U. S. field commander until his disappearance in action around Taejon last summer. The others. Lt. Frederick Henry of Clinton, Okla.; Master Sgt. Travis Watkins of Gladewater, Tex.; Sgt. Charles Turner of Boston, and Pvt. Melvin Brown of Mahaffey, Pa.

All of these men performed acts of bravery above and beyond the call of duty. In almost every case, their courage saved the lives of other men, who went on to fight and may still be fighting.

Let's look at just one of these heroes, to sample the true quality of heroism under fire. We'll take Brown, who happens to be lowest in rank. A member of an engineers' combat battalion, he distinguished himself while his outfit was engaged with the North Koreans near Kasan last September 4.

The Reds counter-attacked as his platoon was attempting to secure what was known simply as Hill 755. Brown's citation reads:

"Taking a position on a 50-foot-high wall, he delivered heavy rifle fire on the enemy. His ammunition was soon expended and, although wounded, he remained at his post and threw his few grenades at the attackres. . . . When his supply of grenades was exhausted, his comrades from nearby foxholes tossed others to him and he left his position, braving a hail of fire, to retrieve and throw them at the enemy.

"The attackers continued to assault his position and Private Brown, weaponless, drew his intrenching tool from his pack and calmly waited until they, one by one, peered over the wall—delivering each a crushing blow upon the head. Knocking ten or twelve enemy from the wall, his daring action so inspired his platoon that they repelled the attack and held their position."

Of such stuff is the defense of liberty made.

Private Brown may never again walk the streets of Mahaffey, Pa. But wherever freedom is enshrined, his memory will reside for all time.

CAUSE OF TITO FEUD

Would Russian policy toward Yugoslavia and Tito change if Stalin died? It has recently been suggested that the bad feeling between Russia and Yugoslavia stems largely from a personal feud between Stalin and Tito. The story is that Stalin resented the prominence given Tito in Yugoslav propaganda, and thought that the Russians should get the credit for freeing the country of the Nazis.

When the 71-year-old Stalin dies, his successor, whether Molotov, Beria or another, will direct Soviet policy according to what he considers the national interests. Personal feeling now held by Stalin will not influence him, although he may have prejudices of his own. That might mean a renewal of friendship between the two countries.

The quarrel may have started on a personal basis, but that is not the whole story now. Friendship between Russia and any other country seems to be possible only on Russia's terms. With the satellites the terms are that Russia should have absolute mastery over them. Whether or not Stalin started this policy, it has been accepted by the Kremlin, and is likely to continue whether Stalin lives or dies. No mere change in heads can be expected to alter anything except the degree of efficiency in carrying this policy out.

Grandparents enjoy a most enviable position. When they pick up the cuddly grandchild only to have him cry, kick and fuss, they can hand him back to his parents.

THE POWER OF THE PURSE

The quarrel between President Truman and the Congress may resolve itself into an inquiry into the constitutional question of the power of the purse. Even on the Democratic side it is evident that supporters of the President's policies feel that he should not, at this time, raise constitutional issues which need not be raised. Senator Paul Douglas of Illinois, a supporter of Mr. Truman's war program, indicated that clearly.

The President's position, stated on January 11, is that he admits that Congress controls the purse, but that if Congress disagrees with him, he will go to the people. Of course, that is precisely what Congress did in the last election: The whole of the House of Representatives and one-third of the Senate were then elected. By the only legal process available in this country the people were gone to and they made choices.

The Constitution is altogether clear on this subject:

"No money shall be drawn from the Treasury, but in consequence of appropriations made by law; and a regular statement and account of the receipts and expenditures of all public money shall be published from time to time."

The power of Congress in the control of our money is absolute. Congress, in turn, is responsible only to the people, whose decisions are made at elections. The President may veto an appropriation bill, but he may not expend a cent unless Congress so authorizes him.

Ours is a government of limited and enumerated powers. No one can assert legal power; it must be granted either by the Constitution or by Congress. The money power is enumerated as belonging to Congress.

The object of this provision in the Constitution is to prevent a President from becoming a tyrant. After all, if he could raise and use money without restraint, he could govern as a dictator without authorization by Congress or by the interdicts of the Supreme Court. Our government would then be an autocracy.

Lord Bryce, in his masterpiece, "The American Commonwealth," explains the congressional control of the purse as follows:

". . . If he were to engage in military operations—he cannot understand the Constitution 'declare war' for that belongs to Congress—the House might paralyze him by declining to vote the requisite army appropriations. If he were to repeat the splendid audacity of Jefferson by purchasing a new territory, they could withhold the purchase money. But if, keeping within the limits of his constitutional functions, he takes a different course from that they recommend, if for instance he should refuse, at their repeated requests, to demand the liberation of American citizens pining in foreign dungeons, or to suppress disorders in a state whose government had requested federal intervention, they would have to look on. To withhold the ordinary supplies, and thereby stop the machine of government, would injure the country and themselves far more than the President. They would, to use a common expression, be cutting off their nose to spite their face. They could not lawfully refuse to vote his salary, for that is guaranteed to him by the Constitution. They could not, except by a successful impeachment, turn him out of the White House or deprive him of his title to the obedience of all federal officials."

In this phase of the debate, the Constitution looms large, for those who maintain that the so-called UN (90 per cent American) police action is a subterfuge, insist that congressional control over the budget, peacetime or wartime, must not be bypassed by any device or subterfuge.

The issue is tremendously important. For if we are not fighting for constitutional government, what are we fighting for. Unless Congress can control the power of the purse, this country may become a dictatorship. Does it matter by what name a dictator is called? Does it matter by what scheme and device the Constitution is bypassed? Does it matter how skillfully a legalistic mind discovers a loophole through which he can snare a trick? The effects are the same.

Therefore, the fight in Congress over this issue may go far afield. It may even lead to an inquiry as to expenditures during the past 20 years.

That Body of Yours

METABOLISM RATE OF THE BODY

Many hospitals and also many physicians today are establishing metabolism clinics to make sure that the overweight patient is not overweight because of underactivity of one or more of the glands of the body, particularly the thyroid gland in the neck, the overactivity of which is called goiter or Grave's disease.

Metabolism is the rate or measure of the working processes of the body—heart beat, respiration, circulation of the blood. What is called the basal metabolism rate (B.M.R.) is the rate at a resting state, meaning mental, physical and emotional rest with no digestion or absorption of food going on in the body. A person lying motionless and relaxed, 12 to 14 hours after the last meal, at ordinary room temperature, is considered to be in a resting state. While he is lying quietly, the amount of oxygen he is using to keep the body processes going is measured.

It has been found that for each liter (about one quart) of oxygen he breathes into his lungs he has manufactured heat equal to the burning of 4.8 calories of food. By measuring the amount of oxygen used or breathed in for a few minutes in this resting state, the amount used during the entire 24 hours can be calculated.

Naturally a man weighing 200 pounds or a woman weighing 150 pounds will require more oxygen than a man of 150 pounds or a woman of 120 pounds. Also a boy of 16 might require more than a girl of 16. The amount of oxygen needed depends upon the size or skin surface of the body. The heat production per square meter (a little more than a square yard) is accepted as the measure of the resting heat production of an individual. It is called the basal (lowest) metabolism.

By estimating the amount of body surface, the physician knows by the amount of oxygen used whether the individual has a normal rate. Taking the normal rate at 100, if rate is more than 115 or less than 85 (plus or minus 15) he tries to find the reason. If over 115, he will look for disturbance of thyroid gland (goiter) or infection of some kind. If under 85, he expects to find that the thyroid is underactive.

However, if the physician feels that the patient is not completely relaxed, is upset in mind when test is made, he will have one or two further tests made.

Uncle Sam Takes the Ball

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — Not much gets into the newspapers about the social lobby these days, but an awful lot of business is still done over Washington dinner tables—even including war contracts.

The other day, Victor Emanuel, a power behind the far-flung Avco Manufacturing Corporation, Standard Gas and Electric, Crosley Broadcasting, and Republic Steel, gave a dinner in honor of Stuart Symington, svelte, efficient head of the National Security Resources Board.

Symington got a lot of publicity once before from accepting the hospitality of Floyd Odlum of Consolidated Vultee, who manufactured B-36's at a time when Symington was buying B-36's for the air forces. Emanuel is now making B-36 parts, Symington is out of the air forces, though he packs a powerful wallop in a lot of other remobilization fields.

At any rate, Symington, an extremely busy man, went to the dinner, which was attended by various bigwigs, including homey Sen. Homer Capehart of Indiana. Later it developed that Homer had used the dinner to do some quiet lobbying on war contracts.

Dinner-Table Friend

Senator Sparkman of Alabama has just written a penetrating report showing how small businessmen are not able to get war contracts. He should have included in his report the following letter of November 30 from Victor Emanuel to John Craig, general manager of the Crosley division of the Avco Manufacturing Co., in Cincinnati as an illustration of how little business can get war business—if you have a father in the Senate and if you attend the proper dinner parties. Emanuel's letter to Craig follows:

"Dear Johnny:

"I have never had a trip such as this and am writing this between appointments.

"At the dinner I gave for Stu Symington last night, Senator Homer Capehart was here and was very appreciative of all our kindness and, incidentally, he talked considerably about Richmond and Connersville. He has a son, Tom Capehart, who has the Packard Mfg. Corp. in Indianapolis. This is a rather small plant but did considerable war production in the last war. Capehart owns one other plant but this is leased for eight years to Cornell-Dubilier Electric Corp. He would like us to work closely with his son, especially in the field of subcontracting.

"I explained to Homer that we, ourselves outside of Lycoming-Spencer Division, did not have any great amount of war orders now but we were going to have to go after them and we would do everything possible to cooperate with his son.

"At your convenience, could you get in touch with Tom Capehart and ask him to come to see you and tell you about his facilities which, to repeat, are not large, and, everything being equal, as and when we can utilize his facilities, we will certainly do all within our power to do so? I know you will agree that this is a good thing to do."

Assurances to the Senator

Victor Emanuel wrote a similar letter to another of his company executives, Ray Donaldson, and so anxious was he to please Senator Capehart that the same day he also wrote Capehart the following letter:

"Dear Homer:

"I flew back to New York this afternoon and am trying to make a start on my desk.

"I have just written Ray Donaldson per the enclosed copy and, before I left Washington, I wrote Mr. John W. Craig, vice president of our company and general manager of our Crosley division, about your son and the Packard Manufacturing Company, asking him to get in touch with your son.

"It was awfully nice seeing you last night and having such a good visit, and I will look forward to seeing you on the occasion of my next trip to Washington.

"With every good wish to you, please believe me,

"Most sincerely,

"VICTOR EMANUEL"

"Watch Out for Tom"

This was followed by several interoffice memos regarding the type of business which young Capehart's plant might be able to handle, plus a letter from Tom Capehart listing his plant equipment in great detail.

Finally on Dec. 12, F. W. Warner, of the Crosley Division of AVCO, Cincinnati, sent the following memo to "all buyers" alerting them to be on the lookout for ways of placing orders with the son of the senator from Indiana. Warner's memo reads:

"Subject: Packard Manufacturing Corporation

"Copies to: All buyers

"I am enclosing, herewith, copies of my file on the above subject company which is completely self-explanatory.

"The Honorable Homer Capehart is a very important senator in Washington, and a very close personal friend of Mr. Emanuel.

"I definitely want every one of you to give every consideration to his son, Mr. Thomas C. Capehart, president of the Packard Manufacturing Corporation, on any item he may be in a position to furnish us, provided he can be competitive from every standpoint.

"I would appreciate your sending me copies of inquiries to the Packard Manufacturing Corporation for the next two or three months so that I may have an answer for Mr. Craig to submit to Mr. Emanuel.

"F. W. WARNER"

Most small businessmen spend days cooling their heels in government bureaus, or paying fees to five percenters before they can get either government orders or subcontracting orders from the big corporations. They do not have a father in the Senate.

Washington Pipeline

Congratulations to Senator Bridges of New Hampshire for forgetting old grudges and standing aside so his colleague, Senator Tobey of New Hampshire, could move into the coveted Republican vacancy on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Bridges had more seniority than Tobey, and was under considerable pressure to prevent a liberal, like Tobey, from taking the post. However, Bridges refused to block his old political enemy. . . . Phil Murray of the CIO and Bill Green of the AFL will soon be appointed on a new and important labor committee to push war mobilization. . . . The Canadian army has developed a revolutionary short-wave communications set that will vastly improve contact between battle troops on the field. This is one of the most important Canadian inventions in years and Canada will make it part of the standard equipment of the North Atlantic army.

Relations Between President and Congress Better; Troop Deal Looked Bad in Press

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Jan. 19—Relations between Congress and President Truman are getting better. There's a rift in the clouds and a bit of amicability is beginning to appear.

Apparently President Truman didn't mean to be brusque with Congress last week when he said, in effect, he would consult Congress but would do as he pleased about sending troops abroad. He told the reporters that maybe they didn't write the story the way he meant it. They, of course, wrote what they heard him say. Mr. Truman thinks the implications of his words were perhaps misconstrued or ignored.

These misunderstandings will occur. Mr. Truman is really not complaining that the reporting was unsound but that at times things don't sound in print like they sound when he says them. Maybe they ought to have a system of sound effects to cure this so that the exact intonation of voice could be recorded. Maybe the whole press conference should be put on radio and television so that the public—whose business is being discussed—can judge for itself what the inflections of a presidential voice really mean.

As for Congress, there are signs that Senator Taft is softening or clarifying his position, too. He wouldn't object to sending troops to Europe, he says, but wants Congress to spell out some sort of ratio so that America will supply certain divisions and the other nations some divisions in proper proportion.

Anyway, there seems to be a convergence toward agreement. So far as foreign governments are concerned, they can properly derive from these modifications, clarifications, and explanations that the executive and legislative branches of the American government are beginning to see eye to eye on the major things—they are agreed on what the diplomats call the "principle," and there are just some slight details of difference on how the principle shall be applied.

Basically there never was any doubt that, if the President asked Congress for authority to station our troops in Europe as a part of our North Atlantic treaty obligation, he would get such authority by overwhelming vote. The legalists who told him a bad precedent would be created if he asked for such authority were giving Mr. Truman poor advice. The President of the United States can always act of his own initiative in sending troops out of the country if there is danger. He does not need to wait for congressional action. But where there is time, the words of the Constitution would seem to imply that he ask for congressional authority soon after he sends the troops abroad, if not before.

It may be stated also that a declaration which recognizes a state of war with Communist China, if submitted to Congress now, would pass by an overwhelming vote of both Houses. Congressional sentiment is almost unanimous on the rejection of the phony "peace" proposal made by the Chinese Communists, and there is complete backing for the Department of State in its efforts to obtain the adoption at the United Nations of a resolution condemning Red China as an aggressor.

Under the American system of free discussion, world policies are praised or criticized, or proposals for amendment are made publicly. Thus every official of the Department of State knows what Congress is thinking about and, if not, members of the Congressional committees are free to come in and talk about it or write in or telephone.

What is needed here mostly is to encourage a spirit of cooperation—to instill the feeling at the Department of State that members of Congress have a responsibility to their constituents and also to instill on Capitol Hill the feeling that the Department of State will welcome advice. Having established the right kind of relationship between the two branches of government, it then becomes essential for Congress to recognize that under the constitution the conduct of foreign relations is an executive function and that the President and secretary of state must make the final decisions and be held accountable for them to the country.

As one looks back on the somewhat clumsy performances of the last few days, one wonders how much it is all due to the deep-seated partisanship of the President himself, which distrusts the opposition party, and conversely to the distrust which the opposition party has with respect to Mr. Truman and his secretary of state.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Jan. 18—Soon after the "Hollywood Ten" were convicted of contempt of Congress in refusing to answer the $64 question, word came out of Hollywood that the great Dore Schary, who was soon to eclipse the martyr patriot, James K. McGuinness, had rallied the industry with a cry for a firm stand against the hysteria of the hour. It would pass and the suspect and slandered writers, directors and producers would retain their positions and prosper as before.

Mr. Schary is vice president of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer in charge of production. He is a mighty man. One might even say, now, that Schary is The Mighty Man, of Hollywood, politically, economically and in an indefinable zone of power that may be called leadership or control. His rise has been fast and unrelenting. He has taken no backward steps.

His estimate of the situation during the commotion over the testimony of the guilty "Hollywood Ten" and the patriotic anti-Communist witnesses was accurate and prophetic. Mr. Schary's wisdow in calculating the conduct of the people of the United States who momentarily seemed aroused in patriotic rage against the industry may be a clue to his success. The man is there. He knows what makes the public tick. McGuinness and the other patriotic Hollywood witnesses were smashed.

Schary's wisdom in that instance is vindicated by the clamorous reception of the Twentieth Century Fox production of "Halls of Montezuma," a grand tribute to the United States Marines. This show was directed by Lewis Milestone. It was written by Michael Blankfort. It had a grand premiere in Hollywood with fanfare by a marine band under orders from the commandant of the corps in Washington, notwithstanding advice to his office concerning previous activities of Milestone and Blankfort. "Montezuma" had a grand invitational premiere in New York. The reviewers raved.

Lewis Milestone is named on a letterhead as sponsor of the American Relief Ship for Spain, Sept. 3, 1938. This outfit was described as a Communist front by the House Committee on Un-American Activities. He is named "sponsor" in a booklet issued by the Committee for Equal Justice for Mrs. Recy Taylor. This was a sub-committee of the International Labor Defense, which was cited as a Communist front by both the attorney general of the United States and the House Committee. The Daily Worker of April 6, 1937, named Lewis Milestone as a member of the advisory board of Frontier Films. This was named by the House committee as a device of the Communist party. A pamphlet of the Hollywood anti-Nazi named Milestone as sponsor. The House committee and the Tenney committee of the California Legislature cited this one as a front.

Milestone's name appears on the official ballot of the Hollywood Democratic committee. This was tagged by both the House committee and the Tenney committee. It was repudiated by the Democratic party. Milestone was named "sponsor" on a letter-head of the Hollywood Committee for Democratic Action.

This was cited by the House Committee and the Tenney Committee. The New Masses, a Communist magazine, on March 21, 1938, listed Milestone as one who signed a cable sent by the League of American Writers, which was branded subversive by the attorney general and a Communist front by the House Committee.

Milestone was listed as a mem-

Says Automatics Better

New York, Jan. 19 (AP)—Automatic grade crossing gates provide greater protection than manually operated gates, according to testimony yesterday at the Public Service Commission on a petition by the Long Island Rail Road to discontinue manually operated protection at Lakeview station crossings on the West Hempstead branch. "To date, the Long Island Rail Road never had an accident at crossings equipped with automatic short arm highway gates," Bruce C. Hallowell, electric traction engineer for the road stated. Experience has shown, he continued, that the automatic method "eliminates the possibility of man failure, of which we have had a number of said experiences."

Kiwanis Hears About Franklin as Printer

An address by P. C. McGrew on the life of Benjamin Franklin marked the Kingston Kiwanis Club's observance of National Printers' Week this week.

McGrew, a member of the New York Employing Printers Association, spoke to the club members at the regular Thursday noon meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel. He reviewed the life of Franklin, one of this country's first printers and leading statesmen.

Among the facts brought out by McGrew was that the printing business started by Franklin in Philadelphia in 1720 still exists today, has never been out of business and is at present operating within two blocks of the location of Franklin's original printing office.

KENNETH E. HOWE

Would Keep Board

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 19 (AP)—The Legislature has been asked to give permanent status to the temporary board of trustees of the State University, created two years ago. Assemblyman Bernard Austin, Brooklyn Democrat, introduced yesterday a bill that also would authorize a $50,000,00 bond issue for construction and improvements in the 33 units comprising the university. The bond issue would need approval by the voters at the next election. Governor Dewey's Republican administration has not said whether it wants the board of trustees made permanent.

More Corporations

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 19 (AP)—The state chartered 23,532 stock corporations in 1950—2,610 more than in 1949, Secretary of State Thomas J. Curran said the 1950 total compared with a record of 37,609 charterings in 1946.

Mid-Term Meeting of Public School Instructors Scheduled For January 25-26 in Kingston

Fourteen specialists in their chosen field of education or conservation will address the public school teachers at their second annual mid-term conference next week. Sessions will be held Thursday and Friday, January 25 and 26, at Kingston High School and the Myron J. Michael School.

Following Superintendent Arthur J. Laidlaw's speech of welcome, Dr. Paul Sears will open the two-day session with an address entitled, Deserts on the March. Says Automatics Better

New York, Jan. 19 (AP)—Automatic grade crossing gates provide greater protection than manually operated gates, according to testimony yesterday at the Public Service Commission on a petition by the Long Island Rail Road to discontinue manually operated protection at Lakeview station crossings on the West Hempstead branch. "To date, the Long Island Rail Road never had an accident at crossings equipped with automatic short arm highway gates," Bruce C. Hallowell, electric traction engineer for the road stated. Experience has shown, he continued, that the automatic method "eliminates the possibility of man failure, of which we have had a number of said experiences."

Kiwanis Hears About Franklin as Printer

An address by P. C. McGrew on the life of Benjamin Franklin marked the Kingston Kiwanis Club's observance of National Printers' Week this week.

McGrew, a member of the New York Employing Printers Association, spoke to the club members at the regular Thursday noon meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel. He reviewed the life of Franklin, one of this country's first printers and leading statesmen.

Among the facts brought out by McGrew was that the printing business started by Franklin in Philadelphia in 1720 still exists today, has never been out of business and is at present operating within two blocks of the location of Franklin's original printing office.

Would Keep Board

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 19 (AP)—The Legislature has been asked to give permanent status to the temporary board of trustees of the State University, created two years ago. Assemblyman Bernard Austin, Brooklyn Democrat, introduced yesterday a bill that also would authorize a $50,000,00 bond issue for construction and improvements in the 33 units comprising the university. The bond issue would need approval by the voters at the next election. Governor Dewey's Republican administration has not said whether it wants the board of trustees made permanent.

BABSON on BUSINESS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19—I am not a military expert and cannot speak with authority as to what is to happen to our 18 to 22-year-old young men during the next few years. The plans and hopes of many homes, jobs and colleges are completely upset.

Let me, however, add a little hope to frightened families. Men who know what the probabilities are assure me that the future is not as bad as it now looks. They insist that only a few more boys will be shipped to Asia. We will be willing to supply guns and munitions to enable the Japanese to protect Japan, to enable Nationalists to hold Formosa, and to give needed aid to the Philippines. But no more American boys will be sent to Korea, Indo-China, Burma, India or elsewhere in Asia.

Experts at Washington believe that World War III, if it comes, will be fought mainly by the navy and air force. They say it would be suicidal to depend upon numbers of infantry to meet the Russians, even in Europe. With the large number of Communists who infect each European country, it may be best to limit our help to western Europe to supplying them with A-bombs. Therefore, I believe that mothers and boys are unnecessarily excited. Americans seem unable to strike a midde course. They either ignore danger and insist on "business, profits, wages and entertainment as usual," or else they become panic-stricken and go too far in the opposite direction.

Train for Useful Work

I, therefore, strongly advise that parents and their youths avoid getting unduly excited. First, the chances are three to two that Russia will not risk a "hot war" for some time to come; and second, if only the present "cold war" continues, 2,500,000 young men in training would be a nuisance and handicap to all concerned. I, moreover, speak with some authority, having founded three colleges and graduated housands of young men.

I further advise young men between 18 and 20 to quit listening to radio commentators who know no more as to the future than you my readers do. Go on about your plans for schooling or work the same as if no war is now probable. Then if you are called, it will be okay; while the chances are 50-50 that you won't be called. When you go to work, get a job with some industry which is essential to the war program;—don't be content to jerk sodas or drive a truck.

Will Need Brains

The next few years offer a great opportunity for young men to become expert in some one line of work. Too many young people have been getting jobs without any carefully planned aims. The new defense efforts enable a young man to take tests and ascertain for what he is best fitted and how to train therefor. If you live in a small town where there are no industries, have your mother teach you to cook. This is becoming a real profession. Drafted young men who can qualify as trained cooks are always given good opportunities for advancement.

The trouble with parents and youths today is that they visualize the next war—if it comes—will be like the last war. This is a great mistake. We cannot lick Russia by numbers. Korea proved this. It was our Intelligence forces that let us down. We can win by brains. If World War 3 comes it will be a conflict of superior intelligence. Hence, let our youth prepare to use their brains; while the poor Russians, Chinese and other peoples are treated as cannon fodder. If General MacArthur had given more attention to the Intelligence Division of his army and less to old-fashioned fighting customs—things would be different. Our boys should be trained by young leaders in these new ways, rather than by out-dated old "Brass" who cannot adopt modern methods.

Remember Our Religion

Finally, let us parents not forget that God continues to rule in His Heaven and that, in the long run, the Russians can never win without Him. God is still our refuge and our strength if we will cease worrying and take each day as it comes. Let us give more time to reading our Bibles and less to television or even the radio. Perhaps, God is using the Russians to again bring us to our knees and to make our young people—who have had things pretty easy—"stop, look and listen." At any rate, I am an optimist and believe that whatever happens, those who do their best from day to day have nothing to fear.

The New York Times of Oct. 10, 1941, listed Lewis Milestone as sponsor of an appeal by Russian War Relief, Inc., cited by the House and Tenney committees. He was listed as a member of the executive council of the Hollywood Independent Citizens' Committee of the Arts, Sciences and Professions, on a letterhead dated Oct. 2, 1945.

Michael Blankfort, the author of the "Montezuma" spectacle capitalizing the glory and the sacrifice of loyal American marines, was named "sponsor" in an official program of the American Peace Mobilization dated April 5, 1941. That was during the Stalin-Hitler alliance. The attorney general of the United States said this outfit was subversive.

The New Masses, an undisguised Communist publication, listed Blankfort as a member of the board of directors of the American Society for Technical Aid to Spanish Democracy. This was cited by the House committee. Blankfort signed an appeal to the Supreme Court as amicus curiae for the notorious "Hollywood Ten." A publication of the League of American Writers, condemned by both the attorney general and the House committee, named Blankfort as a member. The records of the House committee list Blankfort as a sponsor of a committee to organize a celebration in honor of the licentious old Communist battle-axe, "Mother" Ella Reeve Bloor. A program published in 1935 named Blankfort as a member of the national committee against censorship in the theatre arts, called a front by the House committee.

The program of the conference of the National Council of the Arts, Sciences and Professions, March 25-27, named Blankfort as a sponsor. The House committee turned out a whole book on this front. Blankfort's name appears over 19 contributions to the Communist new masses. The Sunday Worker, the official Communist organ in New York, in December 1935, named him as an editor. It goes without saying that all executives of the Sunday Worker had to be in good standing with the Communist Party.

Such then are the two who got up "The Halls of Montezuma." It may seem strange that in all the United States it was impossible to find two men with records absolutely innocent of such association to create this epic of the marines.

The Great Schary was right. The dumb Americans did forget. Within a month after the tragic death of the martyr, James K. McGuinness, who fought the treason and was whispered out of Hollywood, Milestone and Blankfort drank deep of their triumph in a theatre a few blocks from the hotel where Jim expired with the cry on his lips, "Lucie! please, my prayer-book! I am dying!"

The contract depended on South's next play. If he finessed, he would win nine tricks. If he put up the king of diamonds, he would be set. What follows is what South thought about during his long huddle.

West had started with exactly five clubs and three hearts. That left room in his hand for five cards in spades and diamonds combined. Did the opening lead mean that West had four spades and hence only one diamond; or had West led low from three spades headed by the ace?

If West had started with only three spades, East must have started with five. In that case, East might have been tempted to continue spades instead of shifting to clubs. Surely he would consider the matter, even if he decided eventually to lead clubs.

But East had shifted to clubs without hesitation. South decided that East was not the sort of person to settle a difficult problem so quickly; hence it was unlikely that he had been faced with the problem.

South also considered the opening lead. If West had started with three spades to the ace and three little hearts, would he have led a spade or a heart? Probably a heart, South decided. However, West would prefer to lead spades if he held four of them.

All the evidence pointed in the same direction, so South assumed that West had started with only one diamond. He therefore took the diamond finesse and made his contract.

Tiny Beetle New Threat to Pines

One of the tiniest tree insects known to man is now suspected of transmitting a serious fungus infection to pines of the two needle group—Scotch, Austrian, Mugho and red.

It is the pine tip beetle, so dark brown in color it looks black and is no more than 1/32nd of an inch in length, according to Dr. Stanley W. Bromley, chief entomologist of the Bartlett Tree Research Laboratories.

The disease it carries is Sphaeropsis, or Diplodia, a fungus which causes tips of pines to brown and die. As the disease progresses, the trees become so seedy in appearance that they must be removed.

Studies conducted by Dr. Bromley, and just announced, show that the tip beetle carries the infection just as Scolytus bark beetles transmit Dutch elm disease; as leaf hoppers carry Phloem necrosis, another dread elm infection; and as aphids and greenhouse thrips are responsible for the spread of virus diseases in plants.

Chew Into Tips

These beetles chew into the tips of pine shoots and transmit the infection into the wood. Wherever they bite, a lesion or pitchy exudate appears. This interferes with the normal function of the shoot and twig dieback results.

Dr. Bromley's experiments show that Diplodia may enter a tree through a tiny crack in the bark apart from help by the beetle. And not all pine tip beetles carry Diplodia. But in the majority of cases, Dr. Bromley reported, the insect and the fungus disease work hand in hand and "all evidence points to the beetle as the nefarious carrier."

The pine tip beetle caused serious injury in southern New England 20 years ago. Then the Diplodia fungus, whose outward injury is very similiar to that of the insect pest, commanded attention. Now both are on the upsurge again over a considerable part of the country, Dr. Bromley reports. And the injury may be accentuated next spring and summer because many pines were weakened by last November's storm.

Best control can be obtained by spraying with a combination of fungicide and insecticide—arsenate of lead, nicotine and Bordeaux—when new shoots appear.

The pine tip bettle caused serious injury in southern New England 20 years ago. Then the Diplodia fungus, whose outward injury is very similiar to that of the insect pest, commanded attention. Now both are on the upsurge again over a considerable part of the country, Dr. Bromley reports. And the injury may be accentuated next spring and summer because many pines were weakened by last November's storm.

Best control can be obtained by spraying with a combination of fungicide and insecticide—arsenate of lead, nicotine and Bordeaux—when new shoots appear.

School No. 6 Parents Hear A-Bomb Talk By Sherwood Davis

Sherwood Davis, director of civilian defense in Kingston, was guest speaker Tuesday evening of the Parents' Group of School No. 6, when a film, "How to Beat the A-Bomb" was shown. The film, which is currently being shown in the schools from the sixth to eighth grades, is available by appointment, Mr. Davis announced, and will be shown to younger grades, as well as other groups, if requested.

During his talk, Mr. Davis is reported to have given a clear picture of the civil defense program in Kingston. He also spoke of the evacuation methods and procedure which will be used in the event of an attack on New York. Parents were reassured, as he stressed the comparatively small danger in this area. Regardless of a direct hit on the city, he pointed out, if the precautionary procedures outlined in the film and in a booklet, "You and the Atom Bomb," are followed, there is little to fear. The booklet, which is being distributed in the schools, he stressed, should be kept for reference in case of an emergency.

Although there was a large attendance at the meeting, regret was expressed that all parents could not have been present.

During the group's business meeting, with Mrs. Lionel B. Herrington presiding, plans for relieving overcrowded conditions in the lower grades were discussed, and referred to the service committee for further consideration. Members of the service committee include Mrs. Herrington, Mrs. C. Robert Cousins and Mrs. H. O. Miller. Plans were also made to minimize the hazard caused by children running for the city bus. Room mothers were announced, and thanked for their willingness to cooperate, and a letter of thanks was voted to the Rotary Club for the Children's Christmas candy.

March 21 has been named as the tentative date for the group's next meeting.

Golden Age Club Has Entertainment

Miss Alison Reppert entertained the Golden Age Club with readings when the group met January 12 at the Y.W.C.A. Club members also enjoyed a group of games, and corsages were presented to the youngest and oldest guests.

During the meeting refreshments were served by Miss Louise Merikle, Miss Florence Cordts, Mrs. Charles Brandt and Mrs. Henry P. Eighmey.

The Golden Age Club will meet again January 26 at the Y.W.C.A.

Okefenokee Swamp Sets Scene for Film Shown Dinner Club

The strange and little known land of Okefenokee Swamp flashed across the screen in all its color, beauty, and ugliness last night as Joseph Ramsey, noted photographer, explorer and herpetologist lectured the details and circumstances of his film, "Land of Trembling Earth."

Ramey explaining that our times are "a hard period;" when "our minds are befuddled, and we don't understand," expressed the hope that his audience, like himself, would find release from strain by escaping, if only for a little while, from the world's controversies. When the world seems particularly dark, the slight gray haired man told his audience, "then I go out with a camera and take nature shots."

Ramsey also pointed out that while even as a boy he had always enjoyed illustrated wildlife lectures, he had always objected to the emphasis on beauty; on "the whispering pines and the hemlocks." "I am inclined to think we have grown up a generation who think they are nature lovers," he smiled, "when in reality they are lovers of natural beauty. And so, tonight, with deliberation, I propose to ignore what we think of as the beauties in nature. Natural beauty is merely coincidental."

Large and Exotic

Turning to the weird and wonderful world of Okefenokee, Ramsey described the swamp country as the "largest, most primeval, and strangely exotic in the continent." The swamp islands themselves, he described as masses of matted, semi-tropical vegetation, which, breaking from the swamp bottom, float on the surface, often bearing large stands of trees and heavy growth. Okefenokee, which means in Seminole dialect, "land of trembling earth," is, he assured the group, no exaggeration. He compared walking on the swamp islands to "walking on a huge inner-spring mattress, while the land moves in concentric circles as when a pebble is thrown into a pool of water."

Unusual, fantastic, and little known, he stressed that even the natives living in the shadow of the swamp, are afraid of its outstanding sinister side. The vast folklore, which has grown up through the generations, all stresses the swamp's dangers, which even today remains impenetrable and half unexplored.

Animal Life

Touching on the animal life in the swamp, Ramsey admitted his own fear of snakes. When he went to the swamp to photograph them in their natural habitat, he said, he considered them a challenge; something he feared through ignorance. He set out to find shots of the diamond back rattler in the 600 square miles of Okefenokee; to follow water trails so nebulous and indistinct that today only a handful of men can bring a visitor safely through them.

The film itself touched on the life and habits of a score or more of the swamp's most prominent citizens; the swamp otter that can swim faster than a trout; the bald eagle, with his white crested head; the carnivorous pitcher plant that lures insects to its flower; the true American stork; coons that infest the swamp and try to share a human visitor's bed with him; the gaunt, ugly, and somehow malevolent vultures silently waiting for carrion; and alligators, those prehistoric hangovers, with sluggish, ugly bodies, that, when roused, can outrun a horse. There were pictures of the swamp bear, splashing like a school boy at his first spring visit to the swimming hole, and of the comparatively rare alligator snapping turtle who weighs over 100 pounds.

And there were pictures of snakes. There was the diamond back rattler with his double fanged jaw, king snakes, puff adders, that can spread their heads like a cobra, and the brightly striped coral snake. With the last scenes of cypress and Spanish moss, of dark water reflecting sky, trees, and miniature orchids, "Land of Trembling Earth" seemed as much the record of a man who had overcome a fear, as the itinerary of an explorer.

Plan Watercolor Exhibit

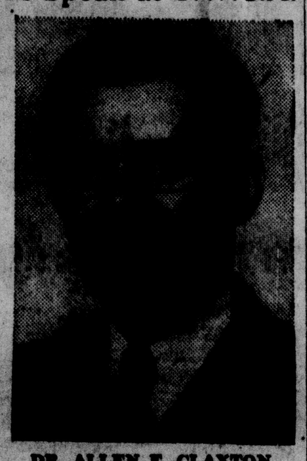

The art committee of New Paltz State Teachers College has announced an exhibit of watercolors by Elliot O'Hara Sunday. The exhibit will be hung in the main corridor of the college building. A reception will be held from 3 to 5 p. m., and tea will be served by the faculty wives.

Tea at the Senate House

Members of the Incorporated Society, Wiltwyck Chapter, D.A.R., as they gathered for tea yesterday afternoon at the Senate House as the guests of Mrs. Emily Crane Chadbourne, president of the Senate House Association. Earlier in the afternoon the group heard a lecture by Mrs. Frederick P. Smith on "Woodstock: History and Personalities." In the picture Mrs. G. Van Deusen Hutton is shown pouring a cup of tea for Mrs. Adam Porter, regent, while other D.A.R. members look on. (Freeman Photo)

Dr. Allen Claxton Domestic Counselor To Speak at Y.W.C.A.

DR. ALLEN E. CLAXTON

Dr. Allen E. Claxton, pastor of the Broadway Temple Methodist Church, New York, and noted counselor in the field of domestic problems, will be the featured speaker at the annual dinner of the local YWCA on Wednesday, January 24, at 6:30 p. m.

Reservations for the dinner must be made at the YWCA, (telephone 1911) Monday, January 22, by noon.

The speaker is a member of the General Board of Evangelism of the Methodist Church and chairman of the New York Conference Commission on Evangelism. He has lectured at many colleges and universities on "Religion in Life," and has conducted schools of evangelism in several Methodist conferences. He is a member of the Board of Directors of the New York Council of Boy Scouts of America, the New York Council of Camp Fire Girls, the New York Kiwanis Club, and the Protestant Council of the City of New York. He also broadcasts every Wednesday over Station WJZ and the A.B.C. network.

The agenda for the annual dinner at the YWCA building on Clinton avenue includes the annual reports of the organization, announcement of the recently-elected members of the Board of Directors, vocal solos by Mrs. Collette Magnusson Sonnenberg, including "Desert Song" by Romberg and "My Hero" by Strauss, accompanied by Mrs. Ella Eltinge, and an address by Dr. Allen E. Claxton. The Rev. Ralph Houston of St. James Methodist Church will give the invocation.

Secretary's Report For Home for Aged Shows Active Year

The Board of Managers of the Home for the Aged, Washington avenue, met at the home January 11, for their annual meeting. At the same time Mrs. Harry Halverson, secretary, gave her annual report.

Official Report

Madam president and members of the Board of Managers of the Home for the Aged in Ulster county. It gives me pleasure to submit the following report:

We have had nine meetings during the year with an average attendance of 13. We have received 33 single applications.

Donation Day was held at the home on October 26 at which time visitors are always invited and the guests of the home are also present. This past year at this Donation Day a very fine program was given by students at the Teachers College, New Paltz, under the direction of Miss Harding. There was a skit by the drama group, and musical numbers by another group. Especially the guests of the home enjoy these entertainments. Refreshments were served from an attractively decorated tea table by Mrs. Harry Flemming and her able committee.

The cash receipts amounted to $493.47 and many articles were also received.

Each month a list of donations is published and write-ups for Donation Day, as well as other items for the benefit of the home are published in The Kingston Daily Freeman. We are most grateful for the publicity which the paper gives these articles.

The Ministerial Association has supplied the home with services on Sundays, which is greatly appreciated by the guests.

Entertainments have been provided by the various churches and other organizations of the city for which the guests are very thankful. Again this year, through the efforts of Mrs. Conrad Heiselman and her committee, the guests have been taken out each week during the pleasant weather for drives through the country. This has been thoroughly enjoyed by the guests.

Our expenses for nursing and hospital care have been very much larger than in previous years.

We have tried to keep our expenditures on furnishings to the minimum.

A visiting committee from the board has called regularly on the guests, especially those unable to leave the home.

Our Good Cheer Committee has been able to provide many extra niceties during the year to the guests to make their days more happy, such as remembering their birthdays, etc.

At Christmas time the home was beautifully decorated for the holiday season by Mr. and Mrs. Irving L. Parks.

Santa Claus and Mrs. Santa Claus appeared with a large pack and jingling bells, and delivered Christmas gifts for each guest at the home.

The home always welcomes any entertainment which can be given at any time, especially during the winter months when the guests are shut-in.

Respectfully submitted,
MARIAN D. HALVERSON
Secretary.

Wagner's Works To Be Main Theme

A musical event will take place at the Reformed Church, Poughkeepsie, Sunday, Jan. 28, at 4 p. m. when Andrew J. Baird, A.A.G.O., will give an organ recital devoted entirely to the works of Richard Wagner. Several seasons ago Mr. Baird gave two similar programs, and several recent requests have been made for another.

Included in the program will be "The Tannhauser Overture," the preludes to acts one and three of "Lohengrin," the march and prize song from "The Meistersinger," the prelude to "Parsifal," "Love Death" from "Tristan and Isolde," Siegfried's death from "The Twilight of the Gods," and the ride of the Valkyries from "Die Walkure."

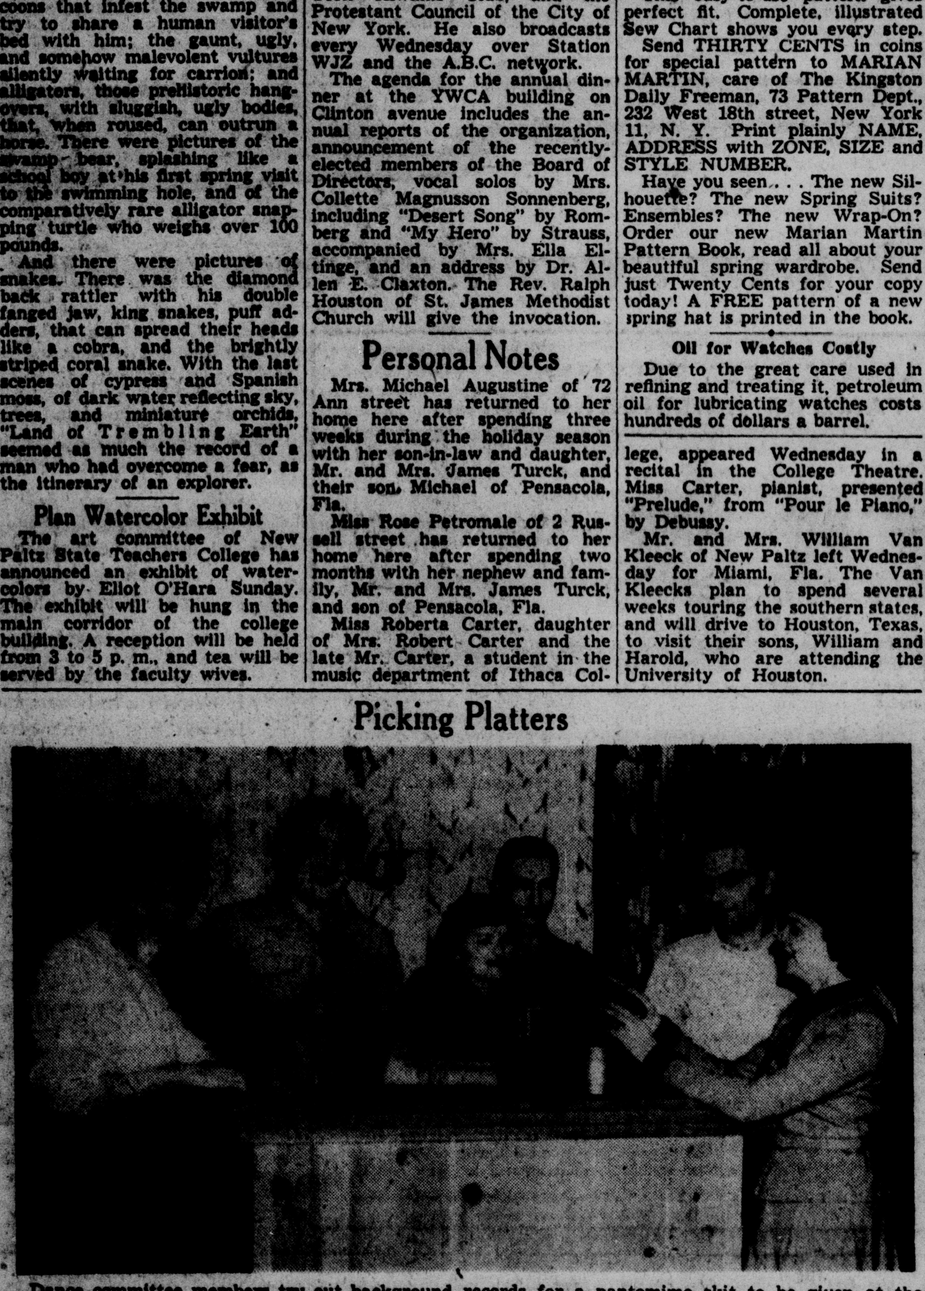

Admission to the recital is free and the doors of the church will be opened at 3:15 p. m.

Y.M.C.A. News

The Friday Nighter Co-ed Club for junior high schoolers will hold a dance tonight at the Y.M.C.A. from 7 to 10, with music by Harry Freer and his Starlighters.

A centennial spaghetti dinner will be held tomorrow noon at the Y.M.C.A. for the Preps.

Picking Platters

Dance committee members try out background records for a pantomime skit to be given at the Agudas Achim dance and entertainment January 27 at the vestry hall. Melodies for round and square dancing will be played by Harry Simon and his orchestra. Left to right are Mrs. Stanley Kaplan, committee member in charge of costumes and make-up; Aaron Bahl, and Stanley Kaplan, members of the skit cast; Mrs. Jack Epstein, dance chairman; Herman Lurie, emcee; Jack Epstein, a member of the cast; and Mrs. Seymour Markowitz, co-producer. Not shown are Seymour Markowitz, skit author; Jack Shienvold, in charge of publicity; Mrs. Jack Shienvold, and Mrs. Aaron Bahl, members of the cast. (Freeman Photo)

Local Glee Club Gives Concert In Middletown

The Catskill Glee Club sang before a capacity audience Monday night at their concert in the Webb-Horton Presbyterian Church auditorium, Middletown. The program, sponsored by the Men's Club of the Presbyterian Church, was conducted by Roland E. Heermance, Saugerties, with Donald S. Fellows, Saugerties, as assistant conductor, and Evelyn F. Porter, Catskill, as accompanist.

The program opened with four Glee Club numbers: "On the Sea," "Cockles and Mussels," with Robert J. Tyrrell taking the solo parts, "Sweet and Low," and "Doctor Foster."

Mr. Heermance, baritone, then sang "Myself When Young," "When Children Pray," and "The Ringers," with "Annie Laurie" as his encore.

During the third group on the program Howard W. Hawthorne took the solo parts in "The Song of Songs," and "It's Me O Lord." The Glee Club also sang "While Shepherds Watched," and "De Gospel Train." This group was followed by "Sophomoric Philosophy" sung by the Glee Club quartet.

Next group of songs by the Glee Club included "Prayer" from Lohengrin, "Couldn't Hear Nobody Pray," "Sing a While Longer," and "You'll Never Walk Alone." Leigh R. Falkey took the solo parts.

Herman C. Dilmore, violinist, played "Entr'acte," by Kramer, "Melody" by Dawes, and Burleigh's "Bolero," with "Liebesfreud," by Kreisler as his encore.

The concert's concluding selection was the "Seraphic Song," sung by the Glee Club with Marion Wood, contralto, and Mr. Dilmore.

Following the concert Glee Club members were guests of the Men's Club at a supper in the church social rooms.

Wolfersteig Gives Joint Recital

Robert Wolfersteig of Connelly gave a joint recital January 14, it has been announced, at the Wayne Presbyterian Church, Wayne, Pa. with Kathryn Redard, soprano, and Jay Gore, tenor, as assisting artists.

During the recital Mr. Wolfersteig played "Suite in F Major" by Corelli; "O Sacred Heart Once Wounded," by Bach; "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" by Bach; Vierne's "The Primitive Organ;" and "Yon and Carillon Sortie," by Mulet.

On December 28 the Philadelphia Choral Society gave its 54th consecutive performance of Handel's "Messiah" at St. Mark's Episcopal Church, Philadelphia, under the direction of Sherwood Kains, with Mr. Wolfersteig playing the organ accompaniment. The Philadelphia Bulletin commented on the occasion calling it "a stupendous performance, admirably played."

Mr. Wolfersteig is studying for his Master's degree at Westminister Choir College under Dr. Alexander McCurdy.

There were pictures of the swamp bear, splashing like a school boy at his first spring visit to the swimming hole, and of the comparatively rare alligator snapping turtle who weighs over 100 pounds.

And there were pictures of snakes. There was the diamond back rattler with his double fanged jaw, king snakes, puff adders, that can spread their heads like a cobra, and the brightly striped coral snake. With the last scenes of cypress and Spanish moss, of dark water reflecting sky, trees, and miniature orchids, "Land of Trembling Earth" seemed as much the record of a man who had overcome a fear, as the itinerary of an explorer.

Secretary's Report For Home for Aged Shows Active Year

The Board of Managers of the Home for the Aged, Washington avenue, met at the home January 11, for their annual meeting. At the same time Mrs. Harry Halverson, secretary, gave her annual report.

Official Report

Madam president and members of the Board of Managers of the Home for the Aged in Ulster county. It gives me pleasure to submit the following report:

We have had nine meetings during the year with an average attendance of 13. We have received 33 single applications.

Donation Day was held at the home on October 26 at which time visitors are always invited and the guests of the home are also present. This past year at this Donation Day a very fine program was given by students at the Teachers College, New Paltz, under the direction of Miss Harding. There was a skit by the drama group, and musical numbers by another group. Especially the guests of the home enjoy these entertainments. Refreshments were served from an attractively decorated tea table by Mrs. Harry Flemming and her able committee.

The cash receipts amounted to $493.47 and many articles were also received.

Each month a list of donations is published and write-ups for Donation Day, as well as other items for the benefit of the home are published in The Kingston Daily Freeman. We are most grateful for the publicity which the paper gives these articles.

The Ministerial Association has supplied the home with services on Sundays, which is greatly appreciated by the guests.

Entertainments have been provided by the various churches and other organizations of the city for which the guests are very thankful. Again this year, through the efforts of Mrs. Conrad Heiselman and her committee, the guests have been taken out each week during the pleasant weather for drives through the country. This has been thoroughly enjoyed by the guests.

Our expenses for nursing and hospital care have been very much larger than in previous years.

We have tried to keep our expenditures on furnishings to the minimum.

A visiting committee from the board has called regularly on the guests, especially those unable to leave the home.

Our Good Cheer Committee has been able to provide many extra niceties during the year to the guests to make their days more happy, such as remembering their birthdays, etc.

At Christmas time the home was beautifully decorated for the holiday season by Mr. and Mrs. Irving L. Parks.

Santa Claus and Mrs. Santa Claus appeared with a large pack and jingling bells, and delivered Christmas gifts for each guest at the home.

The home always welcomes any entertainment which can be given at any time, especially during the winter months when the guests are shut-in.

Respectfully submitted,
MARIAN D. HALVERSON
Secretary.

Wagner's Works To Be Main Theme

A musical event will take place at the Reformed Church, Poughkeepsie, Sunday, Jan. 28, at 4 p. m. when Andrew J. Baird, A.A.G.O., will give an organ recital devoted entirely to the works of Richard Wagner. Several seasons ago Mr. Baird gave two similar programs, and several recent requests have been made for another.

Included in the program will be "The Tannhauser Overture," the preludes to acts one and three of "Lohengrin," the march and prize song from "The Meistersinger," the prelude to "Parsifal," "Love Death" from "Tristan and Isolde," Siegfried's death from "The Twilight of the Gods," and the ride of the Valkyries from "Die Walkure."

Admission to the recital is free and the doors of the church will be opened at 3:15 p. m.

Y.M.C.A. News

The Friday Nighter Co-ed Club for junior high schoolers will hold a dance tonight at the Y.M.C.A. from 7 to 10, with music by Harry Freer and his Starlighters.

A centennial spaghetti dinner will be held tomorrow noon at the Y.M.C.A. for the Preps.

Local Glee Club Gives Concert In Middletown

The Catskill Glee Club sang before a capacity audience Monday night at their concert in the Webb-Horton Presbyterian Church auditorium, Middletown. The program, sponsored by the Men's Club of the Presbyterian Church, was conducted by Roland E. Heermance, Saugerties, with Donald S. Fellows, Saugerties, as assistant conductor, and Evelyn F. Porter, Catskill, as accompanist.

The program opened with four Glee Club numbers: "On the Sea," "Cockles and Mussels," with Robert J. Tyrrell taking the solo parts, "Sweet and Low," and "Doctor Foster."

Mr. Heermance, baritone, then sang "Myself When Young," "When Children Pray," and "The Ringers," with "Annie Laurie" as his encore.

During the third group on the program Howard W. Hawthorne took the solo parts in "The Song of Songs," and "It's Me O Lord." The Glee Club also sang "While Shepherds Watched," and "De Gospel Train." This group was followed by "Sophomoric Philosophy" sung by the Glee Club quartet.

Next group of songs by the Glee Club included "Prayer" from Lohengrin, "Couldn't Hear Nobody Pray," "Sing a While Longer," and "You'll Never Walk Alone." Leigh R. Falkey took the solo parts.

Herman C. Dilmore, violinist, played "Entr'acte," by Kramer, "Melody" by Dawes, and Burleigh's "Bolero," with "Liebesfreud," by Kreisler as his encore.

The concert's concluding selection was the "Seraphic Song," sung by the Glee Club with Marion Wood, contralto, and Mr. Dilmore.

Wolfersteig Gives Joint Recital

Robert Wolfersteig of Connelly gave a joint recital January 14, it has been announced, at the Wayne Presbyterian Church, Wayne, Pa. with Kathryn Redard, soprano, and Jay Gore, tenor, as assisting artists.

During the recital Mr. Wolfersteig played "Suite in F Major" by Corelli; "O Sacred Heart Once Wounded," by Bach; "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" by Bach; Vierne's "The Primitive Organ;" and "Yon and Carillon Sortie," by Mulet.

On December 28 the Philadelphia Choral Society gave its 54th consecutive performance of Handel's "Messiah" at St. Mark's Episcopal Church, Philadelphia, under the direction of Sherwood Kains, with Mr. Wolfersteig playing the organ accompaniment. The Philadelphia Bulletin commented on the occasion calling it "a stupendous performance, admirably played."

Mr. Wolfersteig is studying for his Master's degree at Westminister Choir College under Dr. Alexander McCurdy.

Good Taste Today

(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

RELATIONSHIP PROBLEM

A young mother-in-law is the subject of today's letter: "My fiance is a lot older than I am and I have a very young mother. He thinks he's too old to call her Mrs. Smith now and 'Mother' later. Everyone else calls her by her first name but we wondered if that would be criticized from a son-in-law."

I think it would sound very strange, especially to conservative people. I think the best plan would be for him to think of a special name of his own which he could call her in affection. And he could, of course, introduce her as "Mary's mother."

Unawareness, Not Intended Slight

Dear Mrs. Post: Wedding information clearly states that the man's parents should call on the girl's family as soon as possible after the engagement has become a fact. This hasn't been the way it is with us and we announced our daughter's engagement to a local boy three months ago. I've spoken to his mother once or twice on the telephone when she called here for him and I've been told by my daughter that she seems pleased with the engagement. How do we break this stalemate?

Answer: By your inviting her to your house. Although the man's family should take the initiative, it is not at all unusual for his mother to be unaware of this convention. Hence the girl's family must take the initiative.

Writing Messages on Your Cards

Dear Mrs. Post: When writing "Thank you for your kind sympathy" across one's visiting cards, should the title on the card be crossed out? Please answer quickly.

Answer: As a rule, the message is signed and the name left intact. In fact, it would be impracticable for Mrs. John Brown to draw a line through her title—making her "John Brown." When you merely write "Congratulations" or "Best Wishes" or another brief message at the top, no signature is necessary and you leave the engraved name as it is.

Would you like to know how to improve your letters, both in form and appearance? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but her booklet, No. 502, "Letter Writing," includes details for writing letters and type of stationery to use. Held for Stabbing His Sister's Former Friend

New York, Jan. 19 (AP)—A 24-year-old air force veteran was arrested yesterday in connection with the fatal stabbing of a 50-year-old building contractor. The younger man said the latter had been annoying his sister.

The veteran, Edward Longosky, was charged with homicide in the death of Michael C. Papadouri, whose body was found on the sidewalk not far from the apartment shared by Longosky and his sister, Jean, 25.

Longosky said his sister came to New York eight years ago from Gallitzin, Pa., and became friendly with Papadouri.

When she tried to break off with Papadouri about two years ago, Longosky said, Papadouri, "followed her around" and generally annoyed her.

On Wednesday night, the brother said, Papadouri accosted his sister when she left the Eighth Avenue Bar and Grill where she is employed.

When his sister refused to accompany him, the contractor later made taunting calls to the Longosky's 10th floor Manhattan apartment.

Longosky said he grabbed a knife and rushed down to meet Papadouri, who also had a knife. The brother said they fought in a ground floor hallway.

Although he lunged at the other man Longosky said, his knife blade showed no blood. He said he was unaware that Papadouri was dead or even hurt until arrested, but added:

"If he is dead, it is good riddance."

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, JR.

Braendley Is New Club President of Masonic Square

Woodstock, Jan. 19—Crowning a year of brilliant achievement, the Masonic Square Club gave its third annual president's dinner-dance Thursday night in the Gallery room at Deanies. About 150 members of the Masonic order and guests witnessed the traditional ceremony of the installation of the new president, George J. Braendly. Surrogate Judge John B. Sterley, of Kingston, acted as master of ceremonies. As retiring president, Walter Van Wagenen handed the gavel to Braendly and stressed the importance of the year ahead.

Van Wagenen complimented the club chairmen and committees on the work accomplished during the year, and thanked Milton Houst, vice president, and Grant Elwyn, secretary and treasurer, for their cooperation.

In tribute to Van Wagenen, Judge Sterley said that he was "an able educator and had done a grand job. His most serious job was the education of youth."

George Braendly said that he was highly honored that the club had the confidence in him to elect him president, and that he would do everything in his power to make this a successful year.

Starts Youth Welfare

In a report of the Masonic Square Club welfare fund, Milton Houst recalled that about four years ago the club was asked to sponsor the Cub Scouts of Woodstock. From this beginning, he said, the club became interested in youth welfare and started the fund, a fund which is used only for the youth of the town and is in no way connected with the Square Club's general fund.

A resume of the work done by the welfare fund included a father and son dinner for approximately 50 Boy Scouts and Cubs last February in the Dutch Reformed Church, a teen age dance held at the Town Hall during the Easter vacation, two boys sent to the National Jamboree at Valley Forge during the week of Fourth of July. In addition, the usual camping program was in progress in which the club paid all transportation costs to Camp Segowea in Massachusetts, purchased meals and handled all reservations and correspondence. Most of the parents paid the cost of board, but the club paid five weeks board for those who needed help. The fund was also used to purchase the candy and oranges for the children at the Christmas Eve program on the village green. The club is still sponsoring the Cub Scouts.

A gift was presented to Van Wagenen by Leon Carey, past president of the club, who cited the tremendous amount of work which had been done by Van Wagenen in connection with the new school which was a monument to his devotion to the youth of the town.

Among Guests Present

Among the guests who attended the dinner were Henry Hartley, of Saugerties, past master of Ulster Lodge 193 of Saugerties, past assistant grand lecturer of the Green-Ulster District Masonic Lodge, and now district deputy grand master of the Greene-Ulster District Masonic Lodge, and now district deputy grand master of the Greene-Ulster District; Fred Troll, of the Masonic Lodge 10 of Kingston; Mrs. LaMonte Simpkins, worthy matron of the Clinton Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star; John Egan and Morris Rosenblum; Harry Schryver, high priest of the Mount Horel Lodge 78 of Kingston.

The following guests and members were honored for recent birthdays: Mrs. Adolph Heckeroth, Walter Van Wagenen, Mrs. Roger Baer, Judge George J. Braendly, Rudolph Baumgarten, Fred Allen, Ruth Kelly and Mrs. Harvey I. Todd.

During the evening musical interludes were provided by Lee Carey on his accordion with Roger Baer at the piano. Several songs were sung by Mrs. Fred Stern. Clementine Nessel and Bill Moore played for the dancing following the dinner.

The invocation was given by the Rev. Harvey I. Todd.

Business Association Has Plans for Future

Woodstock, Jan. 19—The Woodstock Business Association held a luncheon meeting at the White Horse Inn last Wednesday, with 35 members present. A topic of discussion was the credit bureau for Woodstock, as well as the proposed plan for keeping the stores open on Friday nights.

It was decided that the association would sponsor a Community Chest, starting with the March of Dimes drive.

New members welcomed were George Berk, Leslie Elwyn, Charles Kullman and Frederick Dircks.

Is Asking Priority On Thruway for Military Reasons

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 19 (AP)—Governor Dewey wants a speedy—and favorable—decision by the federal defense mobilizer on a construction priority for the 500-mile state Thruway.

Dewey said yesterday he had written to Charles E. Wilson for advice on what types of state construction projects were likely to be affected by building restrictions from the defense program.

The governor told reporters he had asked Wilson only "for a ruling" but Dewey made clear he was anxious for a favorable ruling on a priority for the cross-state expressway, now under construction.

Essential to Defense

Dewey told Wilson that military chiefs considered interstate highways essential to national defense and that the Thruway was "in effect the military and economic backbone of New York."

About 14 miles of the New York-to-Buffalo super-highway have been completed. About 64 miles are under construction. The project is slated for completion by 1954.

Dewey said he had written Wilson because information as to the types of construction the state could plan was urgently needed in preparing the 1951-52 state budget.

The governor told newsmen he was having "a very tough time" balancing the budget, which must be submitted to the Legislature by Feb. 1.

Hopes to Keep Taxes Down

He said it would be higher than the current budget of $867,000,000 but he still hoped it would not be necessary to increase state taxes.

The governor explained that he wanted to plan a capital construction program "with relation to what can be built" with available manpower and materials. He said localities and other states were confronted with the same problem in preparing new budgets.

Po'keepsie Contractor Gets Two Highway Jobs

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 19 (AP)—The State Public Works Department awarded two contracts today to John Arborio, Inc., of Poughkeepsie, for highway work in Greene and Dutchess counties.

One contract, for $287,498, provides for new pavement on 1.75 miles of Route 199 in Red Hook, Dutchess county.

The project will extend from a point about a mile east of Barrytown to a point within the village of Red Hook. No date was announced for completion.

The Greene county contract, totalling $203,242, calls for reconstruction of a narrow, winding section of Route 214, between Stony Clove and Kaaterskill Junction.

The project is scheduled for completion by next Dec. 1.

Jack Holt Dies

Hollywood, Jan. 19 (AP)—Death has claimed Jack Holt, 62, hard-riding cowboy of both the open and the cinema range. He succumbed last night at the Veterans' Hospital in West Los Angeles to coronary thrombosis. He had suffered three severe heart attacks since shortly before Christmas. His son, Tim, also an actor in westerns, was with him almost constantly during his last illness.

Faces 14 Charges

New York, Jan. 19 (AP)—George H. Cannon, Jr., 49-year-old investigator for the Westchester Alcoholic Beverage Control Board in White Plains, who was suspended Jan. 2, for conduct unbecoming a board employe, has been served with 14 specific charges to which he must reply within five days or face dismissal, the State Liquor Authority announced yesterday.

Bills in Legislature

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 19 (AP)—A Republican senator wants the Legislature to launch an all-out fight to "rescue adolescent dope addicts from enslavement."

Senator Seymour Halpern of Queens introduced yesterday a series of bills he said would halt the flow of drugs and afford proper medical assistance to all addicts.

He proposed creation of an 11-member temporary state commission to investigate narcotics, and creation of a bureau of narcotics control in the State Health Department. He asked that the commission be given $50,000 for its work.

Halpern's bills also would establish a state institution for the cure and rehabilitation of drug addicts.

He proposed that some state hospital facilities in the New York city area be made available for treatment of teen-age addicts.

Under terms of his measures, a minimum sentence of five years would be fixed for persons convicted of selling narcotics to minors, and the maximum would be raised from 10 to 20 years. There now is no minimum.

An addict committed to a hospital voluntarily could not be released for at least six months, unless his complete cure were certified by doctors.

Senator Joseph Zaretzki, New York city Democrat, introduced a bill to require safety inspection of automobiles at state-owned stations twice a year. Similar legislation introduced last year never reached the floor for a vote.

Republican Senator Earl W. Brydges of Niagara Falls sponsored a bill to make veterans of Korean fighting eligible for state war service scholarships worth $350 a year for four years.

Other bills would:

Make permanent the state's five institutes of arts and sciences.

Create the office of public defenders in New York city, to represent persons financially unable to hire their own lawyers.

RELATIONSHIP PROBLEM

A young mother-in-law is the subject of today's letter: "My fiance is a lot older than I am and I have a very young mother. He thinks he's too old to call her Mrs. Smith now and 'Mother' later. Everyone else calls her by her first name but we wondered if that would be criticized from a son-in-law."

I think it would sound very strange, especially to conservative people. I think the best plan would be for him to think of a special name of his own which he could call her in affection. And he could, of course, introduce her as "Mary's mother."

Unawareness, Not Intended Slight

Dear Mrs. Post: Wedding information clearly states that the man's parents should call on the girl's family as soon as possible after the engagement has become a fact. This hasn't been the way it is with us and we announced our daughter's engagement to a local boy three months ago. I've spoken to his mother once or twice on the telephone when she called here for him and I've been told by my daughter that she seems pleased with the engagement. How do we break this stalemate?

Answer: By your inviting her to your house. Although the man's family should take the initiative, it is not at all unusual for his mother to be unaware of this convention. Hence the girl's family must take the initiative.

Writing Messages on Your Cards

Dear Mrs. Post: When writing "Thank you for your kind sympathy" across one's visiting cards, should the title on the card be crossed out? Please answer quickly.

Answer: As a rule, the message is signed and the name left intact. In fact, it would be impracticable for Mrs. John Brown to draw a line through her title—making her "John Brown." When you merely write "Congratulations" or "Best Wishes" or another brief message at the top, no signature is necessary and you leave the engraved name as it is.

Would you like to know how to improve your letters, both in form and appearance? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but her booklet, No. 502, "Letter Writing," includes details for writing letters and type of stationery to use. Held for Stabbing His Sister's Former Friend

New York, Jan. 19 (AP)—A 24-year-old air force veteran was arrested yesterday in connection with the fatal stabbing of a 50-year-old building contractor. The younger man said the latter had been annoying his sister.

The veteran, Edward Longosky, was charged with homicide in the death of Michael C. Papadouri, whose body was found on the sidewalk not far from the apartment shared by Longosky and his sister, Jean, 25.

Longosky said his sister came to New York eight years ago from Gallitzin, Pa., and became friendly with Papadouri.

When she tried to break off with Papadouri about two years ago, Longosky said, Papadouri, "followed her around" and generally annoyed her.

On Wednesday night, the brother said, Papadouri accosted his sister when she left the Eighth Avenue Bar and Grill where she is employed.

When his sister refused to accompany him, the brother said, the contractor later made taunting calls to the Longosky's 10th floor Manhattan apartment.

Longosky said he grabbed a knife and rushed down to meet Papadouri, who also had a knife. The brother said they fought in a ground floor hallway.

Although he lunged at the other man Longosky said, his knife blade showed no blood. He said he was unaware that Papadouri was dead or even hurt until arrested, but added:

"If he is dead, it is good riddance."

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, JR.

Braendley Is New Club President of Masonic Square

Woodstock, Jan. 19—Crowning a year of brilliant achievement, the Masonic Square Club gave its third annual president's dinner-dance Thursday night in the Gallery room at Deanies. About 150 members of the Masonic order and guests witnessed the traditional ceremony of the installation of the new president, George J. Breandly. Surrogate Judge John B. Sterley, of Kingston, acted as master of ceremonies. As retiring president, Walter Van Wagenen handed the gavel to Braendly and stressed the importance of the year ahead.

Van Wagenen complimented the club chairmen and committees on the work accomplished during the year, and thanked Milton Houst, vice president, and Grant Elwyn, secretary and treasurer, for their cooperation.

In tribute to Van Wagenen, Judge Sterley said that he was "an able educator and had done a grand job. His most serious job was the education of youth."

George Braendly said that he was highly honored that the club had the confidence in him to elect him president, and that he would do everything in his power to make this a successful year.

Start Youth Welfare

In a report of the Masonic Square Club welfare fund, Milton Houst recalled that about four years ago the club was asked to sponsor the Cub Scouts of Woodstock. From this beginning, he said, the club became interested in youth welfare and started the fund, a fund which is used only for the youth of the town and is in no way connected with the Square Club's general fund.

A resume of the work done by the welfare fund included a father and son dinner for approximately 50 Boy Scouts and Cubs last February in the Dutch Reformed Church, a teen age dance held at the Town Hall during the Easter vacation, two boys sent to the National Jamboree at Valley Forge during the week of Fourth of July. In addition, the usual camping program was in progress in which the club paid all transportation costs to Camp Segowea in Massachusetts, purchased meals and handled all reservations and correspondence. Most of the parents paid the cost of board, but the club paid five weeks board for those who needed help. The fund was also used to purchase the candy and oranges for the children at the Christmas Eve program on the village green. The club is still sponsoring the Cub Scouts.

A gift was presented to Van Wagenen by Leon Carey, past president of the club, who cited the tremendous amount of work which had been done by Van Wagenen in connection with the new school which was a monument to his devotion to the youth of the town.

Among Guests Present

Among the guests who attended the dinner were Henry Hartley, of Saugerties, past master of Ulster Lodge 193 of Saugerties, past assistant grand lecturer of the Green-Ulster District Masonic Lodge, and now district deputy grand master of the Greene-Ulster District Masonic Lodge, and now district deputy grand master of the Greene-Ulster District; Fred Troll, of the Masonic Lodge 10 of Kingston; Mrs. LaMonte Simpkins, worthy matron of the Clinton Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star; John Egan and Morris Rosenblum; Harry Schryver, high priest of the Mount Horel Lodge 78 of Kingston.

The following guests and members were honored for recent birthdays: Mrs. Adolph Heckeroth, Walter Van Wagenen, Mrs. Roger Baer, Judge George J. Braendly, Rudolph Baumgarten, Fred Allen, Ruth Kelly and Mrs. Harvey I. Todd.

During the evening musical interludes were provided by Lee Carey on his accordion with Roger Baer at the piano. Several songs were sung by Mrs. Fred Stern. Clementine Nessel and Bill Moore played for the dancing following the dinner.

The invocation was given by the Rev. Harvey I. Todd.

Business Association Has Plans for Future

Woodstock, Jan. 19—The Woodstock Business Association held a luncheon meeting at the White Horse Inn last Wednesday, with 35 members present. A topic of discussion was the credit bureau for Woodstock, as well as the proposed plan for keeping the stores open on Friday nights.

It was decided that the association would sponsor a Community Chest, starting with the March of Dimes drive.

New members welcomed were George Berk, Leslie Elwyn, Charles Kullman and Frederick Dircks.

Is Asking Priority On Thruway for Military Reasons

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 19 (AP)—Governor Dewey wants a speedy—and favorable—decision by the federal defense mobilizer on a construction priority for the 500-mile state Thruway.

Dewey said yesterday he had written to Charles E. Wilson for advice on what types of state construction projects were likely to be affected by building restrictions from the defense program.

The governor told reporters he had asked Wilson only "for a ruling" but Dewey made clear he was anxious for a favorable ruling on a priority for the cross-state expressway, now under construction.

Essential to Defense

Dewey told Wilson that military chiefs considered interstate highways essential to national defense and that the Thruway was "in effect the military and economic backbone of New York."

About 14 miles of the New York-to-Buffalo super-highway have been completed. About 64 miles are under construction. The project is slated for completion by 1954.

Dewey said he had written Wilson because information as to the types of construction the state could plan was urgently needed in preparing the 1951-52 state budget.

The governor told newsmen he was having "a very tough time" balancing the budget, which must be submitted to the Legislature by Feb. 1.

Hopes to Keep Taxes Down

He said it would be higher than the current budget of $867,000,000 but he still hoped it would not be necessary to increase state taxes.

The governor explained that he wanted to plan a capital construction program "with relation to what can be built" with available manpower and materials. He said localities and other states were confronted with the same problem in preparing new budgets.

Po'keepsie Contractor Gets Two Highway Jobs

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 19 (AP)—The State Public Works Department awarded two contracts today to John Arborio, Inc., of Poughkeepsie, for highway work in Greene and Dutchess counties.

One contract, for $287,498, provides for new pavement on 1.75 miles of Route 199 in Red Hook, Dutchess county.

The project will extend from a point about a mile east of Barrytown to a point within the village of Red Hook. No date was announced for completion.

The Greene county contract, totalling $203,242, calls for reconstruction of a narrow, winding section of Route 214, between Stony Clove and Kaaterskill Junction.

The project is scheduled for completion by next Dec. 1.

Crisp Shooting and Staunch Defense Too Much for Locals; Goldin Hits 20

Coach George S. "Lanky" Masterson, as sartorially elegant as ever in a dark blue suit, walked out of the municipal auditorium last night with a cat-that-ate-the-canary look on his face.

He had just watched Ellenville High outclass Kingston High, 52-40, in an unexpected Maroon setback that greased the pennant chutes for the Kiasmen and boosted N.F.A. pennant stock.

There was a moral lesson to be learned in the final boxscore. Ellenville High, an early season sensation in the DUSO circuit, had slumped miserably in the last couple of outings, the most recent a one-sided drubbing by Poughkeepsie on the Ellenville boards.

The boxscore:

Kingston High (40)

	FG	FP	TP
Hooker, f	6	3	15
Carpouzis, f	1	0	2
Koenig, f	2	1	5
Leonard, c	4	1	9
Caruso, g	1	0	2
Hampton, g	2	3	7

Ellenville (52)

	FG	FP	TP
Edelman, f	4	0	8
Drake, f	1	2	4
Laks, c	4	4	12
Goldin, g	5	10	20
Dallao, g	4	0	8
	18	16	52

Scoring by quarters:

Kingston	7	8	15	10
Ellenville	17	17	12	6

Fouls committed by Kingston 25, by Ellenville 16. Officials: Gros and Ellerin. Timekeeper: Tobin.

The Newburgh Story

The Ellenville coach quickly arrested the slump by meting out stern discipline to a couple of cagers who began to stray from the reservation.

Masterson must have recalled too, that his great 1949-50 machine began to jell only after he had threatened to fire most of the squad because of training violations. One big fellow, Big Ed Gabron, did get the bounce and other fellows took due notice.

It is only of academic interest that Gabron was restored to good graces this season and is one of the key figures in the current Goldback pennant drive. And from here it looks like they're going to repeat.

What effect this chain of events had on Kingston's sloppy showing last night is problematical.

Ellies Red Hot

Ellenville rebounded savagely from recent whippings last night. They hit with a phenomenal percentage of shots from the field and foul line and before the fans had a chance to settle themselves comfortably, the Ellies had romped ahead 14-3. They led 17-7 at the quarter mark and 34-15 at halftime.

Sol Goldin was the chief perpetrator in the stunning setback for Kingston and a handsome triumph for the Ellies. He hit for 20 points —10 of them from the foul line— and accounted for 11 points in the first quarter. Jerry Laks scored a dozen points from the center slot and Bob Edelman connected with four long set shots for eight points.

The difference between the clubs was obvious from the outset. Ellenville had scoring power, drive and a staunch zone defense that continually forced the Kiasmen to try desperate shots from outside. And with little success. That Kingston outscored Ellenville 25-18 in the second half indicated that under normal conditions Ellenville wasn't that much better than Kingston.

Leroy Hooker, the only player who seemed to hit with any consistency, paced the Kingston attack with 15 points. He spaced his shots through four quarters. Moll Leonard accounted for nine and "Bones" Hampton had seven.

The loss set the Maroons a game behind Newburgh in the vital lost column and left their seasonal record at 7 wins and 2 setbacks.

Arizona U. Presses For L.I.U. Game

Tucson, Ariz., Jan. 19 (AP)—Arizona basketball fans still have hopes the University of Arizona-Long Island University basketball game, suddenly cancelled yesterday, will be played here Jan. 29.

The contest, which has been a sell-out for many weeks, was cancelled by Long Island. "Travel and accommodations" difficulties and inconvenience were the only reasons given for the change. However, Arizona officials immediately suspected the New York school feared its Negro players would be discriminated against and informed Dr. Tristram W. Metcalfe, LIU president, that this is not true.

Dr. J. Byron McCormick, University of Arizona president, said Dr. Metcalfe had promised to call him today after discussing the cancellation with LIU athletic officials.

The possibility that Long Island might have dropped the Arizona game to ease its western tour schedule has also been brought up.

Maxim Warned To Defend Title

Cincinnati, Jan. 19 (AP)—Cincinnati's boxing and wrestling commission, prodded by Promoter Sam Becker, has warned light heavyweight champion Joey Maxim: Either defend your title or lose it by default.

The commission decided yesterday to ask the National Boxing Association to vacate the Clevelander's title at its executive committee meeting in Indianapolis Jan. 27.

Its action came after Becker pointed out that Maxim hasn't defended his crown since he wrested it from Freddie Mills at London over a year ago. Fight rules say a challenger must be given a chance at the title at least once every six months, the local matchmaker insisted.

'Red' Barber to Draw 500 to HSAA Dinner

The fame and speaking charm of Walter "Red" Barber, Brooklyn Dodger baseball broadcaster and CBS sports director, is expected to attract about 500 persons for the sixth annual Kingston High School Athletic Association banquet this evening at the high school gym.

Coach G. Warren Kias said the dinner would start promptly at 6 p. m., because of the length of the speaking program.

Principal John Martin of Kingston High will be the toastmaster.

Clarence S. Rowland, chairman of the Board of Education's Athletic Committee, will introduce the guest speaker. Mr. Rowland was instrumental in negotiating arrangements for Barber's appearance here tonight.

High school varsity athletic captains of the 1950-51 season will share the dais with the famous radio personality.

Bowling

Frank Bruno's 578, with 234 high solo, led Team No. 2 back into first place in the Freeman League scramble last night on the Bowlatorium lanes. A three-game sweep over the No. 6 squad relegated the erstwhile leaders to third, while Team No. 4 took over the second slot.

Craig Plough and Roland Post tied for runnerup honors with 558s, while Cliff Schryver had 523. Other top triples included Bob Shelightner 507; Charlie Diers 504; Jim Noble 503; Curtis Clair 501 and B. Felton 501.

Herm Seelbach clicked 542, with 190-183-169, in the Commercial League. Three others—Ed Dasher with 204-520; Eddie Bahl 501 and G. Stoutenburg 500—were in the upper bracket. Near-misses included N. Philips 491 and R. Shortell 492.

Bea Arlensky had the best of five "400" triples in the Sisterhood League with 463. She hit solos of 152-163-148. Blanche Moak socked 455; B. Pekarsky 425; F. Lipkin 413 and E. Kantrowitz 411.

Bill Kuehn missed a "700" triple by the margin of two missed spares in last night's heavy scoring session of the Ferraro Major. He stacked a rousing 683, with games of 213, 223 and 247.

Six others hit the "600" bracket, Phil Masters with 213-237-647; Richard Howard 237-235-645; Johnny Ferraro 233-203-620; Randy Kelder 211-203-202-616; Cosmos Costello 207-214-609; Bob Hanley 228-220-602. Also top bracket were John MacLellan 218-213-599; Frank Leskie 213-226-596; Lew Hymes 223-583; Larry Weishaupt 222-581; Elwood Robinson 225-581; Phil Corrado 213-592; Lou Guadagnola 202-580; and George Flemings 572.

Allen Hoey was best man in the No-Can-Do League with 192-154-203-549, twenty sticks better than J. Fatum's 529. Carl Beatty posted 524; W. Fatum 209-514; W. Ferguson 512; D. Koeppen 511; Bill Thomas 510, Johnny Lowe 509, John Frederick 213-501 and Emil Boessneck 501.

ROOKIE' AT ICE FISHING, TOO

Walt Dropo, Boston Red Sox first baseman and American League rookie of 1950, holds a pickerel he caught on Sim's Pond in Newfields, Me., his first time out ice fishing. Dropo, who hails from Moosup, Conn., had beginner's luck, catching ten fish in a couple of hours. (AP Wirephoto)

Giants Land Kyle Rote in Draft; Bob Williams Headed for Bears

Only Light Action At Annual Draft

The war-scare twist to the annual draft of collegiate talent produced the fewest national name players in pro football's history as top choices.

Out of the first 48 selections yesterday by the 12 clubs, only six eligible offensive or defensive All-American specialists were picked.

In this half-dozen, three were plucked in the first round of the draft where a mad scramble usually develops to nail campus cuties.

They were Notre Dame quarterback Bob Williams, who went to the Chicago Bears; tackle Bob Gain of Kentucky, to the Green Bay Packers, and guard Bud McFadin of Texas, to the Los Angles Rams.

Giants Get Rote

After the New York Giants had won the league's "bonus" draw—a prelude to the college draft—and chose ex-serviceman Kyle Rote, Southern Methodist's fine married halfback, the Bears took Williams as their No. 1 pick.

They got the first choice as a payoff of a former deal with the Baltimore Colts. The Colts last-place club in the standings, had No. 1 selection.

With Johnny Lujack, another great Notre Dame quarterback, on the Bears' roster, what did owner-coach George Halas want with Williams?

Everybody said, "trading bait."

"They're all wrong," asserted Halas. "None of my players will figure in a deal. Williams is going to play for us, I hope."

Williams was 21 a few days ago is unmarried and very much a military prospect. If he is around when the 1951 season starts, he probably will be Lujack's understudy.

Other first round selections included: New York Giants—back Jim Spavital, Colts, married ex-GI.

Poor Ski Conditions

The State Department of Commerce today reported from "poor" to "no skiing" conditions at nearby slopes for the week-end. Belleayre reported 1 to 3 inches of icy snow, with poor conditions. Highmount and Phoenicia reported "no skiing."

AP to Cooperate With Hall of Fame In All-Time Football Selections

Ballots Expected By March 15

New Brunswick, N. J., Jan. 19 (AP)—The Associated Press and the National Football Hall of Fame said today that a nationwide poll will be held to pick an all-time All-America college football team.

Men chosen for the first three all-time teams will automatically be nominated for consideration in the Hall of Fame to be built at Rutgers University here. The final selection lies in the hands of an "honors court." No hall of fame elections have been made as yet.

Announcement of the poll in which Associated Press member newspapers and radio stations will participate was made by Arthur L. Evans, executive secretary of the Hall of Fame, and Ted Smits, general sports editor of the Associated Press.

"The National Hall of Fame recognizes the universal prestige of the Associated Press and its experience in conducting polls of this character," said Evans.

Official and exclusive approval for the A.P.'s all-time All-America poll was given by the Hall of Fame board of directors. Plans for the Hall of Fame building to cost from $3,000,000 to $5,000,000 have been approved. Rutgers was picked as the site since the first intercollegiate football game was played here Nov. 6, 1869, between Rutgers and Princeton.

Newspapers Compete

"As is customary in A.P. polls, each member newspaper and each radio station will be entitled to one vote," said Smits. This vote may be cast by the sports editor, or the paper or station may conduct its own poll and forward the consensus to the A.P. in New York for tabulation.

In order to give ample time for newspapers and radio stations to conduct their own polls, March 15 was set as the deadline for the ballots. It is planned to announce the final result by positions—ends, tackles, guards, centers, quarterbacks, halfbacks and fullbacks.

Votes also will be cast for the all-time football coach. Coaches as well as players will be honored in the Hall of Fame.

In voting for the all-time All-America college team, any player from 1869 through the 1950 season is eligible. No one can be elected for the Hall of Fame until 10 years after he has left college.

Ellenville High Hands Kingston Second DUSO Loss in Big Upset, 52-40

Crisp Shooting and Staunch Defense Too Much for Locals; Goldin Hits 20

Coach George S. "Lanky" Masterson, as sartorially elegant as ever in a dark blue suit, walked out of the municipal auditorium last night with a cat-that-ate-the-canary look on his face.

He had just watched Ellenville High outclass Kingston High, 52-40, in an unexpected Maroon setback that greased the pennant chutes for the Kiasmen and boosted N.F.A. pennant stock.

There was a moral lesson to be learned in the final boxscore. Ellenville High, an early season sensation in the DUSO circuit, had slumped miserably in the last couple of outings, the most recent a one-sided drubbing by Poughkeepsie on the Ellenville boards.

The boxscore:

Kingston High (40)

Fouls committed by Kingston 25, by Ellenville 16. Officials: Gros and Ellerin. Timekeeper: Tobin.

The Newburgh Story

The Ellenville coach quickly arrested the slump by meting out stern discipline to a couple of cagers who began to stray from the reservation.

Masterson must have recalled too, that his great 1949-50 machine began to jell only after he had threatened to fire most of the squad because of training violations. One big fellow, Big Ed Gabron, did get the bounce and other fellows took due notice.

It is only of academic interest that Gabron was restored to good graces this season and is one of the key figures in the current Goldback pennant drive. And from here it looks like they're going to repeat.

What effect this chain of events had on Kingston's sloppy showing last night is problematical.

Ellies Red Hot

Ellenville rebounded savagely from recent whippings last night. They hit with a phenomenal percentage of shots from the field and foul line and before the fans had a chance to settle themselves comfortably, the Ellies had romped ahead 14-3. They led 17-7 at the quarter mark and 34-15 at halftime.

Sol Goldin was the chief perpetrator in the stunning setback for Kingston and a handsome triumph for the Ellies. He hit for 20 points—10 of them from the foul line—and accounted for 11 points in the first quarter. Jerry Laks scored a dozen points from the center slot and Bob Edelman connected with four long set shots for eight points.

The difference between the clubs was obvious from the outset. Ellenville had scoring power, drive and a staunch zone defense that continually forced the Kiasmen to try desperate shots from outside. And with little success. That Kingston outscored Ellenville 25-18 in the second half indicated that under normal conditions Ellenville wasn't that much better than Kingston.

Leroy Hooker, the only player who seemed to hit with any consistency, paced the Kingston attack with 15 points. He spaced his shots through four quarters. Moll Leonard accounted for nine and "Bones" Hampton had seven.

The loss set the Maroons a game behind Newburgh in the vital lost column and left their seasonal record at 7 wins and 2 setbacks.

Arizona U. Presses For L.I.U. Game

Tucson, Ariz., Jan. 19 (AP)—Arizona basketball fans still have hopes the University of Arizona-Long Island University basketball game, suddenly cancelled yesterday, will be played here Jan. 29.

The contest, which has been a sell-out for many weeks, was cancelled by Long Island. "Travel and accommodations" difficulties and inconvenience were the only reasons given for the change. However, Arizona officials immediately suspected the New York school feared its Negro players would be discriminated against and informed Dr. Tristram W. Metcalfe, LIU president, that this is not true.

Dr. J. Byron McCormick, University of Arizona president, said Dr. Metcalfe had promised to call him today after discussing the cancellation with LIU athletic officials.

The possibility that Long Island might have dropped the Arizona game to ease its western tour schedule has also been brought up.

Maxim Warned To Defend Title

Cincinnati, Jan. 19 (AP)—Cincinnati's boxing and wrestling commission, prodded by Promoter Sam Becker, has warned light heavyweight champion Joey Maxim: Either defend your title or lose it by default.

The commission decided yesterday to ask the National Boxing Association to vacate the Clevelander's title at its executive committee meeting in Indianapolis Jan. 27.

Its action came after Becker pointed out that Maxim hasn't defended his crown since he wrested it from Freddie Mills at London over a year ago. Fight rules say a challenger must be given a chance at the title at least once every six months, the local matchmaker insisted.

'Red' Barber to Draw 500 to HSAA Dinner

The fame and speaking charm of Walter "Red" Barber, Brooklyn Dodger baseball broadcaster and CBS sports director, is expected to attract about 500 persons for the sixth annual Kingston High School Athletic Association banquet this evening at the high school gym.

Coach G. Warren Kias said the dinner would start promptly at 6 p. m., because of the length of the speaking program.

Principal John Martin of Kingston High will be the toastmaster.

Clarence S. Rowland, chairman of the Board of Education's Athletic Committee, will introduce the guest speaker. Mr. Rowland was instrumental in negotiating arrangements for Barber's appearance here tonight.

High school varsity athletic captains of the 1950-51 season will share the dais with the famous radio personality.

Bowling

Frank Bruno's 578, with 234 high solo, led Team No. 2 back into first place in the Freeman League scramble last night on the Bowlatorium lanes. A three-game sweep over the No. 6 squad relegated the erstwhile leaders to third, while Team No. 4 took over the second slot.

Craig Plough and Roland Post tied for runnerup honors with 558s, while Cliff Schryver had 523. Other top triples included Bob Shelightner 507; Charlie Diers 504; Jim Noble 503; Curtis Clair 501 and B. Felton 501.

Herm Seelbach clicked 542, with 190-183-169, in the Commercial League. Three others—Ed Dasher with 204-520; Eddie Bahl 501 and G. Stoutenburg 500—were in the upper bracket. Near-misses included N. Philips 491 and R. Shortell 492.

Bea Arlensky had the best of five "400" triples in the Sisterhood League with 463. She hit solos of 152-163-148. Blanche Moak socked 455; B. Pekarsky 425; F. Lipkin 413 and E. Kantrowitz 411.

Bill Kuehn missed a "700" triple by the margin of two missed spares in last night's heavy scoring session of the Ferraro Major. He stacked a rousing 683, with games of 213, 223 and 247.

Six others hit the "600" bracket, Phil Masters with 213-237-647; Richard Howard 237-235-645; Johnny Ferraro 233-203-620; Randy Kelder 211-203-202-616; Cosmos Costello 207-214-609; Bob Hanley 228-220-602. Also top bracket were John MacLellan 218-213-599; Frank Leskie 213-226-596; Lew Hymes 223-583; Larry Weishaupt 222-581; Elwood Robinson 225-581; Phil Corrado 213-592; Lou Guadagnola 202-580; and George Flemings 572.

Allen Hoey was best man in the No-Can-Do League with 192-154-203-549, twenty sticks better than J. Fatum's 529. Carl Beatty posted 524; W. Fatum 209-514; W. Ferguson 512; D. Koeppen 511; Bill Thomas 510, Johnny Lowe 509, John Frederick 213-501 and Emil Boessneck 501.

ROOKIE' AT ICE FISHING, TOO

Walt Dropo, Boston Red Sox first baseman and American League rookie of 1950, holds a pickerel he caught on Sim's Pond in Newfields, Me., his first time out ice fishing. Dropo, who hails from Moosup, Conn., had beginner's luck, catching ten fish in a couple of hours. (AP Wirephoto)

Giants Land Kyle Rote in Draft; Bob Williams Headed for Bears

Only Light Action At Annual Draft

Chicago, Jan. 19 (AP)—All American gridders for the most part went a-begging for pro jobs today after National Football League moguls passed them up for men presumably safe from 1951 military call.

The war-scare twist to the annual draft of collegiate talent produced the fewest national name players in pro football's history as top choices.

Out of the first 48 selections yesterday by the 12 clubs, only six eligible offensive or defensive All-American specialists were picked.

In this half-dozen, three were plucked in the first round of the draft where a mad scramble usually develops to nail campus cuties.

They were Notre Dame quarterback Bob Williams, who went to the Chicago Bears; tackle Bob Gain of Kentucky, to the Green Bay Packers, and guard Bud McFadin of Texas, to the Los Angles Rams.

Giants Get Rote

After the New York Giants had won the league's "bonus" draw—a prelude to the college draft—and chose ex-serviceman Kyle Rote, Southern Methodist's fine married halfback, the Bears took Williams as their No. 1 pick.

They got the first choice as a payoff of a former deal with the Baltimore Colts. The Colts last-place club in the standings, had No. 1 selection.

Commissioner Bert Bell represented the money-losing Colts, who were dropped from the league, and owner Abe Watner paid $50,000 for his 65 players.

With Johnny Lujack, another great Notre Dame quarterback, on the Bears' roster, what did owner-coach George Halas want with Williams?

Everybody said, "trading bait."

"They're all wrong," asserted Halas. "None of my players will figure in a deal. Williams is going to play for us, I hope."

Williams was 21 a few days ago is unmarried and very much a military prospect. If he is around when the 1951 season starts, he probably will be Lujack's understudy.

Or Lujack will see more action on defense than ever before.

Other first round selections included: New York Giants—back Jim Spavital, Colts, married ex-GI.

Poor Ski Conditions

The State Department of Commerce today reported from "poor" to "no skiing" conditions at nearby slopes for the week-end. Belleayre reported 1 to 3 inches of icy snow, with poor conditions. Highmount and Phoenicia reported "no skiing."

AP to Cooperate With Hall of Fame In All-Time Football Selections

Ballots Expected By March 15

New Brunswick, N. J., Jan. 19 (AP)—The Associated Press and the National Football Hall of Fame said today that a nationwide poll will be held to pick an all-time All-America college football team.

Men chosen for the first three all-time teams will automatically be nominated for consideration in the Hall of Fame to be built at Rutgers University here. The final selection lies in the hands of an "honors court." No hall of fame elections have been made as yet.

Announcement of the poll in which Associated Press member newspapers and radio stations will participate was made by Arthur L. Evans, executive secretary of the Hall of Fame, and Ted Smits, general sports editor of the Associated Press.

"The National Hall of Fame recognizes the universal prestige of the Associated Press and its experience in conducting polls of this character," said Evans.

Official and exclusive approval for the A.P.'s all-time All-America poll was given by the Hall of Fame board of directors. Plans for the Hall of Fame building to cost from $3,000,000 to $5,000,000 have been approved. Rutgers was picked as the site since the first intercollegiate football game was played here Nov. 6, 1869, between Rutgers and Princeton.

Newspapers Compete

"As is customary in A.P. polls, each member newspaper and each radio station will be entitled to one vote," said Smits. This vote may be cast by the sports editor, or the paper or station may conduct its own poll and forward the consensus to the A.P. in New York for tabulation.

In order to give ample time for newspapers and radio stations to conduct their own polls, March 15 was set as the deadline for the ballots. It is planned to announce the final result by positions—ends, tackles, guards, centers, quarterbacks, halfbacks and fullbacks.

Votes also will be cast for the all-time football coach. Coaches as well as players will be honored in the Hall of Fame.

In voting for the all-time All-America college team, any player from 1869 through the 1950 season is eligible. No one can be elected for the Hall of Fame until 10 years after he has left college.

Manzi's Shot Wins In Overtime Game

Center Frank Manzi's driving layup with only five seconds remaining in the first overtime period enabled New Paltz State Teachers to edge Albany State, 61-59, last night on the New Paltz court.

It was the second victory in six starts for Coach Loren Campbell's cagers.

New Paltz ran up a 29-16 halftime lead but a late Albany spurt closed the gap and sent the teams into overtime deadlocked at 53-53.

Manzi, who accounted for 15 points, sealed the N.P. victory with his shot in the closing seconds. McMann also accounted for 15 points and Mahar tossed in 10.

Walker led Albany with 14 points, while Allasio tossed in 11.

New Paltz entertains Waterbury Teachers on Saturday Jan. 27.

At Last the Truth Is Acknowledged

Court Tabs Grid Goons as Laborers

San Francisco, Jan. 19 (AP)—Professional football players may be learned, intelligent and required to use their brains, but in the eyes of the law they're laborers.

In fact, says Superior Judge Edward Molkenbuhr, football playing "might even be considered the hardest kind of labor."

The judge yesterday refused to dismiss a suit for breach of contract against the San Francisco 49ers brought by Robert H. Blount, a guard who was dropped by the pro team after a 1948 tryout.

Team lawyers argued that, under state law, Blount's claim should have gone to arbitration, not to court.

Ruling in favor of Blount's contention that the arbitration law applies only to "intellectual workers," Judge Molkenbuhr cited a U. S. Supreme Court definition of labor as "that kind of human energy wherein physical force, or brawn or muscle, however skillfully employed, constitutes the principal effort to produce a given result."

And, he said, "surely no one could claim that a pro football players does not use brawn or muscle or physical force to produce results."

Intellectual workers, he said, might include actors, artists, doctors, attorneys, clergymen, salesmen, executives "or even judges."

Yankee Payroll To Hit $600,000

New York, Jan. 19 (AP)—General Manager George Weiss is the authority for the statement that the New York Yankee baseball payroll will go over $600,000 in 1951.

First offers to the members of the world championship club represent a 10 per cent increase over the 1950 total.

Only nine Yanks are in the fold. Phil Rizzuto and Johnny Mize are the only regulars signed.

Four men signed yesterday including Jackie Jensen and Joe Collins of the 1950 club. The newcomers are shortstop Jim Brideweser, a .310 hitter, and pitcher Dick Carr, a 13-game winner up from Binghamton, N. Y., of the Eastern League.

Seek Key Figure In Cage Scandal

New York, Jan. 19 (AP)—An investigator into the Manhattan College basketball bribe attempt said "I don't know where this thing might lead" after questioning two men early this morning.

Edward F. Breslin, assistant district attorney, stayed in his Bronx office until after midnight questioning the two "in connection with the basketball investigation."

Breslin did not identify the men and, after six hours of questioning, released them.

Edward Byrnes, deputy detective inspector of the Bronx, said the men were questioned in connection with telephone calls to Henry E. Poppe, one of the five men arrested Wednesday on charges of bribery and conspiracy in offering a star Manhattan player, Junius Kellogg, $1,000 to throw the game against DePaul on Tuesday. Manhattan upset DePaul, 62-59.

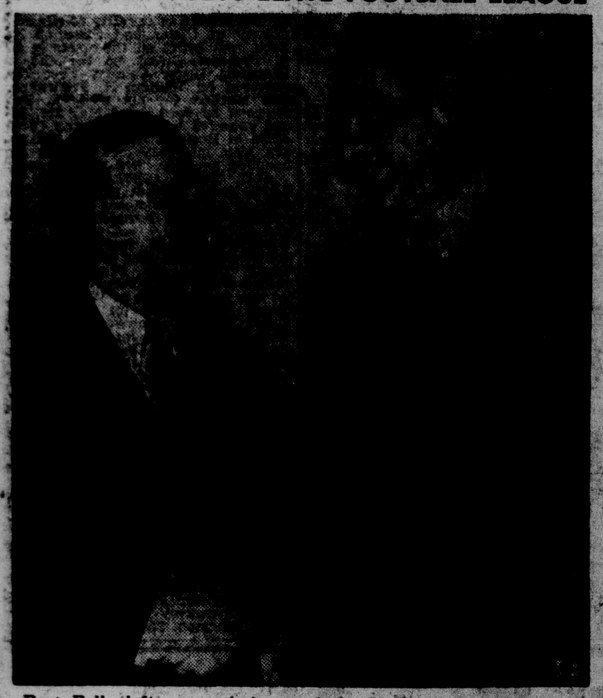

Poppe was arrested along with John A. Byrnes, Cornelius Kelleher and two brothers, Irving and Benjamin Schwartzberg after Kellogg told his coach and police of the attempted bribe. Poppe and Byrnes were co-captains and stars on last year's Manhattan team.

Earlier Breslin said he had been in nearby New Jersey "tying together some loose ends" in the investigation. He said also that the police are seeking a former college cage star, but he did not identify the player or his school.

George B. DeLuca, district attorney of the Bronx, said the police also are looking for a man known as "Big Joe" and "The Big Man."

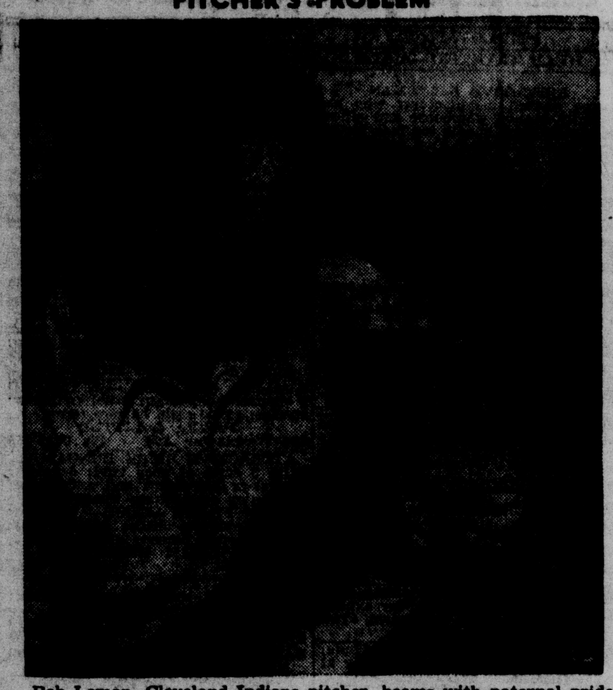

"We do not know his true name," DeLuca said. "We hear he is dark-featured and that he uses planes a good deal in getting from one part of the country to another in gambling activities.

BALTIMORE COLTS LEAVE FOOTBALL LEAGUE

Bert Bell (left), commissioner of the National Football League, bids farewell in Chicago to Abe Watner who withdrew his Baltimore Colts from the league, leaving the circut with 12 clubs for the 1951 season. The decision to withdraw was made after club owners met and decided they could not supply requested player help to the downtrodden Colts. (AP Wirephoto)

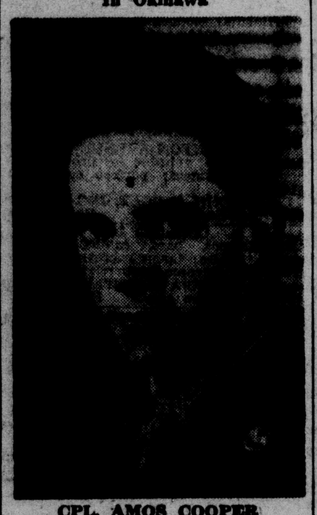

PITCHER'S PROBLEM

Bob Lemon, Cleveland Indians pitcher, beams with paternal pride at his five-week-old son Jim and gets a grin in return while trying to get the baby to take some water at the Lemon home in Long Beach, Calif. Some experts think Lemon, who won 23 games in 1950, will be the first big leaguer since 1934 to win 30 games in a season. Bob doesn't think he'll do it. "I always hit a streak where I can't get anyone out," he said. (AP Wirephoto)

rests for third degree assault, 11 for third degree burglary, eight for grand larceny, first degree, and one for grand larceny, second degree. The violations of vehicle and traffic laws include 20 arrests for driving while intoxicated.

The report listed only five cases of juvenile delinquency in the city for the year and these were all boys. Of age groups listed the greatest number of arrests (209) was in the group between 40 and 50 years of age. Next (204) was for ages ranging from 20 to 30, and for those between 10 and 20 years of age only 71 arrests were made, and only five of these were females. The full report showed only 43 females arrested out of the 815 total. The total in the age group between 30 and 40 was 141.

The breakdown on educational background showed 58 of those arrested having college education, 275 high school, 473 grade school and nine with no schooling.

A report on motor equipment in the department shows, two motorcycles and five sedans for patrolling. The chief suggests that the 1947 and 1949 model sedans (two each) be turned in for new cars and that the motorcycles be overhauled so that they will be ready for service in the spring.

The board moved yesterday to advertise for bids to replace the two 1947 model patrol cars. Bids will be asked for on both six and eight cylinder automobiles.

Radio equipment was reported "in good condition," and the report listed 2,547 alarms sent out to police cars from headquarters during the year.

The chief noted that "In the past year two members left the department. Officer Clarence Stickles resigned Oct. 21, and Officer Welch, who after 37 years of active service with the police department retired on a pension Nov. 30. During the years that Officer Welch was a member of the police department, he maintained a high and efficient record and was liked and admired by all who knew him."

Numerical Strength

The numerical strength of the department as of Dec. 31, 1950 was listed as: the chief, one captain, two lieutenants, four sergeants, two detectives and 28 patrolmen.

The highest number arrests made during the year was in June when 99 were arrested. Next were August with 98 and July with 92. The lowest was in November when only 44 arrests were made. The highest number of arrests by a patrolman was 78 and the next highest, 68.

The chief also submitted his report for the last month of the year showing one person killed and 20 injured in 16 local traffic mishaps. The fatal accident was on Dec. 22 at Flatbush avenue and East Chester street, when Carol Ann Leonard, age four months, of Bayonne, N. J., was fatally injured in a car-truck mishap.

The December report also showed 55 arrests, of which 19 were for public intoxication, 11 for disorderly conduct, nine for violations of the city traffic code, six for third degree assault, two for third degree burglary and one for grand larceny, first degree.

In closing his report the chief thanked "the honorable Board of Police Commissioners and every member of the police force for the splendid cooperation given me in the past year." He also thanked "The Kingston Daily Freeman, Ulster County News, Radio Station WKNY, local organizations and city departments."

Gets More Firemen

New York, Jan. 19 (AP)—Fire Commissioner George P. Monaghan yesterday drastically cut his department's division of licenses to get more firemen "back in harness" in the event of emergencies. The commissioner chopped the 81-man division of licenses for places of public assembly to 34 members. He called it "a sheer waste of manpower" to continue the higher figure. His order immediately was followed by the retirement of the division's commanders' Battalion Chief Andrew X. Quinn, and one of its two captains, George T. Garlington. The division, aided by local station firemen, supervises fire regulations at about 2,500 theatres, stadiums, restaurants, assembly halls and other public places.

Poppe, one of the five men arrested Wednesday on charges of bribery and conspiracy in offering a star Manhattan player, Junius Kellogg, $1,000 to throw the game against DePaul on Tuesday. Manhattan upset DePaul, 62-59.

Poppe was arrested along with John A. Byrnes, Cornelius Kelleher and two brothers, Irving and Benjamin Schwartzberg after Kellogg told his coach and police of the attempted bribe. Poppe and Byrnes were co-captains and stars on last year's Manhattan team.

Earlier Breslin said he had been in nearby New Jersey "tying together some loose ends" in the investigation. He said also that the police are seeking a former college cage star, but he did not identify the player or his school.

George B. DeLuca, district attorney of the Bronx, said the police also are looking for a man known as "Big Joe" and "The Big Man."

"We do not know his true name," DeLuca said. "We hear he is dark-featured and that he uses planes a good deal in getting from one part of the country to another in gambling activities.

BALTIMORE COLTS LEAVE FOOTBALL LEAGUE

Bert Bell (left), commissioner of the National Football League, bids farewell in Chicago to Abe Watner who withdrew his Baltimore Colts from the league, leaving the circut with 12 clubs for the 1951 season. The decision to withdraw was made after club owners met and decided they could not supply requested player help to the downtrodden Colts. (AP Wirephoto)

PITCHER'S PROBLEM

Bob Lemon, Cleveland Indians pitcher, beams with paternal pride at his five-week-old son Jim and gets a grin in return while trying to get the baby to take some water at the Lemon home in Long Beach, Calif. Some experts think Lemon, who won 23 games in 1950, will be the first big leaguer since 1934 to win 30 games in a season. Bob doesn't think he'll do it. "I always hit a streak where I can't get anyone out," he said. (AP Wirephoto)

Bowling Roundup

Joe Singer reached into the "600" bracket in the Colonial Men's League last night with 191-205-212-608 and George Uhl was only four pins behind with 218-604. Ed Koskie rolled 225-202-582; Eddie Propp 542; F. Embree 528; Al Heisman 505 and Bill Murray 501.

Steady pocket shooting gave Evelyn Gross a 533 series, with 186-161-186 in yesterday's session of the Matinee Club League. Other high scorers included Rose Rhymer 483, Evelyn Francis 482, Eleanor Singer 453, Mildred Dunn 451.

Junior Major League keglers trailed Frank Bruno's 234-565, but twenty one managed to hit in the "500" bracket. Bill Schabot accounted for 200-550; Steve Leone 201-549; Leo Bechtold 542; Mike Milano 542; Jim Daniels 233-537; Joe Kwasney 204-536; Eddie Esposito 209-536; J. McGrane 534; B. Johnson 533; George Shufeldt 200-531 and R. Dixon 529.

Harold Rockwell led the Jacobson Mixed League with 481 on solos of 175, 154, 152. Lou Navara shot 480; Leo Bechtold 479, Joe Lukas 467, Van Janaczek 462 and Warren Robinson 458.

Sue Heins rocketed the maples for a neat 531 in the Central Rec Women's circuit, hitting successive counts of 184, 164 and 183. Jessie Burnett was runnerup with 464, Jennie Spada rolled 429 and Betty Cadden 412.

Police Chief's . . .

rests for third degree assault, 11 for third degree burglary, eight for grand larceny, first degree, and one for grand larceny, second degree. The violations of vehicle and traffic laws include 20 arrests for driving while intoxicated.

The report listed only five cases of juvenile delinquency in the city for the year and these were all boys. Of age groups listed the greatest number of arrests (209) was in the group between 40 and 50 years of age. Next (204) was for ages ranging from 20 to 30, and for those between 10 and 20 years of age only 71 arrests were made, and only five of these were females. The full report showed only 43 females arrested out of the 815 total. The total in the age group between 30 and 40 was 141.

The breakdown on educational background showed 58 of those arrested having college education, 275 high school, 473 grade school and nine with no schooling.

A report on motor equipment in the department shows, two motorcycles and five sedans for patrolling. The chief suggests that the 1947 and 1949 model sedans (two each) be turned in for new cars and that the motorcycles be overhauled so that they will be ready for service in the spring.

The board moved yesterday to advertise for bids to replace the two 1947 model patrol cars. Bids will be asked for on both six and eight cylinder automobiles.

Action toward filling the vacancy on the force caused by the retirement of Officer Welch was deferred until next month.

Radio equipment was reported "in good condition," and the report listed 2,547 alarms sent out to police cars from headquarters during the year.

The chief noted that "In the past year two members left the department. Officer Clarence Stickles resigned Oct. 21, and Officer Welch, who after 37 years of active service with the police department retired on a pension Nov. 30. During the years that Officer Welch was a member of the police department, he maintained a high and efficient record and was liked and admired by all who knew him."

Numerical Strength

The numerical strength of the department as of Dec. 31, 1950 was listed as: the chief, one captain, two lieutenants, four sergeants, two detectives and 28 patrolmen.

The highest number arrests made during the year was in June when 99 were arrested. Next were August with 98 and July with 92. The lowest was in November when only 44 arrests were made. The highest number of arrests by a patrolman was 78 and the next highest, 68.

The chief also submitted his report for the last month of the year showing one person killed and 20 injured in 16 local traffic mishaps. The fatal accident was on Dec. 22 at Flatbush avenue and East Chester street, when Carol Ann Leonard, age four months, of Bayonne, N. J., was fatally injured in a car-truck mishap.

The December report also showed 55 arrests, of which 19 were for public intoxication, 11 for disorderly conduct, nine for violations of the city traffic code, six for third degree assault, two for third degree burglary and one for grand larceny, first degree.

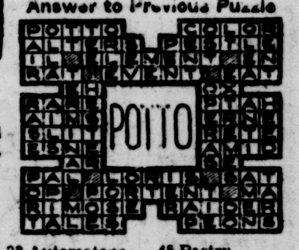

In closing his report the chief thanked "the honorable Board of Police Commissioners and every member of the police force for the splendid cooperation given me in the past year." He also thanked "The Kingston Daily Freeman, Ulster County News, Radio Station WKNY, local organizations and city departments."

Waffles Due for Change

Kentville, N. S. (AP)—Apple syrup for table use in the same manner as corn syrup is being developed by a new process at the Federal Experimental Station here. The syrup in its present form is rich and heavy, with a sweet tang of apples.

Gets More Firemen

New York, Jan. 19 (AP)—Fire Commissioner George P. Monaghan yesterday drastically cut his department's division of licenses to get more firemen "back in harness" in the event of emergencies. The commissioner chopped the 81-man division of licenses for places of public assembly to 34 members. He called it "a sheer waste of manpower" to continue the higher figure. His order immediately was followed by the retirement of the division's commanders' Battalion Chief Andrew X. Quinn, and one of its two captains, George T. Garlington. The division, aided by local station firemen, supervises fire regulations at about 2,500 theatres, stadiums, restaurants, assembly halls and other public places.

2 Traffic Mishaps Occur Thursday

Mrs. Alice Williams, 29, of 50 Rock street, and her 17-month-old son, John Francis, were slightly injured in a traffic mishap at Hasbrouck avenue and East Chester street yesterday and Kenneth Blanschan, of Hurley, escaped serious injury when the car he was driving struck a pole near 399 Washington avenue last night.

Mrs. Williams and her son were treated at Kingston Hospital, the former for injuries of the legs and the latter for slight injuries of the face and head.

The police report at 4:41 p. m., said the sedan operated by Mrs. William's husband Frank, was headed west on Hasbrouck avenue and a car operated by George Nagy, of East Kingston, was going north on East Chester street when they collided.

The Nagy coupe, the report said, was driven through a hedge and on the lawn of the Mrs. Harriet Lippincott property at 328 Hasbrouck avenue, and a street sign was knocked down.

An ambulance was called, but the injured were taken to the hospital before its arrival.

The report at 11:19 p. m. on the other accident, said Blanschan was driving west on North Front street into Washington avenue when the driver "lost control of the car and ran into a pole and traffic meter." The pole in front of 399 Washington avenue was damaged, the meter was knocked down and the front of the car damaged.

22,000 Are Idle

Detroit, Jan. 19 (AP)—A combination of strikes and resultant material shortages idled approximately 22,000 auto plant workers yesterday. Managements today expressed hope that normal production would soon resume. Chrysler laid off 15,500 men after a strike of 600 workers at a supply firm and Packard sent home 4,000 men for a similar reason.

Here's how our rapidly-growing mobilization machine shapes up. Key man in the picture is Defense Director Charles E. Wilson, who exercises overall direction, control and coordination of rearmament activities. Chief operating agency for production is Defense Production Administration headed by William Harrison.

FOR HAULING GUNS AND BUTTER—Moving down the same assembly line at Detroit's Dodge plant are Army trucks and civilian route-van delivery vehicles. They make a picture symbolic of the nation's rearmament program as the first of some $92,000,000 worth of Army cargo vehicles come off the final assembly line.

U.N. Prowl Troops

the mobilization of American fighting power.

"With considerable reluctance, the theater has consented to the release of the extraordinarily able commanders who have so distinguished themselves in Korea."

Maj. Gen. Emmett (Rosie) O'Donnell was moved this week from command of B-29 bombers in the Far East to resume command of the 15th Air Force at March Field, Calif. Expansion of the air force from 48 to more than 70 groups was responsible for his transfer back to training operations.

Cloudy skies limited allied aerial activity to scattered sections, and the enemy took advantage of the weather to move troops and supplies. U.N. fighters and light bombers flew 437 of the 663 sorties Thursday, ranging deep into enemy territory on armed reconnaissance missions to hit at communications, troops and supply concentrations.

Russia built the first multi-motored plane in 1913.

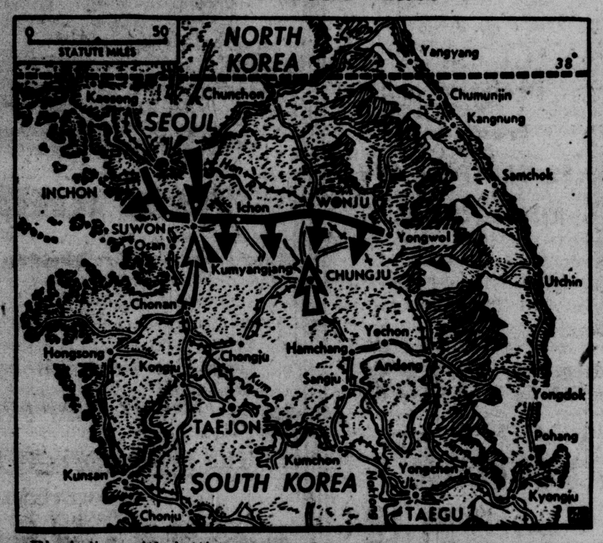

Forecasts Big Forces

Washington, Jan. 19 (AP)—Admiral Forrest P. Sherman testified today that "unless international conditions improve" it probably will be necessary to increase the nation's fighting forces above present goals of close to 3,500,000 persons. Sherman, top ranking navy officer and a member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, gave this "personal opinion" to the Senate preparedness subcommittee. At the same time he gave full support to the administration's new Universal Military Service and Training bill (UMST). It would lower he draft age from 19 to 18-year-old and lengthen required service from 21 to 27 months.

Editor Dies

New York, Jan. 19 (AP)—George MacDonald, 65, assistant managing editor of the New York Daily Mirror, died suddenly last night at his Brooklyn home. A veteran of more than 45 years in the newspaper business, he served with the Mirror almost continuously since the tabloid was founded in 1924.

Where Reds Mass

Black line with jutting arrows shows where a 90,000-man Chinese force is believed to be building up, Jan. 18, for an expected assault against the Allies in southern Korea. United Nations probing forces fought a fierce battle with Chinese defenders inside Kumyangjang. Otherwise the front was quiet.

Kesselring Play Closes

New York, Jan. 19 (AP)—Joseph Kesselring's new play "Four Twelves Are 48" opened Wednesday night. The critics didn't like it. Yesterday the producers telegraphed the cast "as of tonight (Thursday) we are through with the multiplication tables and are taking up differential calculus." The two-performance run was the shortest of this theatrical season.

Case for $25,000 Is Started in Death Of Muriel Bush

An action to recover $25,000 for the death of Muriel Bush, 6-year-old daughter of Mrs. Gertrude Bush of Abeel street, was commenced in Supreme Court Thursday when a jury was taken. The action, continued in court today, is brought against the Cardinal Farley Military Academy of Rhinebeck and the operator of the vehicle owned by the academy as a result of an accident which took place at the entrance to the Rondout Creek bridge and Abeel street August 31, 1949.

The six-year-old girl was allegedly struck by the academy car at the bridge entrance as she was proceeding over the intersection. The Bush family resided only a few doors away and next to the firehouse on Abeel street.

Chris J. Flanagan and Robert Ortale appear for the plaintiff, Gertrude Bush, administratrix, and N. LeVan Haver appears for the defendant.

Koreans Want Arms

Pusan, Korea, Jan. 19 (AP)—Koreans will not oppose rearming of Japan as long as her onetime conqueror fights communism "the common enemy of mankind," a Republic of Korea leader declared today. P. H. Shinicky, chairman of the republic's National Assembly, also advocated, in an interview, "a complete armament of 1,000,000 Korean youths." He said that was as important—if not more so—as the rearming of the Japanese. Shinicky and two other assembly members will leave soon for Japan to seek arms for Korean youth, he disclosed.

Order Is Given

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 19 (AP)—The State Board of Regents today ordered the licensee of the controversial film, "The Miracle," to show why the license for exhibition of the motion picture should not be "rescinded and canceled." The Regents, which has jurisdiction over the licensing of motion pictures, described "The Miracle" as "sacrilegious."

Actor Takes Life

New York, Jan. 19 (AP)—Radio and motion picture actor Douglas Lamey, 32, clad in a Hollywood-type outfit of riding breeches and red T-shirt, shot and killed himself today in his fashionable East Side apartment, police reported. They said he had been melancholy since estrangement from his socialite wife and children several years ago. Police said he engaged in a runaway marriage in 1939 with Veronica Stearns, of Irvington-on-Hudson, then a 19-year-old debutante. They were divorced in Hollywood in 1945 after his wife accused him of tearing her clothes, smashing windows of her car and pretending to shoot her with an empty gun, police said.

Rabbi Marcus Dead

New York, Jan. 19 (AP)—Dr. Robert S. Marcus, 41, political director of the World Jewish Congress, died last night at Flower Hospital after a short illness. As a rabbi, he led congregations in Newburgh, N. Y., and Cedarhurst, N. Y. He was a native of Jersey City, N. J.

Here's how our rapidly-growing mobilization machine shapes up. Key man in the picture is Defense Director Charles E. Wilson, who exercises overall direction, control and coordination of rearmament activities. Chief operating agency for production is Defense Production Administration headed by William Harrison.

FOR HAULING GUNS AND BUTTER—Moving down the same assembly line at Detroit's Dodge plant are Army trucks and civilian route-van delivery vehicles. They make a picture symbolic of the nation's rearmament program as the first of some $92,000,000 worth of Army cargo vehicles come off the final assembly line.

the mobilization of American fighting power.

"With considerable reluctance, the theater has consented to the release of the extraordinarily able commanders who have so distinguished themselves in Korea."

Maj. Gen. Emmett (Rosie) O'Donnell was moved this week from command of B-29 bombers in the Far East to resume command of the 15th Air Force at March Field, Calif. Expansion of the air force from 48 to more than 70 groups was responsible for his transfer back to training operations.

Cloudy skies limited allied aerial activity to scattered sections, and the enemy took advantage of the weather to move troops and supplies. U.N. fighters and light bombers flew 437 of the 663 sorties Thursday, ranging deep into enemy territory on armed reconnaissance missions to hit at communications, troops and supply concentrations.

Russia built the first multi-motored plane in 1913.

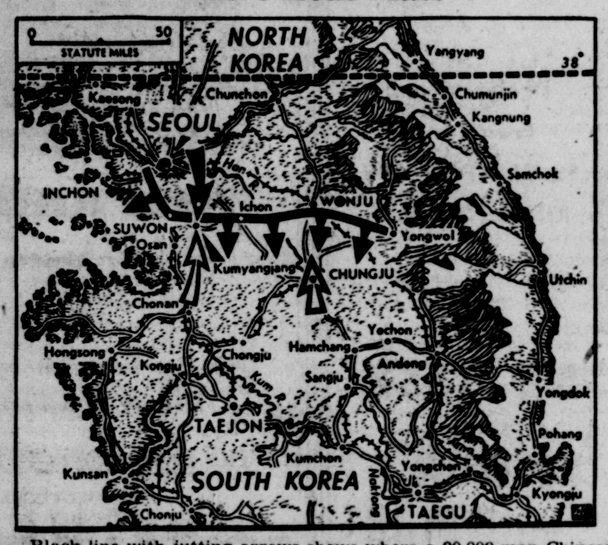

Forecasts Big Forces

Washington, Jan. 19 (AP)—Admiral Forrest P. Sherman testified today that "unless international conditions improve" it probably will be necessary to increase the nation's fighting forces above present goals of close to 3,500,000 persons. Sherman, top ranking navy officer and a member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, gave this "personal opinion" to the Senate preparedness subcommittee. At the same time he gave full support to the administration's new Universal Military Service and Training bill (UMST). It would lower he draft age from 19 to 18-year-old and lengthen required service from 21 to 27 months.

Editor Dies

New York, Jan. 19 (AP)—George MacDonald, 65, assistant managing editor of the New York Daily Mirror, died suddenly last night at his Brooklyn home. A veteran of more than 45 years in the newspaper business, he served with the Mirror almost continuously since the tabloid was founded in 1924.

Kesselring Play Closes

New York, Jan. 19 (AP)—Joseph Kesselring's new play "Four Twelves Are 48" opened Wednesday night. The critics didn't like it. Yesterday the producers telegraphed the cast "as of tonight (Thursday) we are through with the multiplication tables and are taking up differential calculus." The two-performance run was the shortest of this theatrical season.

Case for $25,000 Is Started in Death Of Muriel Bush

An action to recover $25,000 for the death of Muriel Bush, 6-year-old daughter of Mrs. Gertrude Bush of Abeel street, was commenced in Supreme Court Thursday when a jury was taken. The action, continued in court today, is brought against the Cardinal Farley Military Academy of Rhinebeck and the operator of the vehicle owned by the academy as a result of an accident which took place at the entrance to the Rondout Creek bridge and Abeel street August 31, 1949.

The six-year-old girl was allegedly struck by the academy car at the bridge entrance as she was proceeding over the intersection. The Bush family resided only a few doors away and next to the firehouse on Abeel street.

Chris J. Flanagan and Robert Ortale appear for the plaintiff, Gertrude Bush, administratrix, and N. LeVan Haver appears for the defendant.

Koreans Want Arms

Pusan, Korea, Jan. 19 (AP)—Koreans will not oppose rearming of Japan as long as her onetime conqueror fights communism "the common enemy of mankind," a Republic of Korea leader declared today. P. H. Shinicky, chairman of the republic's National Assembly, also advocated, in an interview, "a complete armament of 1,000,000 Korean youths." He said that was as important—if not more so—as the rearming of the Japanese. Shinicky and two other assembly members will leave soon for Japan to seek arms for Korean youth, he disclosed.

Order Is Given

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 19 (AP)—The State Board of Regents today ordered the licensee of the controversial film, "The Miracle," to show why the license for exhibition of the motion picture should not be "rescinded and canceled." The Regents, which has jurisdiction over the licensing of motion pictures, described "The Miracle" as "sacrilegious."

Actor Takes Life

New York, Jan. 19 (AP)—Radio and motion picture actor Douglas Lamey, 32, clad in a Hollywood-type outfit of riding breeches and red T-shirt, shot and killed himself today in his fashionable East Side apartment, police reported. They said he had been melancholy since estrangement from his socialite wife and children several years ago. Police said he engaged in a runaway marriage in 1939 with Veronica Stearns, of Irvington-on-Hudson, then a 19-year-old debutante. They were divorced in Hollywood in 1945 after his wife accused him of tearing her clothes, smashing windows of her car and pretending to shoot her with an empty gun, police said.

Blame Mine Gas

Kermit, W. Va., Jan. 19 (AP)—A "gaseous condition" spotted by federal mine inspectors only a few days ago was blamed today for the explosion that killed 11 men and injured two more in the Burning Springs Mine here. State Mines Chief Arch Alexander, who attributed yesterday's blast deep in the 32-year-old pit to the "gaseous condition," said state mine inspectors had reported the mine in good condition earlier this month.

Report Is Made By Ulster Veterans Service Agency

During the 14 months period from November 1, 1949 to December 31, 1950, the Ulster County Veterans Service Agency at 32 Main street, had contacts with 13,630 veterans or others interested in veterans' affairs and has offered services to the extent of 24,033 individuals.

In his annual report filed with the board of supervisors, Howard C. Shurter, director of the agency, reports that there was brought into the county during the 14 months period pensions in the sum of $56,131.20. Accrued benefits totaled $26,951.32. Burial allowances amounting to $8,071.52 were made and insurance benefits totaling $25,308.60 were received through the assistance of the agency. Disability compensation in the sum of $34,831.20 was received and it is estimated the agency was instrumental in getting subsistence allowances totaling $75,000. The total money brought into the county through assistance of the office was $228,293.84.

During the 14 months period the agency handled the reinstatement and conversion of $3,241,000 in National Service Life Insurance.

The figures for compensation, pension, insurance benefits are for the period of the report and many of the benefits will continue for many years, bringing annually into the county for the support of veterans or their dependants a very substantial sum of money.

Problems Increase

Director Shurter in his report states, "we, in the agency, have come to realize that the veterans' problems are growing more complex. Many still have an employment situation to deal with. Hundreds still have physical and mental disorders which in many cases grow worse at times, while housing, health and happiness of children and families are uppermost in the minds of all veterans whose normal economic lives were disrupted by their service in the armed forces."

Credit for assistance is given the New York State Division of Veterans' Affairs and the two counselors assigned to the Ulster county office. Thanks is given the officials of the county, city, members of the Ulster County Bar Association, American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Marine Corps League, Disabled American Veterans and other organizations which have given assistance to the agency.

Expenses

The administrative expenses of this agency totaled $17,709.63, including the salaries of the director, three veterans advisors and two stenographers. Two New York state counselors and one stenographer have their salaries paid by the New York State Division of Veterans' Affairs.

In addition to the office at 32 Main street, Kingston, branch offices have been maintained in Ellenville at the Wayside Inn, at Highland in the Legion building, in Saugerties at the welfare office and in Kerhonkson.

Report Is Given

Washington, Jan. 19 (AP)—President Truman and his cabinet listened today to a first hand report on the Korean fighting from military leaders just returned from the front. The briefing was presented by Gen. J. Lawton Collins, army chief of staff, and Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, air force chief. Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff sat in. When the cabinet session broke up reporters asked Attorney General McGrath if the Collins-Vandenberg report had been encouraging. He replied: "It was informative, I'll say that."

O'Donnell Favors

porters that "there are quite a few good targets for conventional bombing" in addition to possible A-bomb targets in China and Manchuria.

Other O'Donnell statements, made with apparent deliberation and careful choice of words:

"I never thought I'd see the day when we would have to sit back with our hands tied . . .

"We have been fighting distinctly under wraps since the Chinese Communists came into the war. . .

"I am in complete accord with the United Nations, but it makes a very poor substitute for military headquarters in a campaign. . .

"If we're going to fight, let's not hit 'em light, for heaven's sake. It's time people know that this is an all-out war. This is a global war. We won the first round but this is the second round and we are losing on points. . .

"Let's tighten our belts and become determined we're not going to take a shellacking."

Lauds B-29 Crews

O'Donnell sounded not unlike a West Point B squad coach, which he was from 1934 to 1938. Pride came into his voice as he lauded his B-29 crews in Korea.

"We broke all records," he said, adding: "There is very little standing in North Korea worthy of mention."

But he stressed that his Far East bombing group had been organized specifically to deliver the A-bomb. He said the group wound up fighting a day-to-day action, "putting out fires, so to speak."

O'Donnell returned here to resume active command of the 15th Air Force under the 70-group expansion program (from a present 48). He left command of the bombing group to his deputy, Brig. Gen. James E. Briggs.

The 44-year-old officer was optimistic about the situation in Korea to this extent: "It is not a rout. If our ground commanders want to hang onto our toe-hold I am confident we can do it."

He did not elaborate because "the ground situation is beyond the scope of my book."

Might Be Called

There were reports that the Armed Services Committee might call O'Donnell to express his views at a hearing in Washington. Senators Brewster (R-Me) and McClellan (D-Ark) commented that "all weapons at our disposal" should be used to save American lives.

O'Donnell is no armchair commander. He led the first B-29 raid on Tokyo and saw extensive service in other Pacific areas during World War 2.

He also is no newcomer to press relations. He served as air force director of information for two years starting in August, 1946.

His friends say the general is "an intensely keen competitor whether in sports or war."

Urges Use of Bomb

Maj. Gen. Emmett "Rosie" O'Donnell, just returned from the Far East Bombing Command, gestures at March Air Base, Calif., when he recommended use of the "most effective weapon we have" — the atom bomb — Red China. (AP Wirephoto)

Lost in Ocean

San Francisco, Jan. 19 (AP)—Radio operator Douglas Smith, 28, of Brooklyn, tumbled from a Korean airlift plane to death in the Pacific Ocean yesterday. Whether the plunge was accidental or deliberate was not known. A radio message from the plane, en route to San Francisco from Honolulu, said Smith "removed the right escape hatch and leaped from the plane" while it was flying at 7,000 feet 750 miles off the Pacific coast. The operating company, Seaboard and Western Airlines, said Smith "fell from an escape hatch which was found open."

Mate Loses Case

Baltimore, Jan. 19 (AP)—Testimony showed the ship's mate was cross-eyed, couldn't read charts or steer a course, Federal Judge Calvin Chestnut ruled yesterday. So the judge ruled against Somerset Seafood Co. in its suit to collect $65,000 for the loss of the oyster boat T. H. Anderson. The boat was sunk Oct. 15, 1949, when it rammed the sunken hull of the battleship Texas, consigned to Virginia waters off Tangier Sound in target practice before World War 1.

Bakers Strike

Santiago, Chile, Jan. 19 (AP)—Chile faced bread shortages and transportation curtailments today as some 6,000 striking bakery, railroad and race track employes defied government orders to return to their jobs. The strikes, which originated in the Santiago area yesterday, were termed by the government as Communist inspired. President Gabriel Gonzalez Videla refused to meet walkout leaders until the workers returned to their jobs.

O'Donnell Stand On A-Bombing May Hurt Future

Washington, Jan. 19 (AP) — The assertion by Maj. Gen. Emmett (Rosie) O'Donnell, on his arrival from Korea in California, that the A-bomb should be used on Red China aroused private speculation here about his future.

His declarations immediately recalled that the last Air General who ventured into the field of international policies is now retired. Maj. Gen. Orvil Anderson got involved last summer in the debate about preventive war. He told reporters that if he was ordered to, "I can break up Russia's five A-bomb nests in a week." When Anderson said that he was commandant of the Air War College at Maxwell Base, Ala. Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, Air Force chief of staff, suspended him immediately, then six weeks later announced Anderson was being transferred to command of a technical training unit in Texas. Anderson requested retirement. It was granted. There was no indication whether any action against O'Donnell is contemplated.

Policy Makers Shudder

President Truman has been questioned at several news conferences on the subject of atomic bomb use.

On June 29 he declined to say whether it might be used in Korea; on July 27 he said the bomb's use was not then under consideration; on Nov. 30 he said active consideration was being given to use of the bomb against Chinese Communists if that step was necessary. But this latter comment was followed a few hours later by a White House statement that: there had been no new consideration of using the bomb; the President is the only one who can authorize its use and he had not done so.

To Ban Use of Nickel

Washington, Jan. 19 (AP)—The government is about ready to ban non-essential use of nickel—such as for automobile trim, a National Production Authority (NPA) official told Congress today. David Carson, chief of NPA's iron and steel division, said the order will be issued "in the next day or so." Carson told the Senate Small Business Committee the order will earmark the short supply of nickel for military purposes and essential consumer needs.

High Bail Is Set

New York, Jan. 19 (AP)—High bail was set today for two brothers charged with bribery and conspiracy in alleged attempts to fix college basketball games. Bronx County Judge Harry Stackell set bail of $50,000 for Benjamin Schwartzberg, 35, of Brooklyn, and of $40,000 for his brother, Irving, 36, of Queens.

Slight Decrease In Delinquency Is Reported by Judge

There was a slight decrease in the number of formal delinquency cases disposed of in Children's Court during the past year, according to the annual report of Judge John M. Cashin filed with the board of supervisors. However the number of informal cases increased slightly. A formal case is one in which a petition has been filed, an informal case is one in which an adjustment is made without the filing of a complaint.

Cases of neglect also decreased but the number of physically handicapped children handled by the court increased.

The number of adults brought into Children's Court increased, during 1949 the number of formal adult cases was 63 and in 1950 the number increased to 71. One adult case was handled informally in 1950.

194 Formal Cases

In the annual report for 1950, which covers a 14 months period up to January 1, 1951, Judge Cashin states there were 194 formal cases disposed of and 16 informal. Of these 50 were formal delinquency cases and 15 informal cases. Neglect cases decreased from 32 in 1949 to only four during 1950. Physically handicapped cases increased 12 to a total of 59, of which 31 were boys and 28 girls. Neglect cases which were adjudicated by the court resulted in the children being committed to the care of the welfare commissioner for placement in homes.

Most of the adult cases were what is known as "support proceedings" in which petitions were filed by wives or other interested parties charging a husband or father with failure to provide adequate support for the wife or children. In such cases the respondent either was ordered to contribute to the support and maintenance of his family or he agreed to do so voluntarily and the petition was dismissed.

During the year consent was granted to two girls under the age of 16, but over 14 years of age to marry.

Six boys and two girls were certified to institutions for mental defectives.

Appreciate Assistance

In his report Judge Cashin acknowledges the assistance given his office by the children's workers of the Ulster County Department of Public Welfare, the probation officer, Catholic Charities agent, sheriff and his staff, state and city police and various police departments of the county.

Burglary and unlawful entry and stealing headed the list of offenses for which delinquency charges were brought. There were twelve boys involved in burglary and unlawful entry and the same number charged with stealing. Five boys were before the court for auto stealing. Two boys and one girl came before the court on charges of being ungovernable. Sex offenses accounted for one charge against a boy and three girls. Acts of carelessness or mischief brought 11 boys and one girl before the court. There was one case of injury to person and one boy was brought before the court on a charge of operating an automobile without a license and leaving the scene of an accident.

Handicapped Children

There were 29 cases of boys and 24 cases of girls before the court under the heading of physically handicapped children in need of physical care and two boys and four girls in need of education. Physical care was ordered in 52 cases, education ordered in four cases and petition was denied in three cases.

Among the adult cases before the court 60 men were charged with inadequate support of dependents; eight were charged with children born out of wedlock and there was one man and two women brought before the court for violation of the education law.

All cases in Children's Court are before the Court in secret session and none of the cases which come before the court are given publicity. Names of offenders are not revealed and little publicity is ever given the work of the judge of the Children's Court because of the restrictions placed by law upon the action of that court.

The report, together with the statistical breakdown of the work, was filed with the Board of Supervisors at its organization meeting this week.

Resolution Introduced

Washington, Jan. 19 (AP)—A bipartisan resolution was introduced in the House today calling on the United Nations to brand Communist China the aggressor in Korea.

Blame Mine Gas

Kermit, W. Va., Jan. 19 (AP)—A "gaseous condition" spotted by federal mine inspectors only a few days ago was blamed today for the explosion that killed 11 men and injured two more in the Burning Springs Mine here. State Mines Chief Arch Alexander, who attributed yesterday's blast deep in the 32-year-old pit to the "gaseous condition," said state mine inspectors had reported the mine in good condition earlier this month.

Report Is Made By Ulster Veterans Service Agency

During the 14 months period from November 1, 1949 to December 31, 1950, the Ulster County Veterans Service Agency at 32 Main street, had contacts with 13,630 veterans or others interested in veterans' affairs and has offered services to the extent of 24,033 individuals.

In his annual report filed with the board of supervisors, Howard C. Shurter, director of the agency, reports that there was brought into the county during the 14 months period pensions in the sum of $56,131.20. Accrued benefits totaled $26,951.32. Burial allowances amounting to $8,071.52 were made and insurance benefits totaling $25,308.60 were received through the assistance of the agency. Disability compensation in the sum of $34,831.20 was received and it is estimated the agency was instrumental in getting subsistence allowances totaling $75,000. The total money brought into the county through assistance of the office was $226,293.84.

During the 14 months period the agency handled the reinstatement and conversion of $3,241,000 in National Service Life Insurance.

The figures for compensation, pension, insurance benefits are for the period of the report and many of the benefits will continue for many years, bringing annually into the county for the support of veterans or their dependants a very substantial sum of money.

Problems Increase

Director Shurter in his report states, "we, in the agency, have come to realize that the veterans' problems are growing more complex. Many still have an employment situation to deal with. Hundreds still have physical and mental disorders which in many cases grow worse at times, while housing, health and happiness of children and families are uppermost in the minds of all veterans whose normal economic lives were disrupted by their service in the armed forces."

Credit for assistance is given the New York State Division of Veterans' Affairs and the two counselors assigned to the Ulster county office. Thanks is given the officials of the county, city, members of the Ulster County Bar Association, American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Marine Corps League, Disabled American Veterans and other organizations which have given assistance to the agency.

Expenses

The administrative expenses of this agency totaled $17,709.63, including the salaries of the director, three veterans advisors and two stenographers. Two New York state counselors and one stenographer have their salaries paid by the New York State Division of Veterans' Affairs.

In addition to the office at 32 Main street, Kingston, branch offices have been maintained in Ellenville at the Wayside Inn, at Highland in the Legion building, in Saugerties at the welfare office and in Kerhonkson.

Report Is Given

Washington, Jan. 19 (AP)—President Truman and his cabinet listened today to a first hand report on the Korean fighting from military leaders just returned from the front. The briefing was presented by Gen. J. Lawton Collins, army chief of staff, and Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, air force chief. Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff sat in. When the cabinet session broke up reporters asked Attorney General McGrath if the Collins-Vandenberg report had been encouraging. He replied: "It was informative, I'll say that."

O'Donnell Favors

porters that "there are quite a few good targets for conventional bombing" in addition to possible A-bomb targets in China and Manchuria.

Other O'Donnell statements, made with apparent deliberation and careful choice of words:

"I never thought I'd see the day when we would have to sit back with our hands tied . . .

"We have been fighting distinctly under wraps since the Chinese Communists came into the war. . .

"I am in complete accord with the United Nations, but it makes a very poor substitute for military headquarters in a campaign. . .

"If we're going to fight, let's not hit 'em light, for heaven's sake. It's time people know that this is an all-out war. This is a global war. We won the first round but this is the second round and we are losing on points. . .

"Let's tighten our belts and become determined we're not going to take a shellacking."

Lauds B-29 Crews

O'Donnell sounded not unlike a West Point B squad coach, which he was from 1934 to 1938. Pride came into his voice as he lauded his B-29 crews in Korea.

"We broke all records," he said, adding: "There is very little standing in North Korea worthy of mention."

But he stressed that his Far East bombing group had been organized specifically to deliver the A-bomb. He said the group wound up fighting a day-to-day action, "putting out fires, so to speak."

O'Donnell returned here to resume active command of the 15th Air Force under the 70-group expansion program (from a present 48). He left command of the bombing group to his deputy, Brig. Gen. James E. Briggs.

The 44-year-old officer was optimistic about the situation in Korea to this extent: "It is not a rout. If our ground commanders want to hang onto our toe-hold I am confident we can do it."

He did not elaborate because "the ground situation is beyond the scope of my book."

Might Be Called

There were reports that the Armed Services Committee might call O'Donnell to express his views at a hearing in Washington. Senators Brewster (R-Me) and McClellan (D-Ark) commented that "all weapons at our disposal" should be used to save American lives.

O'Donnell is no armchair commander. He led the first B-29 raid on Tokyo and saw extensive service in other Pacific areas during World War 2.

He also is no newcomer to press relations. He served as air force director of information for two years starting in August, 1946.

His friends say the general is "an intensely keen competitor whether in sports or war."

Which may explain one of his final comments. Speaking of United Nations' deliberations before making a military move, he said:

Urges Use of Bomb

Lost in Ocean

San Francisco, Jan. 19 (AP)—Radio operator Douglas Smith, 28, of Brooklyn, tumbled from a Korean airlift plane to death in the Pacific Ocean yesterday. Whether the plunge was accidental or deliberate was not known. A radio message from the plane, en route to San Francisco from Honolulu, said Smith "removed the right escape hatch and leaped from the plane" while it was flying at 7,000 feet 750 miles off the Pacific coast. The operating company, Seaboard and Western Airlines, said Smith "fell from an escape hatch which was found open."

Mate Loses Case

Baltimore, Jan. 19 (AP)—Testimony showed the ship's mate was cross-eyed, couldn't read charts or steer a course, Federal Judge Calvin Chestnut ruled yesterday. So the judge ruled against Somerset Seafood Co. in its suit to collect $65,000 for the loss of the oyster boat T. H. Anderson. The boat was sunk Oct. 15, 1949, when it rammed the sunken hull of the battleship Texas, consigned to Virginia waters off Tangier Sound in target practice before World War 1.

Bakers Strike

Santiago, Chile, Jan. 19 (AP)—Chile faced bread shortages and transportation curtailments today as some 6,000 striking bakery, railroad and race track employes defied government orders to return to their jobs. The strikes, which originated in the Santiago area yesterday, were termed by the government as Communist inspired. President Gabriel Gonzalez Videla refused to meet walkout leaders until the workers returned to their jobs.

O'Donnell Stand On A-Bombing May Hurt Future

Washington, Jan. 19 (AP)—The assertion by Maj. Gen. Emmett (Rosie) O'Donnell, on his arrival from Korea in California, that the A-bomb should be used on Red China aroused private speculation here about his future.

His declarations immediately recalled that the last Air General who ventured into the field of international policies is now retired. Maj. Gen. Orvil Anderson got involved last summer in the debate about preventive war. He told reporters that if he was ordered to, "I can break up Russia's five A-bomb nests in a week." When Anderson said that he was commandant of the Air War College at Maxwell Base, Ala. Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, Air Force chief of staff, suspended him immediately, then six weeks later announced Anderson was being transferred to command of a technical training unit in Texas. Anderson requested retirement. It was granted. There was no indication whether any action against O'Donnell is contemplated.

Policy Makers Shudder

Official Washington is stepping gingerly through a maze of delicate international situations. So the policy makers shudder at the possible impact abroad of vigorously phrased comments by generals.

President Truman has been questioned at several news conferences on the subject of atomic bomb use.

On June 29 he declined to say whether it might be used in Korea; on July 27 he said the bomb's use was not then under consideration; on Nov. 30 he said active consideration was being given to use of the bomb against Chinese Communists if that step was necessary. But this latter comment was followed a few hours later by a White House statement that: there had been no new consideration of using the bomb; the President is the only one who can authorize its use and he had not done so.

To Ban Use of Nickel

Washington, Jan. 19 (AP)—The government is about ready to ban non-essential use of nickel—such as for automobile trim, a National Production Authority (NPA) official told Congress today. David Carson, chief of NPA's iron and steel division, said the order will be issued "in the next day or so." Carson told the Senate Small Business Committee the order will earmark the short supply of nickel for military purposes and essential consumer needs.
